“AUTUMN”
The air becomes bitter, night is darker
The leaves become amber and crimson until they perish
Phantoms and occultists come alive
Potatoes are harvested
Apples are bobbed at galas.

Foddershack and scarecrows on display
Football games are played
This is the time of pumpkin spice and everything nice
Stories are told and houses are haunted
Pumpkin spice lattes and hot chocolate are essential.

The aroma of the air is crisp and clean
The sky becomes darker as the days become shorter
The wind blows the wild leaves, rustling them into a frenzy
Autumn brings us both happiness and sadness, for we say goodbye to summer and hello to approaching winter.

AUTUMN
Autumn, a fruitful and wondrous time of year, if not a bit spooky.
The smell of pumpkin spice wafting in the air,
Spectors roaming in the night but don’t be scared they’re not looking to cause a fright!

The air can be warm or brisk, but who doesn’t like a surprise?
A great time for family and friends, young and old.
Gathering together and observing Thanksgiving whilst watching football on the TV.

The leaves will turn crimson, orange and brown
as they are falling to the ground,
But do not fear for they will be back next year.
But alas, all good things must come to an end,
As we say goodbye to Autumn........ in hopes we will see it again.

By: Anthony Greene

FALL IS HERE
The colorful leaves of fall float to the ground, orange, crimson, brown
Thanksgiving and halloween are approaching
The weather takes a turn bringing chills and frost
The fall festivals begin, apple bobbing, and ghost stories alike

Mums start to come alive
Scarecrows come out of hiding
Pumpkins carved, corn turns into foddershack
Frosty air begins to blow
Squirrels running, hiding, collecting for the winter
Families join together, feasting, telling stories of old and making new ones..... Fall.

“AUTUMN”
Just after summer she arrives sudden and brief as a gust of wind only passing through momentarily and with her, beauty une-unknown to other seasons the trees letting go of their weight offering gorgeous visibility of scarlet, saphorous, and titan.

Children come out to revel and bask in her causatum bundled up ever so slight so the brisk air will not bite love and laughter all around, never a frown boundless goodies and treats to share living happily without a care
Giving us all the joy she can before she must depart.

So cherish her while she is here she will not tarry long admire the divine days she provides with the foliage so kaleidoscopic and the larder almost too good to eat the short season of days with inmeasurable bliss.

Hate
By Franklin Graham

I recently had the privilege to pray for our nation and its leaders at a gathering led by President Donald Trump. I asked for God’s help and wisdom for our president and Vice President Mike Pence, along with our congressional leaders as they attempt to help us our troubled country through some very turbulent times.

America has faced its seminal immorality to the world. We’ve neglected many of the poor and suffering and are guilty of almsgiving, pride and self-indulgence. We are broken—spiritually, morally and divided politically and racially—following whichever direction the culture seems to drive us.

Sadly, the voices of hate have grown increasingly loud and insulting, and it was my prayer then, and now, that God would silence these voices like He did the mouths of the lies of a Daniel who was hurled into the den.

While those hateful voices have risen on both sides of the political aisle, we must realize that ultimately, what is transpiring in our nation is an increasing hatred of God, His Word and His ways.

As we learn to love righteousness and hate sin, we must never, ever, turn to hating our fellow man.

In my lifetime, I have never seen such blatant and incessant animosity toward Christ and His followers. We should not be surprised, because the Scripture tells us that if they hated the Lord Jesus Christ, they rarely would despise those who worship and serve Him.

I think of the recent ruling from the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of Bremerton, Wash., high school football coach Joe Kennedy. For eight years, Coach Kennedy took a knee and prayed silently after games. But in 2017, he was suspended by the school district when he refused to discontinue his prayers, and his contract was not renewed.

The federal appeals court said in their appalling ruling: “When Kennedy knelt and prayed on the 50-yard line immediately after games, while in view of students and parents, he spoke as a public employee . . . and his speech, therefore, was constitutionally unprotected.”

Can you believe it? A coach, public or parochial, is not allowed to simply bow and silently pray because it might offend someone? Not only that, but in the eyes of the court, this violates the First Amendment, which is supposed to guarantee and protect our religious freedom! As First Liberty Institute, which defended Coach Kennedy, said: “This is simply wrong. It is not America, and it is not the America contemplated by our Constitution.”

So, let’s be clear. While believers should never raise voices of hate against anyone, the real object of hate in our nation (that has been so blessed by God) is none other than good counsel. What has been historically called good and righteous is now called evil, and what was evil is now called good. The Bible says, “Love of those who call evil good, and good evil, who put darkness for light and light for darkness” (Isaiah 5:20).

In what I can only describe as unbelievable, the Southern Poverty Law Center in Montgomery, Ala., has labeled a number of Christian organizations such as the Family Research Council led by my friend Tony Perkins, and D. James Kennedy Ministries—as “organizations simply because they hold to the teachings of the Bible on key social issues like same-sex marriage. Powerful contributors to the SPLC include Apple CEO Tim Cook and financial services giant J.P. Morgan.” The leftist-progressive media frequently reference the SPLC in their reporting.

The only thing I believe the Bible says we should hate are the very things God hates:

“There are six things that the Lord hates, seven of whom are an abomination to him: a covetous man, a proud man, a lying tongue, hatred, a boasting man, an evil look, false witness, and one who sows discord among brothers” (Proverbs 6:16-19).

“And he that is unjust, and that maketh himself pure and holy and seeth his brother go after the abomination and filthiness of his soul, and saith, I will keep myself from him that causeth a sabbath to be broken, and from him that saith, A fast day; shall come into the temple of the Lord; who hath this done?” (Isaiah 58:9).

“The Lord seeth the righteous, but his soul hateth the wicked and the one who loves violence” (Psalm 11:3).

“O you who hate the Lord, hate evil!” (Psalm 97:10).

So, while we stand against its contempt and cruelty, especially toward those who are the Lord Jesus Christ, we are called not to return evil for evil, or insult for insult (1 Peter 3:9-11). Instead, we are to love our enemies and pray for those who launch attacks against us.

Jesus said, “And this is the judgment, the light has come into the world and people loved the darkness rather than the light because their deeds were evil. For everyone who does wicked things hates the light and does not come to the light, lest his works should be exposed” (John 3:19-20).

We need to pray for those who hate the Gospel, those who hate the Name of Jesus, those who hate His followers—they will never come out of their self-imposed darkness and into the light of God’s forgiveness through faith and repentance in Christ, who gave Himself for our sins.

The love of Jesus is the supreme antidote to the hate of our culture. It is the love that sets us apart from our iniquities and will save whomever will call upon His Name. Scripture quotations are taken from the Holy Bible, English Standard Version.

Hospice Choices
Brett Price, Outreach Programs Coordinator
Hospice and Palliative Care of the Blue Ridge

Over the past few years several new hospice providers have begun to serve our area. Many of these agencies are not rooted in our community. Some of them are not clear regarding their identity and simply tell patients, “We are Hospice.” You and your families have a right by law to choose your own hospice provider. Most importantly, you need to understand that all hospice providers are not the same. It can become confusing.

Hospice and Palliative Care of the Blue Ridge has served our community for twenty-five years. We continue to operate as a non-profit organization and believe that Non-profit Hospices are the backbone of quality care. Contrary to the mindset of corporate, for-profit hospices we do not believe that hospices is big business. Patients and families always come first.

Throughout Mitchell, Avery and Yancey counties our nurses, certified nursing assistants, social workers and chaplains are assigned to each individual patient. Nursing services are provided round-the-clock. Volunteers are available to allow caregivers time to rest or run errands and to provide patients with companionship.

Our team is a tightly knit group of persons who have answered a call to serve in a field that requires considerable strength, grace and above all, faith. Our local staff turnover rate reflects our belief that those who serve our community are uniquely called to perform the work God has placed in their hearts.

Through the care we have provided to several generations our promise has proven to be true and faithful. It is our desire to continue providing the highest quality of care to you and your loved ones for many years to come.

If you would like us to care for your loved one, ask for us by name—Hospice and Palliative Care of the Blue Ridge. We are proud to serve each and every person who entrusts us with providing the highest quality of care possible.

Brett Leftis to Teach Advocacy Workshop
By Susan Larson
Mitchell County

Leaders in area nonprofit organizations are often called on to advocate on behalf of their organization, whether to the elected officials and the administrators who make the policies that affect their clients or to potential funders. Brett Leftis, CEO of The Crossnore School, and a highly successful advocate on issues affecting children, will be the presenter for a WNC Nonprofit Pathways lunch-and-learn workshop “Effective Advocacy” on Tuesday, November 14, from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. at the ARC of the TRAC Gallery at 269 Oak Avenue in Spruce Pine. The cost is $20 for the first registrant from an organization and $15 each for up to three more from the same organization. Lunch is included in the fee.

Participants will learn how to make an impact on the public policies that affect the people their nonprofits serve. Using examples from participants, Leftis will distinguish between legislative and administrative advocacy. Nonprofit leaders will leave the workshop with the knowledge to craft their own public policy, the confidence to use their own voice to implement it, and the assurance that they will not be jeopardizing their nonprofit status when they do.

Brett Leftis, J.D., is the CEO of The Crossnore School and previously was the SD of Charlotte’s Council for Children’s Rights. He has spent over two decades serving children in need. Early in his career he worked in a residential program for at-risk children, served as a volunteer Guardian ad Litem and worked as a youth minister. After graduating from law school, he became a child advocate attorney and nonprofit executive. He was Executive Director of Charlotte’s Council for Children’s Rights before joining The Crossnore School in 2013.

His workshop on advocacy is intended for nonprofit organizations of any size and is structured both for individual attendees and for teams from the same nonprofit. For a link to register for the workshop, please send an email to gslarson@gmail.com or call Susan Larson at 828-765-2652.
Lessons About Abortion from Abraham’s Test of Faith
By Rev. Mark H. Creech

Genesis chapter 22 is one of the greatest chapters in the entire Bible. It records the supreme test of Abraham’s faith. God called upon his servant to sacrifice his son Isaac. The circumstances seemed to shatter all of Abraham’s hopes for the future.

Abraham and Isaac went to Mount Moriah. The Lord had told Abraham to take his son and sacrifice him as an offering. Abraham needed to obey the command of the Lord, or his son would die.

Abraham prepared to sacrifice Isaac, but at the last moment, an angel prevented him from killing his son. The angel spoke to Abraham and said, "Abraham, do not harm Isaac, for I am your son, and I have given him to you in the flesh as an offering to the Lord."

Abraham then looked up and saw a ram caught in a thicket by the horns. So he killed the ram and offered it as a sacrifice in place of Isaac.

The Bible records that the Lord was pleased with Abraham’s obedience and that he called Abraham his son, saying, "I am pleased with you, because you have obeyed my command."

The story of Abraham’s test of faith is a reminder that we should always be willing to obey God, even when it seems difficult or painful. It is a call to trust in God and to do what he asks, even when it may be difficult to understand.

Do You Hear What I Hear?
By Judy Griffin
Mitchell and Avery Counties

For ye shall go out with joy, and be led forth with peace: the mountains and the hills shall break forth before you into singing; and all the trees of the field shall clap their hands. (Isaiah 55:12, KJV)

Strong winds and intense rains recently hammered the area as remnants of a hurricane made their way north. Then, almost suddenly, the colors of Fall burst on the scene. And oh the beauty to behold! No wonder people travel from far away to come to the little corner of creation that we call home. Who can look around at such a glorious sight and not be filled with awe?

I often contemplate the construction of two, yes two Correctional Institutions in such close proximity to one another. And to think they would build them “snack dail” in the middle of this most beautiful setting! Then one day as I drove in it occurred to me that this is the ideal placement! After all, where else could a man and woman who has found himself in prison, be able to have an up close, panoramic view of the Mighty Hand of God?

I hear it a lot. Statements like, “I believe the Lord wanted me here. Chaplain. God definitely has my attention!” And, “I didn’t want to come to this camp... But look around Chap! God is showing off around here and telling me that I ain’t alone here. The Lord is with me!”

Maybe I’m still new to the region, but many times I wonder if those who have been here all of their lives can still see the images of God’s Hand at work revealing Love through creative anistry.

Bright colors and varied shapes of leaves flutter in the breeze and dance to some Divine choreography. So(ME) people grumble at the soon to be avalanche of leaves descending on their lawns. But for today, for the moment, eyes and ears are drawn to the display.

Then, an Epiphany! Truth becomes crystal clear as the words of Holy Scripture leap from the pages of God’s Word! That sound you hear isn’t simply leaves rustling in the wind... what you hear is the applause of Creation at the Works of the Creator.

Last month we asked the question, “Do you see what I see?” This month I wonder,

“Do you hear what I hear?” There is a concert of praise all around us. It is found with the sound of clapping and the voices of joyful worship!

High Country Prison Ministry serves as the sponsor for the Community Funded Chaplain at Avery Mitchell Correctional. We rely on the generosity of individuals and churches to keep the melodies of God heard by those contained within these walls. Will you help us share the glory found in the praises to the Lord?

Judy Griffin is pastor of Central Baptist Church in Spruce Pine and Community Funded Chaplain at Avery Mitchell Correctional Institution.

Editorial

By Barbara Harrell

This month I would like to share with you a most touching communication I received from a family who have been visiting in the US for a year. We are so quick to judge even our citizens, but even more so of people who are different from us. I am astounded to be more focused on prayer for the unity of the body of Christ. I think that means all Christians who believe Jesus was from God, were crucified, and rose from the dead to bring salvation to a lost world.

I wanted to leave this article in its original writing, just as it is. Listen with a loving heart.

I am a mother of a four year old girl who sings in different churches here in North Carolina and in some states here in US. If possible, I want her to publish in your newspaper to tell everyone thank you so much for their warm welcome. My family and I are first timers to be in the US. We thanked and praised God for what He has done for us. My daughter came in US at the age of 3 y/o. She celebrated her birthday here in US last May 3. She left our country when she was 3, now she is returning at the age of 4. She never set foot in the US. She sings these 6 songs all at the same time whenever we go to churches. She sings: "Jesus loves me, you and me. Jesus loves the little children. Little light of mine. I will make you fishers of men. I will make you fishers of men and I get a joy, joy, joy, joy, joy in my heart." She loves quoting this verse "1 John 1:8" before singing. To God be All the glory! I am writing to tell everyone how thankful we are and we are bless by your people here in America. We will always remember everyone in our prayers and hearts. My daughter’s name is Rosie Joan Hunt Rodriguez Galvez, but everyone calls her RJ. She sings in churches, baptismal choir at home and whenever there’s a chance, she will say so what ever place she is, she loves talking people that she loves Jesus and Jesus is in her heart. At her young age, she bless many people including us, her parents. We praise God for her. We will be leaving this Saturday and we don’t know if we were able to visit US again. My parents (Jan and Joan Rodriguez) live here and they are missionaries here in US. Proverbs 22:6 KJV "Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.”

God Bless,
Mrs. Denise Galvez

This precious family is now in the Philippines. Commit to pray with us for this family as they share the Word of God!

Sharing the Love
By Doug Harrell

The Bible is full of scriptures about love, sharing, and caring for each other. According to Jesus, the first great commandment is to love the Lord our God with all our heart, soul, and might and the second is to love your neighbor as yourself. “Jesus said unto him, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength.” Matthew 22:37-40 KJV

Where do we really start with love in our lives? Probably the first real experience we have is with a mother’s love for us as a child. I know that there are situations where this is not true and that is the foundation of the greatest tragedies in life for a child to not experience this love from the beginning. I know in many orphanages around the world this takes place and it mars the child for life. It is kind of like a baby calf that does not get to suck the mama cow when it is first born and to get the colostrum milk that is so critical to health of the newborn calf. Most calves just will not make it without this and if they do they are usually stunted in growth their entire lives. I know of examples where people have adopted children that were orphaned at birth and the majority of the time there are critical problems to be faced with those children later on no matter how much love is poured into their lives a later time.

When we are adults and start a family are we aware of how critical it is that this love be shown and the ways we should show it? Sometimes I look around and wonder if we really do understand the role of parent as God planned it. None of us are perfect, but it is critical that we constantly work on the love. The first and most important love in our lives needs to be for the Lord Jesus Christ, our loving Savior, for without this life is nothing at all. The next great love for a married person should be the love for our spouse. I know, sometimes that is not easy either. I don’t think that any married couple can truly live a life together without at least feeling underfoot with the other at some point in this relationship. From a child’s viewpoint, after the love of its parents for the child itself, the love of the parents for each other is of vital importance. Once the child is of the age of understanding, they need to see and experience the fact that mother and daddy love each other without fail. The fact that their love for each other is even stronger than the love for the child needs to be evident. I have found that it was critical for me to tell my wife daily how much I love her. This may sound a little crazy, but I think this does two things. The first is that it reminds her that the love for her is there, and it reminds me that I should always be loving her. There are always challenges in life of all kinds and we need to remind ourselves of our vows to each other and the Lord daily.

The love for the children is another thing altogether. So many people try to teach that we are to be our children’s best friend and not hurt their little feelings and ego’s. This is not scriptural at all, we are to love, guide and admonish our children. God’s word teaches us that there are results for our behavior and there are consequences for our behavior. “And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.” Romans 15:14 KJV. We are promised in Proverbs that if we will teach a child the way he should go, in his old age he will be true to that teaching. We are to be the example of love, compassion and strength to our children. We cannot tell them one thing and do another. Our talk talks but our walk talks louder than our talk talks as the song says. As parents of 5, grandparent of 21 and soon to be great-grandparents to 7, I have seen many examples of good and some not so good, even in the worst of times, we must be true to the Word and teach as correct, incorrect behavior, but we must always love the child and makes sure that they know that. If we have raised them correctly, they will already know that we are not happy with the wrong behavior, and they will also know that our love is unto that of God’s love for us, undying! God Bless and Happy Thanksgiving.

“So Much to Thank Him For”

By Jacob Willis
Yancey County

Thanksgiving is my favorite holiday. It is a time to name who and what we are thankful for. Being thankful is a Biblical idea. When we are thankful we access the fruits of the Spirit, namely joy and peace.
Thanking God is something that should begin our prayer and end our prayer each day. In this article I would like to use the acronym THANKS, to name a few things Christians everywhere should be thankful for.

Truth of God’s word. We can rest assured that God’s word is true and living. It is God’s standard and gives us practical guidelines to live our lives by. It tells the story of Jesus and God’s grace. It gives hope to the hopeless and grace to all who read it. It is a lamp to our feet, and a light to our path. We should be thankful for God’s guidance and strength.

Help from the Holy Spirit. There are things in life that are too hard for us. They are beyond our ability to cope with. The Holy Spirit is our comforter. He is a very present help in times of trouble. He illuminates our path and guides us in paths of righteousness.

Answers to prayer. When we pray to God, we are taking our cares to someone who can do something about it. God loves us and answers prayers according to His will and His purpose. That is because He knows what is best for us. I am thankful He an-dswers prayers. I am thankful sometimes His answer is no. I am thankful His answer is always best for me.

Needs that keep us humble, are something to thank God for. Sometimes we view our own inadequacies as weakness. We view the sin that so easily besets us as fatal.
We look around and see more of our needs: financial, physical, or mental. As debilit-ing, these are what God uses to keep us humble. These needs in our lives drive us to our knees and there we find strength. The needs in our lives draw us closer to God.
King who is coming back. Jesus is coming back. In a world of uncertainty and fear, one thing is sure. Jesus is coming. We will live with Him forever in a world that knows no fear or pain.

Salvation full and free. Salvation bought by the blood of Jesus to save us. We can’t earn it. We don’t deserve it, but He offers it freely to those who believe. Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

We have so much to thank Him for, so much to praise Him for, for you see He has been so GOOD to me.

God Bless You and Yours this Thanksgiving Season!
Holidays Plans
By David Burleson
Burke County

As the holidays approach, the needs in our community increase. Burke United Christian Ministries (BUCM) and our team of volunteers are in the process of making plans to meet those needs.

One need we are working to meet is providing a Thanksgiving meal. We need volunteers from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Thanksgiving Day to prepare the meal, cook the meal, provide support in the dining room and clean up after the meal. Also, if anyone would like to donate a fully cooked or uncooked turkey, please deliver them to BUCM before November 21. As you can see, there is a job and task for everyone. If you are interested in volunteering or donating items for our annual Thanksgiving meal, please call Elizabeth Norris at (828) 433-8075, ext. 237. Thanksgiving is a perfect day to show how thankful you are for everything you have by serving others.

During the holidays, one group that can get overlooked is our senior citizens. Annually, BUCM coordinates a Senior Santa program. Last Christmas, BUCM gave out over 200 Senior Santa bags. This is a ministry that supports those in our community who many times are living alone with few family members to support them. Our seniors’ smiles warm the hearts of staff and volunteers alike as they receive a bag filled with goodies. BUCM is collecting and preparing Season to give out Senior Santa bags again this year. Please consider donating some of the following items before November 10:

- Tinley Items (lotions, shampoo, soap, etc.)
- Hats, Gloves, Socks
- Crosswords, Word Searches, Jigsaw Puzzles
- Postage Stamps
- Coffee, Tea Bags, Hot Chocolate
- Apple Sauce, Pudding, Sweet Treats
- Cookies, Crackers
- Note Cards, Stationery, Pens
- Towels
- Other Items Seniors Might Enjoy

Everyone is invited to participate in the first annual BUCM Rivalry Run to Fight Hunger on Saturday, December 9 at 9 a.m. This inaugural event includes a 5K Run on the Freedom High School Cross Country Trail and a one-mile fun run for children under the age of 14 on the track at Freedom Park. The 5K will be a chip-timed event, and trophies will be awarded for fastest times for ages 15 to 18, adults and children. Adults and children will enjoy the safety and the healthy competition this race will provide, and trophies will be awarded in the best categories with age breaks every 5 years.

Our hope is that this race will change the culture of our four public schools and we can use this fund-raising campaign to help our community. Supporters of the high schools plus the “party crackers” (those with no affiliation to a Burke County High School) can earn points for the school of their choice by running, bringing non-perishable food, donating gently used clothing, or making a monetary contribution. The school with the most points will receive a traveling trophy to display for one year. Registration before November 24 is $20 for adults and $10 for children 14 and younger. Runners who register before November 24 will receive a specially designed long-sleeve T-shirt. Registration after November 24 will be $25 for adults and $15 for children 14 and under. To register go to the Burke United Christian Ministries website at www.bucm.net for more information. We are very fortunate to have a community that cares about others and is willing to demonstrate that care through service.

The Burke United Christian Ministries are partnering with the North Carolina Hunters to feed the hungry and local hunters to provide fresh venison to be used to feed the hungry. Local hunters can take their deer to Phillips Meat Processing at 48 View Street in Marion, North Carolina for processing. There is no expense to the hunter or to BUCM. The hunter only needs to call ahead and bring the deer by Monday through Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. If you are a hunter or know a hunter, please consider helping the hungry during the holidays.

Here are a some more ways to support the clients of Burke United Christian Ministries as the holidays approach:

The Inspiring Word

Hope
Pastor Terry Cheek Th.D.
McDowell County

Thanks for joining me for another publication of “The Blue Ridge Christian News” and my article “The Inspiring Word.”

Over the past couple of months our world has experienced tremendous grief and hardships. Natural disasters, violence and terrorism have inflicted a great deal of pain and suffering on our friends, family and neighbors. That is only part of what is in my heart this month. You see, as a bi-vocational pastor working a full-time job with the NC prison system I spend most of my day in the presence of men and women on both sides of the prison bars. Then, there is my work as a pastor. I meet countless people every week through ministry and counseling. They all have concerns, questions, even fears and they all are looking for answers. We can say, I believe truthfully, we all find ourselves searching for HOPE!

Beginning this month, I want to begin a series of articles written to bring HOPE to the readers. Maybe you find yourself struggling with drug or alcohol addiction or abuse, maybe it’s sexual immorality, anger, prejudice or lustfulness. Each one of us from time to time find ourselves searching for HOPE. These examples are only a few and do not scratch the surface of our struggles.

This month I want to address one of what America’s biggest struggles: our lack of spiritual HOPE. We live in a world in which we are told the only acceptable spiritual journey is one which consists with all others. Regardless of where you place your faith in God and how you practice your faith it is fixed and correct if it doesn’t offend anyone else. That may look good on paper and for a moment give a warm fuzzy feeling, but it doesn’t provide any hope! You and me to have spiritual hope we must have an absolute authority in our life. To say there is nothing absolute is an absolute! Where is hope found within an absolute that is nothing? We require an authority of HOPE! This hope exists, please read on.

Many people today know about Jesus, maybe they have been raised in church and followed in the footsteps of their parents, grandparents and other role models. Maybe they have memorized their Bible. Maybe they give to countless charities. Yet, they like the multitudes who have never heard of Jesus Christ lack spiritual hope because they have never entered into a personal relationship with Jesus Christ. Please understand, Christianity is not a membership, it’s a relationship which leads to a fellowship. This relationship with Jesus Christ is the spiritual hope that is needed in America. We need less social media and more personal fellowship, first, with Jesus Christ as our Lord and Savior. Then with fellow born again believers in the body of Christ. Without a genuine relationship with Christ we find ourselves vulnerable to futile powers, attacks from Satan. If you find yourself searching right now, I would like to make a bold and sincere statement. You are immortal, you have a soul and you will move from this life to an eternal existence. There are only two options, eternal life (heaven) or eternal death (hell) where there will be no end to the suffering. We cannot make a decision to turn over a new leaf, we can’t say I’m going to be a better person and have spiritual hope. We must submit to Jesus. Jesus said in John 3:16-17: “For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whatsoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.” God sent his Son into the world to redeem the world, but that the world through him might be saved.” If you doubt Jesus came to save and not to condemn, Yes, verse 16 emphasizes love but there is much deeper truth here. We were already condemned because of sin! The apostle Paul tells us in Romans 5:18: “Therefore as by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation, even so by the righteousness of one the free gift came upon all to justification of life.” The essence of one cause is the fall of man in the garden of Eden and the righteousness of one comes through Jesus Christ!

He is our spiritual HOPE! There is no other name under heaven by which we can be saved! God does not consist with other deities, God does not negotiate or compromise. He has given us HOPE if we will take it and submit our lives to Him as obedient children to a Father. Don’t live in spiritual hopelessness, if God has broken your heart, wherever you are right now you can call upon Jesus and ask Him to save you! His HOPE is real and permanent and genuine. There is spiritual HOPE is Jesus Christ and only in Him. For more information please contact me using the information given with this article.

Our time has come and gone, until next time remember there is HOPE in Jesus Christ!

Making Sense of Senselessness

By Jerry Lewis
McDowell County

Words seem insufficient in response to the shooting in Las Vegas. Still we want to make sense of senselessness. We want to make the inhumane, humane. In the absence of explanation, I’ll speak to response. How do we think? What do we do?

How do we think?
1. There is no excuse for senseless violence. Any kind. Anywhere. Since the shooter killed himself we will never fully know why he did what he did. Investigators will try to piece the pieces o the puzzle together and find answers. Whatever they discover, we must hold fast to the reality that senseless violence of any kind is reprehensible.

2. Words kill like weapons. In the Sermon on the Mount Jesus raised slander to the level of slaying. Words don’t just hurt, they kill. When 70,000 fans boo a bad kicker in a football game, something is that kid dies. When politicians and journalists throw verbal daggers at one another, someone dies. Whoever said sticks and stones may break my bones, but words will never hurt me was denying reality.

3. Enough is enough. We are becoming desensitized. Push notifications bombard phones. Cable news reports violence all day, every day. Video games turn killing into competition. Music celebrates murder. Even too much news of the Las Vegas tragedy can desensitize. Overexposure deadens the conscience.

What do we do?
1. If you see something, say something. Yes, this is Homeland Security’s slogan, but it belonged to Christianity long before the government trademarked it. Don’t tolerate any form of bigotry, hatred, or violence. Jesus called us salt and light. Salt and light do the same thing: they reveal. Salt is a cook’s friend— when the right amount is put in a recipe, it reveals the flavor of the food. No one has ever said, “The salt in this casserole takes good.” Light is a photographer’s best friend. People don’t look at a portrait and say, “I love how the light is coming in from the front.” Rather they talk about the subject of the photograph. As salt and light, we flavor the world without drawing attention to ourselves—rather we reveal Christ.

2. Choose your words carefully. James 1:19 says, “Be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger.” His statement is both counterevangelism and countercultural. Our culture is quick to anger, quick to speak and slow to hear. Proverbs 18:21 adds, “Death and life are in the power of the tongue.” Peter wrote, “Whenever you desire to love life and see good days, keep your tongue from speaking deceit.” (1 Peter 3:10)

3. Filter what comes in. Examine your intake of violence. How much do you see or hear in a given day? Resolve to reduce it. Proverbs 4:23 says, “Above all else guard your heart, for everything you do flows from it.” What goes in will come out. Kevin DeYoung writes, “Having a conscience is one mark of being a sentient human being. Scripture sometimes speaks of people who do not know what their right hand has done” (James 4:11), or of “children, who, have no knowledge of good or evil” (Deut. 1:39). Knowing right from wrong is what makes us functioning adults. To have a malfunctioning conscience is to be less than human.” Perhaps in DeYoung’s statement lies the explanation for the shooter’s capacity to cowardly and mercilessly kill 59 people: he was less than human. Something happened to his conscience. Scripture says our conscience can be seared (1 Timothy 4:2) or defiled. Ums 1:16 says, “To the pure, all things are pure, but to the defiled and unbelieving, nothing is pure; but both their minds and their consciences are defiled.”

Only Jesus can clean us up and clear our consciences. John said, “If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.” (1 John 1:9) Only Jesus can turn senselessness into salvation and make the inhumane, humane.

Smart Start

Receives Funding to Expand Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library Across NC

By Katie Styles

$10 million provided to deliver books right into the hands of North Carolina’s youngest children

Spruce Pine, NC — Smart Start and Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library are working together to bring books to North Carolina’s youngest children through funding provided by the North Carolina General Assembly. During the 2017 legislative session, North Carolina state lawmakers included $5.5 million in the second year for the Smart Start network to offer free books through Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library to children across the state. Imagination Library is a program created to foster a love of reading among children aged birth to five through the gift of a specially selected book delivered right to their home each month.

“We are thrilled that any Imagination Library is going to be offered to so many children in North Carolina,” said Dolly Parton, the creator of Imagination Library. “Working together we can help children dream more, learn more, care more, and be more.”

“Our state leaders clearly understand how important an early love of reading is for each child’s success in school and later in life,” said Cindy Watkins, the President of the North Carolina Partnership for Children that oversees the Smart Start network. “Smart Start works in every community to ensure young children have a strong foundation for starting kindergarten – now we can offer this important literacy program to all those children.”

Senator Ralph Hise and Representative Josh Dobson joined Smart Start and Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library representatives to kick off the statewide effort that will begin in 95% of North Carolina’s 100 counties. Because the program is offered by zip code, the initial launch will cover 85 percent of NC zip codes expanding to cover every county by the second year.

To find out more about Smart Start and Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library partnership, and to check availability and register a child, visit http://www.smartstart.org/dolly-parton-imagination-library.

For more information, please visit http://www.smartstart.org/about-smart-start/

Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library is a book gifting program for children from birth to age five. The mission of the program is to foster a love of reading in preschool children and ensure that every child born has books, regardless of their family’s income.

Smart Start is a network of 75 nonprofit local partnerships that serve all 100 North Carolina counties. This network is led by The North Carolina Partnership for Children, Inc. (NCPC) that ensures fiscal and programmatic accountability, and coordinates the statewide network to create better outcomes for children and families.

Clint’s Chronicles on the Funny Farm

The Rest of the Story
By Farmer Doug

Clint does not need an introduction or conclusion to this one. Laughter all the way from start to finish.

Funny Farm

Dear friends,

Regular readers of this column understand that I am rather poor excuse for a farmer. For the politically correct, I might be called “agriculturally challenged”. Whatever your term of endearment for my agrarian prowess, you must admit there are few dull moments when I am “one with the land”.

Those of you who have never been a farmer – like me – need to understand that hay grows twice a season… there’s the spring cut and the fall harvest… who the heck knew? It’s for sure I didn’t. Regardless, the chores needed doing and Farmer Clint was primed for action.

On My Own

One bright autumn Sunday afternoon Doug and Barbara made a run over the Iron Mountains to Johnson City, I believe they were searching for a tractor part or two. I sat idle for a wee bit, thinking I would watch an NFL game, but soon found myself restless. (There is a time in my life when I could vegetate in front of the bean nibs gazing mindlessly at grown men running up and down a field of grass trying to knock each other’s brains out. But life at Harrell Hill Farms cured me of that malady.) Morphing into “Farmer Clint” cured me of that desire, even the ability to just “hang out”. A man needs to be busy, busy, busy!

Earlier that day Doug came home from the field, his mouth set in a grim line. He had finally gotten the hay up and expressed concern that rain was heading our way. He already moved and stacked the lower field, next to Clint’s Betsy Harrell’s house, but it needed raking. Normally I would not even consider setting out on such a venture alone, but I had been on this farm nearly six months and believed myself to be an accomplished farm-hand now. Well call it an unequatable mental breakdown; treat it as a sudden lapse in adult judgment; or simply call it a surge of confidence in Farmer Clint’s heart, but I thought, “Hey, Clint, let’s take that hay and improve business!”

“One With The Land”

I drove to the barn and mounted that little Korean tractor I ownd the sucker! Not only that but I attached the hay rake and even tested the hicky-do that makes it spin around and around… heck, I remembered to raise the jack so it didn’t make sparks when I drove down the road, and I remembered not to “ride the clutch” - a charge lodged at me by Farmer Doug which I deny to this day. I was pretty grated, actually, to be ALONE and working the hay… life was good with Farmer Clint in the saddle and that hay rake following in my wake.

I was definitely in the “hay zone”, it seemed I could do no wrong. I stood back and stared in wonder at the perfectly manicured rows of fuzzy hay I’d created. Just knew Doug would jump for joy! (Don’t laugh, I’m a farmer.) I was doing so well I began to talk to myself. “Hey, Farmer Clint, you da man dude! Ain’t nobody, including Keith Masters, who could make a better looking hay row than you!” Needless to say, I was having an out-of-body, pride-filled party with myself!

OOPS!

As I tracted toward Cousin Betsy’s farmhouse I heard a sudden clank, bang, and rattle from behind the tractor – not good! (I learned from previous mishaps that when it sounds like parts are flying off it’s best to STOP!) So I quickly pulled over and got out to look better. I don’t think it’s called the “FTO” (whatever the heck that means)… engaged the brakes and leap from my tractor perch

Well, you’ve never seen a more tangled, garbled mess in your life. Somehow I had missed what looked like miles of barbed wire, along with the freshly tilled hay. (Later I would discover – after a bit of chiding from Farmer Doug – that I obliterated Cousin Betsy’s fence line."

Anyway, I figured I’d better clear the doggone barbed wire before Farmer Doug came home. It took about two hours to clear that fouled rake but I managed to finish the job just in time as some hapless-looking that makes the rake rake… I think it’s called the “FTO” (whatever the heck that means). Engaged the brakes and leap from my tractor perch.

Another “Teaching Moment”

A day or two later, after another wonderful Barbara-cooked farm supper, Doug remarked, “So Clint, looks like you babbled with Betsy’s fense row, huh?” My first reaction, as always, was to think of some way I could blame it on Toby, anything to wessel my way out of trouble. But, once again, I knew that “the truth will set you free”, so I looked into Doug’s eyes and innocently replied, “In what the world are you talking about?”

I knew he had me in the crosshairs when he flashed that wide Doug smile, a fatherly timbre in his farmer voice, “Well, there was quite a bit of barbed wire in the hay near Betty’s place and, since you raked it, I figure you must have tangled with the fence.”

“RATS! BUDDER, SMOKE…” I blurted. “Yeah, well, I didn’t have the first clue about that. I’m sure I didn’t know where it came from. Do you think I should tell Betsy?” Again in his “I’m the boss of your” voice, Doug replied, “No, that’s okay. Betsy already knows.”

If I learned nothing else about farming, one is sure: Farm people notice EVERYTHING. They know when you disturb a leaf; they notice when dust settles; each plant; each structure; piece of equipment is vital to their being, so don’t try to fool ‘em. WHEN YA MESS UP CLAIM IT – OWN IT – FIX IT!

Hardware Disease????

Farmer Doug explained, “I can’t feed hay laced with barbed wire to the cattle, they will get ‘hardware disease’”. (Ooh, even I know that eating barbed wire could be harmful!) But HARDWARE DISEASE? Can we now, Farmer Doug, you are messing with me – ain’t no such thing as “hardware disease”. I mean, why must we fabricate a story about some mysterious sickness? Rather than argue, I simply nodded agreement about the scare of hardware disease and went about my business. (Secretly, I wondered if Cousin Betsy was going to beat me up for “raking” down her barbed wire.) hardware disease indeed!!

Betty Acte? Eat A Magnet!

A quick internet search confirmed my worst fear. Farmer Doug was right, there is “hardware disease”.

So what is “hardware disease” the term used when complications occur after animals consume objects such as nails, wire, or even tin cans. This condition is particularly associated with bovine due to the fact that cows have been known to make a bunch of steel or tin objects. Renowned veterinarian C.E. Spooling stated, “Why bothers like the taste of steel and tin, I’ll never know, but I’ve seen a cow happily munching down 16-penny spikes as her own metal bands.”

When caught early, a cow can feed a holus-chapped mag-net to the cow. This magnet will collect any metallic pieces and hold it in the reticulum preventing the debris from traveling throughout the cow’s system. Cattle owners can also feed these magnets to their stock to prevent hardware disease from occurring. The average cost of these magnets is inexpensive compared to the cost of veterinary care or the cost of the cow.

You heard me right, friends… if you’re a cows eat nails just feed ‘em a handful of magnets! Now that’s crazy, but that’s what “mose is the know” say to do. (I wonder… if two cows eat magnets and their “north poles” or “south poles” come into close proximity, will it push one of the cows over?)

Well, fall became winter and tending hay turned to chopping wood and my barbed wire hay exploit seemed forgotten. Once more the rugged mountain folks at Harrell Hill Farms had mercy on Farmer Clint and Cousin Betsy never mentioned that I had destroyed her fence. Until…

What The…?

Spring 2011 drew me back to the hay fields and I was excited to renew my love affair with nature. As I maneuvered up Ferrall Hill Road I could almost taste the aroma of freshly mowed grass; expectant of another wonderful experience with the hay rake.

As I rounded the corner, bearing the rake, I noticed what looked like Crime Scene tape extending the full length of Cousin Betsy’s pasture. Why in the world would there be a ribbon outlining the border of the field?

Tie A Yellow Ribbon

Doug and I exchanged farmer hugs – the kind you yip each other on the back without really hugging – and shared thanks for the beautiful day God provided for working the hay. As I turned toward the tractor Doug remarked, “You see the yellow flags along the back pasture of the pasture”… what a ridiculous question. “Yes, Doug, I see that… what happened over there?” I asked. “Well, Clint”, he began, “last fall ‘someone’ removed Betsy’s fence with a hay rake and she just wanted to make sure ‘someone’ saw it this year!”

As I approached the far side of the field I learned that this was not Crime Scene tape, but a simple MOUND of little yellow flags positioned alongside the barbed-wire fence. Sweet Cousin Betsy had carefully masked the boundary, created a sort of “runway” for Farmer Clint.

“The yellow ribbon round the old oak tree…” To this day we’ve never discussed how I managed to chew up her fence row. But Cousin Betsy did her best to make sure I avoided it this go around.

Humbled in the hills.

This Time of Year
By Rev Bruce Cannon
Mitchell County

"0 give thanks unto the LORD, for he is good; for his mercy endures forever." Psalm 136:1

I love this time of the year for so many reasons. First, hearts turn more toward God and being thankful this time of the year more so than any other time. A day, Thanksgiving Day, was set aside for the sole purpose of helping American citizens to be thankful. It has been celebrated as a federal holiday every year since 1864, when, during the American Civil War, President Abraham Lincoln proclaimed a national day of Thanksgiving and Praise to our beneficent Father who dwells in the Heavens," to be celebrated on the last Thursday in November.

Being thankful does so many powerful things for us. It focuses our attention away from the problems at hand to the many wonderful things that have happened in our lives. It cheers the heart. It sweetens our disposition. It helps us sleep so much better at night. It aids our digestive process by reducing worry and stress. It helps us to recall the loving God who is there to hear our prayer and to help us in time of need.

A second reason I love this time of the year is that families work harder to get together and spend time with each other. What a blessing to look around the Thanksgiving Day table and see loved ones; many of whom we do not get to see often because of geographical restrictions, long work days and so forth.

A third, and very selfish reason, is that I love to eat. I love all of the Thanksgiving fare. I love turkey, ham, pies and cakes, fresh made bread and everything else that ends up on the Thanksgiving table.

A final reason I love this time of the year is that Christmas is not far away. And, then, we celebrate and show thanksgiving for the greatest gift of all - the Lord Jesus who became flesh and paid the price for our sins.

It fills my heart to hear the people things are thankful for. Personally, Wendy and I have been blessed so many ways. We live in this beautiful part of the state, we serve the Lord in a wonderful church, our health is good, AND the Lord, in June, blessed us with our first granddaughter. What a wonderful God we serve! All of us have so much to be thankful for! For God's grace, answered prayer, family and friends, health and strength, food on our tables and a roof over our head and the list needs to go on and on.

From my heart to yours - I pray this time of the year is very special for you. May you know God's presence and peace in wonderful ways. May your family be well and may you be able to spend time together.

Rev. Bruce Cannon currently serves as the Senior Pastor of Bear Creek Baptist Church in Bakersville. Formerly he served as Director of Missions for the Bladen Baptist Association and has served on the General Board of the Baptist State Convention of North Carolina.

A Meditation
Do You Know Jesus?
By Timothy Ellez
McDowell County

Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father, and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

In John 14:9 Philip asked the most important question he could ever ask. He asked him to show him the Father. One of the biggest struggles people have with Jesus is not about what he did or what he said. The issue then and now is do you know who he is. So many people have their own personal philosophy and ideologies. The angel said call him Emmanuel meaning God with us. I will ask you the most important question anybody could ever ask.

Do you know who Jesus is?

Forgiveness: It's Not An Option
By Kurt Bonar
Avery County

Have you been hurt by someone so deeply that you don't think you have the capacity to forgive them? No doubt evil people do evil things to good people and they aren't worth forgiving. But is that the issue?

In the Jewish culture their system of bankruptcy was to sell themselves to their creditor and work off the debt. God had an interesting rule he wanted his people to follow regarding this practice. No matter what the debt was, as the end of every seven years, the creditors were to release the debtors. This would give even those with huge debts an opportunity to start over.

During Jeremiah's time, King Zedekiah initially honored this, but look what then happened: Jer 34:10 So all the officials and people who entered into this covenant agreed that they would free their male and female slaves and no longer hold them in bondage. They agreed, and set them free. But afterward they changed their minds and took back the slaves they had freed and enslaved them again. 11 Then the word of the Lord came to Jeremiah: ... 11 "Recently you repented and did what is right in my sight. Each of you proclaimed freedom to your own people. You even made a covenant before me in the house that bears my Name. 16 But now you have turned around and profaned my name; each of you has taken back the male and female slaves you had set free to go where they wished. You have forced them to become your slaves again."

Because they broke the covenant and this was the response:

17 "Therefore this is what the Lord says: You have not obeyed me; you have not proclaimed freedom to your own people. So, I now proclaim 'freedom' for you, declares the Lord: 'freedom' to be set free for all. I will make you a terror to all the kingdoms of the earth. This tells me God is serious about our obligation to forgive. He released us from the penalty of every sin in our lives. Therefore, we are to forgive others.

Jesus confirmed this command in one of his parables. In Matthew 18 he tells of a man who was released by the king from a debt of millions of dollars but when he ran across another who owed him a few dollars he demanded payment on the spot or threatened debtors prison. When the king got wind of this he said the attitude changed. "Because I forgave you a large amount you should have forgiven a small amount". Then he had the man cast into prison until the debt was paid in full.

But how could the man pay such a large debt while earning poor wages? He couldn't. There was only one way out of prison. He had to die.

If we apply this story to our lives we see that no matter what has been done to us, it's impossible to the debt we owe our heavenly Father. Every sin we have ever committed was forgiven because of what Jesus did for us on the cross (that's the multi-million-dollar debt). Therefore, it is imperative that we forgive others their relatively puny debt. It's amazing how their offenses to us shrink in size when we look at our offense to God.

How do we do it from a practical standpoint? How do we get out of the prison of bitterness and judgment, depression and criticism? There's only one way out we have to do. We have to die to ourselves and our disagreements, disillusionments and discouragements. We have to say, "Lord, I've been forgiven so much. Help me to die to what others have said about me or done to me."

When you say that, by faith, don't be surprised if tomorrow you want to "take back" your offer of forgiveness. Just remember it's a bleeding off process. It will take time. But to take back the forgiveness you gave in the same position the Jews were in is as King Zedekiah's time and we know how God feels about that. To "keep on forgiving" keeps us on out of prison and honors our Father at the same time. (Thank about it)

Thanksgiving Day
By Pastor Conser
Tennessee County

It's hard to believe that the holiday season is just around the corner. So, I begin with a pop quiz. "When is Thanksgiving Day?" I wonder how many could give the correct answer. Do I mean the "exact" date? Not really, because the date varies from year to year. Some of you might say, "I know it is a Thursday in November." Yes, but which Thursday?

Even if you guessed the exact date which this year happens to be November 23, you still won't give me the answer I'm looking for. The official Thanksgiving Day goes all the way back to 1776 when President George Washington proclaimed November 26 as a day of Thanksgiving.

After that, Thanksgiving Day continued to be celebrated on different days in different states until finally, in 1863, President Abraham Lincoln issued a White House proclamation calling on "the whole American people" to observe a special day of thanksgiving on the last Thursday of November every year. Ever since, each President has issued a Thanksgiving Day proclamation designating the fourth Thursday of each November as the official Thanksgiving Day.

As followers of Jesus Christ, there is great news for us. Though every day is certainly not a holiday, every day is a Thanksgiving Day. Praise God that Thanksgiving is every day in the life of His followers. As believers, we have the amazing privilege of not only paying to our Heavenly Father, but having an attitude of Thanksgiving in our hearts.

In fact, our Heavenly Father wants His children's lives to be characterized by gratefulness. Philippians 4:6 says, "Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God." (NKJV). I believe God's Word tells us that an appreciative attitude should be evident in our worship (Psalm 145:1-7; Colossians 3:16), giving (2 Corinthians 9:7-13), relationships (Philippians 1:3-4), and even the way we approach spiritual battles (1 Corinthians 13:2-3). In other words, thankfulness to our Lord needs to permeate everything we do. In the Scriptures, our Lord manifests our gratitude (1 Thessalonians 5:18), which some might find perplexing. But our Lord knows a grateful attitude affects our hearts. Thanking Him...

- Keeps us aware of His presence
- Focuses us on Jesus, pride diminishes when we remember life is all about Him.
- Drives us to look for His purposes in our challenging situations.
- Reminds us of His goodness, which leads to hope, even when we don't understand.
- Encourages our continued dependence on Him, reducing anxiety with peace and joy.

When we maintain an attitude of Thanksgiving in both happy and difficult times, our lives will be filled with purpose and fulfillment. But more importantly, God will be glorified. As we approach Thanksgiving Day, let us ask Him to bring His blessings to mind so we can say, "Thank You!"

Happy Thanksgiving!!

SafePlace

Making a Difference
By Tracy Block
Mitchell County

It was late on a Friday afternoon, the doors were locked, and the staff of the SafePlace Thrift Store was ready to go home. A tap on the door led to the discovery of Sheriff Street and another man who was dressed in an orange jumpsuit and orange rubber sandals. The Sheriff explained that he was escorting this young man to his grandfather's funeral and he hated to take the man there dressed in jail clothes. Could we help? Indeed, we could. One staff member stayed behind and "dressed" the young man in slacks, dress shirt, sports coat and dress shoes. The young man's eyes welled up as he stood there and this was the nicest thing anyone had ever done for him.

Mitchell County SafePlace is an agency that serves the needs of the victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and elder abuse. The grants that we get help to cover our overhead, staff wages, utilities, office supplies, etc. What these grants don't help with is assistance for the victims we serve. With the overwhelming generosity of the folks of Mitchell County and the surrounding area, we are able to assist not only those victims but also to give back to the community that has been so generous. Whether it's a teacher needing supplies for their students, a family who has lost everything in a house fire or needing dignity to a young man attending his grandfather's funeral, SafePlace tries to bridge the void.

Last year alone, SafePlace gave away merchandise valued in excess of $30,000 to those in need. How does this all come together? The answer is VOLUNTEERS!!!

Volunteers are used to fill the gap. You might wonder what a volunteer at SafePlace does.

Volunteers:
- Sort donations
- Hang and steam clothes
- Stock shelves
- Help on the sales desk
- Interact with customers, serving as ambassadors for SafePlace

If you have as little as an hour to donate, please contact Cheech Stewart at 765-7115. No matter what your talents or ability level, Cheech will find the perfect job for you.

Why, God?
By Pastor Dan Quirillo
Burke County

We face real life events that often cause us all to ask the question “Why?” Why did God allow a deranged gunman to open fire on a large crowd of concert attendees, killing many and wounding hundreds? Our community struggles to understand why God allowed one of our own firefighters to be killed while serving our community. Why does God allow loved ones to experience the horror of cancer? Why does God allow loved ones and friends to pass unexpectedly?

These are obviously questions for which there are no easy “cookie-cutter” answers. In some cases, we may believe we know the answer or at least have a good idea regarding the answer. In many cases, we are speechless as we try to rationalize that which God has allowed. If we are honest, we have felt at times that it even seems unjust.

When we are faced with circumstances we simply do not understand, we must learn to respond to these circumstances Biblically. God often does not reveal the reasons behind why He allows certain things, if He did, that would eliminate the need for faith. How do we respond when these things happen?

1. Remain confident in God’s nature. Regardless of what we face in life, we must remain firm in our conviction that God is always faithful and that God is always good. An unwavering confidence in God’s nature enables us to respond properly to these difficult circumstances. When we begin to question God’s nature, we will often find ourselves bitter at what God has allowed.

2. Trust that God knows best. Often, we mistakenly feel that we have a better idea of how to handle something or how something should be resolved. We have little understanding and certainly do not know what is best. Our perspective is limited; the finite will never understand the Infinite. We therefore place these difficult circumstances in God’s hand with the confidence that He knows best.

3. Trust that God is at work. He may be using difficulties to draw us back to Him or to draw someone else to Him to be saved. He may be refining our spiritual character. He may be doing many things, but we must maintain an unwavering confidence that God is at work.

4. Submit to God’s plan. Rather than arguing and questioning His plan, learn to submit to it. We know it is always best, yet we often struggle when our ideas are not reality. These are the moments when true submission to God is evidenced.

It is possible – and even expected – to respond Biblically to the challenges of life. Doing so is essential to maintaining a proper, God-honoring attitude, even when life does not make sense.

Christ is the Only Answer

By Billy Graham

We are living in days of tangled thinking. Purposes, ideals, motives and ideas are all crashing. Lawlessness and revolts have now become the spirit of the age. And it has penetrated into every realm of human thinking. The Apostle Paul warned us that in the latter days a spirit of lawlessness would prevail in the entire world. We are told that this spirit of lawlessness is the spirit of antichrist. The New Testament even warns that this spirit will invade the church and that the church must constantly be on her guard.

Mental revolution is in the air. People are turning consciously or unconsciously against the status quo. In every relationship of life, some of the commonly accepted opinions have been thrown on the scrap heap. Any method or idea that is not of the times is cast aside. There is a general opinion that if an idea is to be useful in this generation, it must be new. There is a revolt against authority of all kinds. Lawlessness is the spirit of the times. Analyze every expression of it, and you will find it an unwillfulness of God. Revolution is the order of the day, but the president are all discarded. Governmental authority is questioned, moral standards are laughed at until the church is considered a useless institution. In the United States, even the Constitution is considered out of date.

Jesus Christ can give mental rest to those who are confused and bewildered. He can quiet your heart and give you inner serenity and joy if you let Him have control of your mind and heart. Today there is revolution in the industrial world. It is too bad that in labor-management discussions selfishness reigns. Selfishness is sin, and people are sinners. The heart must be made right before there can be any proper adjustment of external affairs.

The spirit of lawlessness is in the home. There are many little disciplines in many homes. Each child is a law unto himself. The modern rendering of Paul’s family instruction might well be, “Parents, obey your children, for this is right.” In many of our homes, if there is a voice of authority at all, it is the voice of the child. Parents have little or no saying to say about the life of the child. As a result of all this, there is a grand rush for amusement on the part of the children. If children do not hear in the home a voice that speaks with authority, how can we expect them to obey the voice of the national government? We are now reaping exactly what we have sown for many years. We have allowed our children to run wild without discipline.

There is one answer to the many problems that beset the average home, and that is Jesus Christ. As Christ has blessed the home of Mary and Martha for all time, so He can bless your home. If the individuals in your home will put their trust in Him, there is not a problem that you and your family face today but what He has a solution.

There is a revolution in the realm of morals. Never in the history of the world have we seen such a astounding moral reversal. Things that a generation ago were considered shocking are now accepted as commonplace. The entire country is obsessed with an excess of sexual individualism. The principal topic of conversation seems to be sex. Why are we suffering from such excesses? Every person wants to do what is right in his or her own eyes. A Congressman once told me that immorality was the curse of Washington. Where will this end? When will it stop? How much farther can we go without falling apart at the seams?

There has never been a nation in the history of the world that has ever improved morally apart from a revival. Nearly all great nations of the past have been destroyed by dissatisfaction of moral character. That is now happening in the United States. History gives us only one remedy, and that is a spiritual revival. As revival injected into Great Britain brought a new moral fiber during the days of Wesley, so turning to Christ can save us now.

I warn you—the issue in the United States at this moment is not political. It is spiritual. What are we going to do with Jesus Christ? That’s the question that should confront every person today. The modern expressions of revolutions are the natural results of a lawlessness in the hearts of men. We are rebels against God. Thank God, however, there is a splendid company of people who have not bowed the knee to Baal. The true child of God has nothing to fear at all of today’s threatening situations.

God is not surprised at these happenings. He is not dependent upon our party plans and political conventions for a solution. The hope of the world is the Man whom the world has rejected. It is for us to uphold that God-man, Jesus, as Redeemer and Savior and leave the rest to Him.

There are times when revolts and revolutions are right and just. Great Britain has the Magna Carta because of her revolution. The United States has its Declaration of Independence because of a revolution. We have come to a place where we must have another revolution if we are to survive. That revolution is against corruption in high places, against immorality, licentiousness and sexual perversion every realm of our society. We must have a revolt against adultery and drug trafficking. We must have a revolt against lying, cheating and cutting corners in business. We must have a revolt against discrimination because of race, color or creed. We need a revolt against hypocrisy, spiritual indifference and slothfulness on the part of church members.

I call upon the church today to fall on its knees before God and ask the God and Captain of our salvation to lead us on in a spiritual revolution that will shake the very foundations of the social structure. Christianity is not a religion for weaklings. The challenge of the hour in which we live is so tremendous that it calls for the very best in us. We must be strong, wise and dynamic as we if we are to stand. The only thing that can give us this moral spiritual strength is a return to Christ. Unless we turn to Christ, I despair for our future. I am convinced that unless we have a great spiritual revival, we cannot endure much longer. We are at war against God. We have disobeyed His laws.

We are fighting and rebelling against God and His plans, laws, statutes and commandments. The Bible says that we are enemies of God. However, thank be unto God, there is a way to be reconciled to Him. The Scripture says, “For if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved by His life” (Romans 5:10).

As enemy, reconciled, is a friend. A disturbed relationship has thus been made right, and the result is one of joy and satisfaction with each other. This is what God has done through Christ Jesus. Man, the enemy of God, has been reconciled through the death of Jesus Christ and having been reconciled to God, the Bible says, “...much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved by His life.”

The Bible teaches that you are at enmity with God, that you are separated from God. The Bible teaches that there is no way back to God except through Jesus Christ. And if God says that to the individual, God also says it to the nation. Until this nation humbles itself and prays and seeks God and falls upon its face and receives Christ as Savior, there is no hope. There is only one road—one way out—and that is through a personal knowledge of Jesus Christ.

And for your own personal life—the problems you face and the sins that beset your soul—there is only one way to peace, joy, rest and the hope of eternal life. That is by personal faith in Jesus Christ. Right where you are now, you can say “Yes” to Christ. You can trust Christ. You can surrender yourself to Christ. ©1957 BGEA

The Scripture quotation is taken from The Holy Bible, New King James Version.

THE ONLY WAY BACK TO GOD

Are you ready to fight back against the spirit of the age? The only way is to come to God through faith in Jesus Christ alone. He died so your sins could be forgiven, and He promises to save anyone who will turn from sin and receive Him by faith. You can do that right now. You can have abundant and eternal life if you will surrender to Christ.

Make the decision today.

Swallowtail

Have you ever heard of a swordfish? They are an amazing fish that is believed to be the fastest and strongest fish in the sea. They can swim up to 50 mph! Swordfish are predatory fish that hunt at night and migrate to different warm areas for food. Born with smooth two-toned, brown skin (see scales), the swordfish's favorite foods are tuna, flying fish, squid, and barracudas. The Swordfish do not have teeth, but who needs teeth when they can thrash and slash their long sharp swords around to knock out, slice, and chop up their dinner? These fish love to jump out of the water, sometimes it's to catch prey, other times it's to rid themselves of parasites.

Swordfish can grow up to 15 ft. long and weigh as much as 1400 lbs. Did you know that God gave swordfish a super power? Their super power is called cranial endosymbiosis! This gift allows the swordfish to heat their large, tennis ball eyes, and their brains up to 80 degrees warmer than the current water temperature while the rest of its body stays cool. This allows their big, blue eyes to move and work ten times faster than the fish that have cold eyes. The swordfish are then able to capture light quickly in the dark depths of the cold ocean and find fish to eat. Swordfish protect themselves from Mako sharks by ramming them in their gills and stomach with their sharp swords. These fish have also been known to ram their swords in the palms of small boats when they are harpooned by fishermen. Did you know that God has equipped us with a sword? He even has, it's part of the armor of God. Do you know what our sword is? It's the Word of God that is in your Bible! You see, by reading your Bible and memorizing verses you are preparing yourself for hard times that you might go through in the future. Try it and see. I guarantee the next time you are scared, sad, or anything you might be feeling, a Bible verse will pop into your mind to comfort you. Not only that, but when you meet other kids that ask you questions about God you will be able to answer using what you have read in your Bible. You see the Bible is like a key that opens doors and answers questions. Our sword is one of the best pieces of armor against Satan. He hates the Word of God, so my friend, open up that Bible of yours and start reading so we can defeat the enemy! Not only that, there are really cool stories in the Bible to read about! Just as God equipped the swordfish with a sword, a warm brain, and large heated eyebrows. He also equipped you with the best sword of all, your Bible! Take it everywhere you go and read it often! It will guide you in your life!

Take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. Ephesians 6:17-18

A Life Lived Not Lost
By Marlene Houlk
Burke County

One generation shall praise thy works to another and shall declare thy mighty acts. Psalms 145:4

The loss of a child rippled through the lives of loved ones and those who heard about the tragedy. Many parents live on in disbelief, wondering how they could have outlived their child. Even King David in the Bible completely shut down his governmental activities and concentration wholly on praying for his newborn baby who was desperately ill. His own son died, and David was able to pen divine inspired words that have comforted a multitude of parents.

I shall go to him, but he shall not return to me. 2 Samuel 12:23

This biblical baby emphasizes the fact that all human life is precious and makes a powerful statement beyond their earthly existence. King David’s son’s short life has shown us that love transcends the loss of a child and underscores the significance of a life lived, not lost.

Michael and Cynthia Staton lost their sixteen-year-old daughter, Victoria, to cystic fibrosis on November 9, 2012. The grieving process urged her to write a book about her path through the grief and her daughter’s influence on Cynthia’s journey of faith.

The core message of the book, A Life Lived Not Lost, chronicles Cynthia’s journey of hope. She saw the miracles of faith through Victoria’s eyes as she struggled with her disease and then saw them through her own eyes after her calibration. Cynthia’s path to faith emerged from her daughter’s love for the Lord.

In a recent interview with Cynthia, I asked her more about her book, A Life Lived Not Lost.

Interviewer: Why did you write this book?

Answer: Victoria touched thousands of lives even today, five years after her passing. I wanted everyone to know that God is always there, even though we don’t see Him. Victoria pointed me to God through her kindness and exemplifying His love to me. I watched Victoria and learned God-sized lessons. One time, as she waited on her own to enter the operating room as a small girl, Torrie (Victoria) noticed a young woman trying to help her own daughter across the room. Although Torrie had already received a relaxant, she slipped off her bed, crossed the room and snuggled her special surgery companion, a crocheted angel doll, to the ten-year-old and talked with her. It was simple acts of love such as this that I remembered, and they helped me to understand God’s love for me.

When I got saved, Torrie knew as soon as she came down to breakfast that I had received Christ. My eyes were opened, and I saw Victoria differently. Torrie assured me that Jesus would never drop me. Although it hurt to relive the memories, this was my purpose. The hardest part of writing the book was that I wrote the second half of the book first which recorded my thoughts after the passed away.

What is the core message of the book?

Answer: God is always with you. For each person, God has a purpose. Victoria’s purpose was completed, pointing me to God. I could now carry on her legacy because her body could no longer carry her.

Which chapter of the book is the most meaningful to you?

Answer: The last chapter, #34-Completing the Circle, is the most meaningful to me. When my father discovered his liver cancer, his hardened heart softened, and I was able to lead him to the Lord. I explained to my father about God in the same way that Victoria had explained Him to me, slowly and lovingly. I found my purpose in helping others such as my father to find God.

A few months after that, Gerald Eaves, my father, died at Cooney Island Hospital in Brooklyn, NY. I had pointed him to Jesus just like my daughter had pointed me to the Savior of the world.

Do you plan to write another book?

Answer: I’m working on a devotional to help others walk through grief in the loss of a child.

Avery County FFA Host PALS

Program for Heritage Homeschoolers

By Gwen Clark
Avery County

Dawson Bachman and Blake Williams, Avery County FFA members, hosted the Avery County Heritage Home School students for a PALS program. PALS (Partners in Active Learning Support) is a program of the National FFA Organization. The PALS Program can work with all types of educational support activities and fun, hands-on learning Scarlett for children in elementary and middle school. Avery County FFA has worked with the PALS program through their work with tutoring, teaching hands-on agriculture lessons to local elementary and middle schools, and working with local home school groups. Many Avery County FFA members have worked with the PALS Program and this school year has started off with a successful program with the Avery County Heritage Homeschoolers.

36 students with the Heritage Homeschoolers meet on Monday, October 16, 2017 to learn about growing pumpkins and the edibles parts of pumpkin, beekeeping and the importance of bees to agriculture, and to explore the components of soil.

Dawson Bachman is a Senior at Avery High where he is involved with FFA, Beta, Student Government and the Theater Department. He is the current Student Government President and the Northwest Region FFA Vice President. Dawson presented a portion of the PALS Program on Pumpkins. He cut open a giant pumpkin and taught the children about how the seeds are used. After this presentation, the students were given pumpkin seeds and each student decorated a miniature white pumpkin to take home.

Blake Williams is a Senior at Avery High and is involved with FFA, Beta, TSA and 3 is 3 sport athlete. Blake is an avid outdoorsman and is an Eagle Scout. He has become a master beekeeper. He presented a portion of the program on Beekeeping, the importance of bees to agriculture, and had samples of honey for the students to try.

Mrs. Gwen Clark, retired Agriculture teacher/FFA Advisor presented the importance of the soil to all agricultural crops and each student made “dirt cups” from cookies and pudding, which provided for another tasty treat.

The students and parents had many questions and each lesson presented was part of the school curriculum.

A special thank you goes out to Avery County Manager Phillip Barrier. The PALS Program used the County Board room for the presentations.

Mrs. Gwen Clark is the Agricultural Education Teacher/FFA Advisor at Avery County High School. She is a graduate of NC State University (BS) and NC A & T State University (MA). She is a National Board Certified Teacher and has been teaching for 39 years. She and her husband, Dee Clark, have been married for 30 years and attend Freedom Baptist Church.

Be careful for nothing; but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. Philippians 4:6

McDowell Tech

2nd Highest Performing Community College—Again!

By Michael Lavender
McDowell County

For the second year in a row, McDowell Technical Community College has been ranked second highest performing community college among the 58 community colleges in North Carolina. The ranking is based on an annual assessment by the North Carolina Community College System (NCCCS) to determine how much of the state’s community colleges stack up against performance criteria that measure student success.

“I’ve said it before and I’ll say it again — our faculty and staff are some of the best anywhere,” said Dr. John Gossett, McDowell Tech’s president. “While we have much more limited resources than schools in wealthier communities and with large endowments, our folks continue to perform better than almost all of these colleges, whether you’re talking about large schools, smaller schools, more wealthy schools, schools whose students enter college with better academic performance and so on.”

The 2017 Performance Measures Study identifies seven key areas that state education leaders use to measure performance progress: Basic Skills Progress, English Success Rate, Math Success Rate, First Year Progression, Curriculum Completion Rate, Licensure and Certification Passing Rate and Transfer Performance.

Results of each measure are compared in several ways, including individual college performance measured against a baseline, performance measured against the average performance of all 58 colleges and performance measured against a “Excellence” standard established by NCCCS administrators.

Dr. Gossett and Dr. Leland Harmon, Director of Institutional Effectiveness, shared specifics from the performance summary with MTCC Trustees at the board’s meeting Wednesday afternoon. Harmon told trustees that all 58 colleges were scored according to how many measures met or exceeded the “Excellence” standard, how many exceeded the average of all colleges, and did not meet the “Excellence” standard, how many exceeded the average of all colleges and how many did not meet the baseline.

“We were above the baseline in all seven measures, exceeded the “Excellence” standard on four measures, and exceeded the state average of all community colleges on two additional measures,” said Harmon.

Board members were very proud and complimentary of the college’s faculty and staff, particularly pathway students who not only performed well in the overall performance ranking, but first, second and third place rankings in three of the seven individual measures: Basic Skills Progress, English Success, and Licensure and Certification Passing Rate, respectively.

Credit Math Success measures the percentage of first-time Associate Degree seeking and transfer pathway students who pass a credit-bearing Math course with a “C” or better within two years of their first term of enrollment. Credit English Success measures the same thing, but in English. Licensure and Certification Passing Rate measures the aggregate institutional passing rate of first-time test takers on state-mandated licensure and certification exams required for successful completion of their college program or practice in a particular profession.

In overall performance, McDowell Tech trailed first place finisher Coastal Carolina Community College for the second year in a row. Only one measure separated McDowell Tech from Coastal Carolina’s ranking: Curriculum Completion Rate. MTCC was one of 21 colleges that fell just below the state average in this category. 7 colleges did not even meet the baseline for this measure.

“We know that we have to continue working on our Curriculum Completion Rate,” said Gossett. “We had already begun putting measures in place that we think will help more of our students complete their degrees, but it takes time for those efforts to pay off for us.”

The college is working more proactively on 20 measures that appear to be falling behind in completing their degree. “We have to help people overcome the obstacles that stand in the way of them completing a degree and becoming successful,” Gossett continued.

“In addition, we are doing things like making diploma programs available in some curriculum areas for students who decide to graduate in mid-stream that they do not want to complete a full associate degree in those chosen fields, but are able to complete a diploma or certificate program,” said Dr. Penny Cross, Vice President of Learning and Student Services. “Having that credential will help open more doors for them professionally as well.”

Gossett thanked the board of trustee members for their support and accolades. “I think we can see our performance, and the growth and development that we have seen this year, and we are proud to have played a role in those efforts.”

Gossett concluded, “but it is even more important for our folks to know that they are valuable and valued. We have been providing quality education in McDowell County for 50 years now, and this ranking proves it.”

Thankful to Be Giving
By Rick and Cindy Merer
Burke County

Hundreds of academic professionals gathered to honor a man who had earned a Nobel Prize in science. During the preliminary ceremonies his wife waited backstage with the wives of other men who would be honored also. The wife of the Nobel Prize winner didn’t seem particularly excited. The other women asked her why.

“How can I be happy with a husband like that?” she asked, and went on to describe a rather pathetic home life. Immediately the other women chimed in. “Why, that’s my story exactly!” All had had the same experience of neglect and abuse.

While cameras flashed on the stage and dignitaries gave admiring speeches, a very different story was unveiled backstage. Those closest to the honored could only describe a common misery.

It is one thing to be right. It is another thing to be nice. It is possible to have a high IQ (Intelligence Quotient), but a very low EQ (Emotional Quotient). EQ or Kindness Quotient has to do with our interpersonal relations. Success in life results not simply from how smart we are, but from how we treat other people. The kindness factor makes all the difference.

Kindness is one of God’s attractive attributes. He is “gracious and merciful, slow to anger, abundant in kindness” (Neh. 9:17). The psalmist asserts, “His merciful kindness is great toward us” (Ps. 117:2).

Kindness looks for opportunities to do others good. It delights in making others happy. Kindness is not demanding; it is giving.

As we approach Thanksgiving, consider a little extra tenderness in your heart. We have so much to be thankful for! It is easy to quickly say we are thankful for our family, a job, or even food on the table. But what about the mail carrier who delivers your mail and packages in a variety of weather elements almost every day or the co-worker that goes the extra mile to help you with a task at your job? Then, there is the unexpected card or phone call of encouragement that arrives exactly when you need it the most.

Think of what the atmosphere in our homes would be like if we all were a little kinder. Think of what the workplace would be like if we were a little kinder. Think of what our schools, our churches, and our communities would be like if we were a little kinder.

Just like fruit trees produce fruit... Kindness produces kindness. The people around us often reflect back the attitudes we project toward them. They are like mirrors imaging what we are.

We sometimes feel “empty-handed” in the giving department, but surely we can find a little kindness to give each day. We truly can be thankful to give!

The little girl was on target who one night prayed, “Lord, help all the bad people to be good, and help all the good people to be kind.”

Why not think of someone you can perform an act of kindness for today? You will be thankful that you did! There really is “Thanks” in the “giving.”

Gabriel’s Creek Church

The Christmas Story Comes Alive
By Sylvia Murphey
Madison County

As a ministry outreach to the community, Gabriel’s Creek Baptist Church at 111 Gabriel’s Creek Church Road in Mars Hill will be presenting its seventh annual LIVE drive-through Christmas Pageant on Saturday, December 9 and Sunday December 10 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. (rain or shine). One will see the portrayal of the Angel’s visit to Mary through Jesus’ ascension into heaven as you tour in the warmth and comfort of your vehicle.

The tour begins outside the little town of Bethlehem. One will be able to see the shepherds and where the birth of Jesus took place with live animals surrounding the stable. Travel through the little town of Bethlehem with shops where people in Jesus’ day were able to buy commodities and transact business. See the residents of Bethlehem worshipping in the temple.

At this point one will begin to see some of the miracles/miracles of Jesus—the healing of the blind man, calling out his fishermen disciples and letting them know they would now be fishers of men rather than fish. He is shown speaking with the hated Samaritan woman and then raising the daughter of Jairus from the dead.

Jesus then begins his final few days on earth. He is taken to Pilate’s Hall, condemned, beaten and then bears his own cross to Calvary. One will then see the tomb empty on the day of His resurrection when He arose. The finale shows Jesus ascending into heaven to be with His heavenly Father.

One will not be disappointed in attending this “Life of Christ” portrayal. People have been very complimentary and are up coming back each year and sometimes attend both nights it is given. There is no charge and no reservations required. Just come as you are and invite friends to attend with you. Bring the children in their pajamas since you will not have to exit your vehicle at any time. Rev. Gary Costes, Pastor, and our church family invite and welcome you and your family to come back in time and visit with them in Bethlehem.

Isaiah 11:6 says, “The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them.”

The Scripture which I have referred to in the beginning of this article, has reference to a coming time that we call the Millennial Reign of Christ upon the earth in a future day. The church will be raptured out of this world (Revelation 4:1). After that there will be a seven-year Tribulation Period upon the earth, a thousand-year reign of Christ that will follow, and finally new heavens and a new earth (2 Peter 3:10-13).

Lesson About Unconditional Love
One of the most needed traits, adults need to possess is an unconditional love. This is a reference to love without conditions. Sometimes we want to love a person because they meet all of our expectations for them. What about those times when someone does not always do the way, act and react the way you want them to do? That is where love without conditions steps in and takes over. This kind of love still lives when there are few reasons to love. Kids do not love on the basis of conditions but rather spontaneously.

God loves us with an unconditional love. He knows everything about us and still He loved you and me. God declares in Jeremiah 31:3, “I have loved thee with an everlasting love…” The love of God for us will never end no matter what we do or say.

Lesson About the Spirit of Forgiveness
I have been privileged to raise four children and have thirteen grandchildren. I have observed some very important things in kids’ relationships to one another. I have watched grandchildren fight and struggle with one another. They can become mad enough with one another to shout cือke each other and look as frustrated as a bull in a china closet. In a short while they go outside to play with each other, acting as though nothing ever happened.

Adults are so different. When an adult is wounded by another person, he or she tends to want to hold a grudge and not forgive the one who gave the offense. That is not the course of behavior the Lord wants us to take. Matthew 6:14-15 says: “For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you: but if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.”

That is plain, pointed, practical language. Many people raise blessings because they will not forgive someone who they felt has wronged them. Let’s be more like little children in the sense of being willing to forgive those who trespass against us. Since the Lord forgave us when we believed, we should be ready to forgive those who trespass against us. Keep short offense accounts with others.

Lesson About Friendliness
So many adults are lacking in social skills. Some complain about not having friends when they will not make themselves friendly. Proverbs 18:24 says, “A man that hath friends sheweth himself friendly…”

Most kids will smile and are friendly with a stranger. I love to smile at little kids and see them smile in response, even when I do not know them. So many bills come to church looking like they have lost their best friend, and as though there is no hope. Come to church to be a friend and plan to be friendly to those who are gathered there to worship. Don’t be a discouragement to others, be an encouragement.

Lesson About Forgiveness
I watched one of my grandchildren many, many years ago building a structure with blocks. Time and time again he tried to stack the blocks, but they would tumble down before he could ever use them all. The infant also did not give up very easily. The blocks would fall, then he would pick them up until he finally stacked every one of them in their proper place.

Adults give up too easily. The Bible says, “In due season we shall reap if we faint not” (Galatians 6:9). The word “faint” means “to break up, to despair, or to melt.” God’s people need a backbone like a saw log to stand in those evil days. We cannot give up when the going gets tough in life.

Lesson About Laughter
Kids do a great deal of laughing. They laugh about some of the silliest things but at least they laugh.

Some adults have forgotten how, thus the trials and problems have piled upon them because they lack the humor of their lives. The Scripture says to us in Proverbs 17:22, “A merry heart does good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones.”

We adults need to learn from the example of little children to laugh more than we do.

Lesson About Activity
Most children are very active. They want to do something so sometimes they get into things they should have not been involved with in daily life. They are moving and doing something all the time, even if it is nothing more than playing with the controls on a video game or touching the screen on a tablet.

Adults need to be more active for the Lord. The spiritual “harvest truly is plentiful, but the laborers are few” (Matthew 9:27).

Lesson About Trust
Overall, children are more trusting than adults are. Adults have seen so many things happen in life, thus, they do not trust as easily as kids do.

We may not always be able to trust others. On the other hand, we can certainly trust God in life for provision, guidance, and help as we go through this present world. Psalm 37:5 says, “Trust in the Lord, do good, so thou shalt dwell in the land and verily thou shalt be fed.”

Social & Economic Justice

One talk radio host recently said that any Church that uses these phrases should be avoided because they are covert communists. Well, I’m not a communist, and I recognize these words have been coopted by the militant left to mean anything from reparations for slavery to a call for a global currency. However, we can’t just dismiss them because there is one more thing we must admit. They are thoroughly biblical. Leviticus 19 says:

“They shall do righteousness and justice in one: You shall do so wrong in judgment, in measures of weight or in weight or quantity. You shall have just balances.

In today’s world, the word sovereign could be translated inanimate. It’s God’s call to treat the lowest in society with justice, and not just that but to love them. He gives a profound reason, “because you were immigrants in the land of Egypt.” The reality is I have nothing. Everything I think is mine belongs to God. The land I live in, the food I eat, even the air I breathe doesn’t belong to me. This is the heart of social and economic justice for the believer. It is not mine. Whatever I’ve been given, whatever I have, I must use that to make sure that, as Jesus said, “God’s Will is done on Earth as in heaven.”

This means that I’m not ok with a homeless man dying in the cold this winter if I have the power to stop it. It means that since the starvation, sex trade, and the treatment wounds and the disabled that go on in majority world nations will not be acceptable in the Kingdom of Heaven, it’s not acceptable now.

I know these are big issues. What can I do to even make a dent in these problems? Leviticus 19 has something to say about that. In verse 5 it says that a farmer is not to harvest the corners of his field. This should be left for those in need. There’s a brilliant solution, no wealth redistribution, no global currency, or reparations, simply everyone being willing to share a little bit of what they have left over. If you have a field, leave a little bit of food in the field. If you need food, go get it. Don’t expect us to box it up and ship it to you, but it’s there if you need it and not willing to go get it. If everyone did this in every area of their lives, we recognized that some of this is really ours to begin with, we would go a long way toward seeing God’s Will done on earth as it is in heaven.

Thanks-giving

By Rev John McCoury

Roan Mountain, Tennessee

We should follow Jesus’ example in giving thanks. When Jesus fed the five thousand, he ‘took the loaves; and when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were eaten down, and likewise of the fishes as much as they would.” (John 6:11) When Lazarus, the brother of Martha and Mary, died, the women sent for Jesus, but Jesus delayed his coming. When he did arrive, he went to the tomb. “Then they took away the stones from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father I thank thee that thou hast heard me. And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.” (John 11:41-42) To whom shall we give thanks? First of all, we should give thanks to God. “And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the ministry; who was before a blasphemer and a persecutor and a violent enemy: but I obtained mercy, because I did it ignorantly in unbelief.” (1 Timothy 1:11-12) For what should we give thanks?

We should give thanks for everything. “In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.” (1 Thessalonians 5:18) “Thank be unto God for the gift of Christ: Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift” (2 Corinthians 4:15) Thanks be unto God for all his good spiritual and material gifts.

“Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.” (Ephesians 5:20) Why should we give thanks unto God? He has commanded us. It is the right thing to do; it is the Christian thing to do. How can we express thanksgiving? We can express our gratitude by committing our lives to God in faithful service. “By him [Jesus] therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name. But to do good and to communicate: [share with others] forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.” (Hebrews 13:15-16)

We read it (1 Thessalonians 5:18) “In everything give thanks: for this is the will of God concerning you.” As we render thanks or graciousness. “But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you. Being made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.” (Romans 6:17) The grace of God not only brings forgiveness of sin, it also brings joy and thankfulness to the repentant sinner. The imparted grace of God can make us a gracious and thankful person. The dictionary also says that the English word thanks is akin to the word him. When we think about the gift of grace, we should give thanks. We should think about the value of grace, and extend our thanks to God. Give thanks for the gift of grace.

Speech at Family Research Council’s “Values Voter Summit”

Last week I was honored to speak at the Family Research Council’s “Values Voter Summit” speaking just before President Donald Trump! It was great to see the President—he sends his best wishes to the people of North Carolina and remembers your voices well from the campaign season. How encouraging it is to have a President that has not forgotten the men and women who put him in the White House.

Economic Tax Reform Efforts

A tax reform update: my House Freedom Caucus colleague, Rep. Jim Jordan (R-Ohio), and I are in conversations with some of our Democrat colleagues to see if we can find some common ground on tax principles.

We’re committed to seeing if we can work across the aisles to get something done—making our tax code simpler, fairer, and better for middle-class families is a bipartisan issue. We’re very hopeful about where some of the discussions might lead in the coming days. Ultimately, this isn’t about party or politics—it’s about delivering results to the voters who put us in office.

On October 26th at the Spruce Pine Fire Department, I was pleased to attend the kick-off for the initial phase of Smart Start’s statewide expansion of Dolly Parton’s Imagination Library. I first learned of the Imagination Library several years ago when I attended a conference in Mitchell County with my twin sons and signed them up to receive a free monthly book. At that time, I expressed to Jennifer Simpson, Executive Director of the Blue Ridge Partnership for Children, my desire that the program go state-wide.

And so, I have worked to make that happen. I started with Senate Bill 229 – Early Literacy Initiative Funds, which became a provision in the Senate budget. Sponsors of the House companion bill, Representatives Josh Dobson and Justin Burr, helped shepherd the provision through the House and the Smart Start Reading Initiative became an appropriation of the state budget for $2.5 million for 2017-18 and $7 million for 2018-19. Once fully implemented in fiscal year 2018-19, access to the program will be statewide.

This early literacy program uses high quality, age-appropriate books to each registered child on a monthly basis, from birth through age five, providing each child with a library of 60 books by the time they start school. I believe taxpayers get the biggest bang for the buck when dollars are focused on children’s earliest development years, before they enter school. Literacy is a cornerstone of success in school and beyond, and investing in literacy for every child will result in the educational outcomes we need for our citizens to have enriching, productive lives and keep our state competitive. The added bonus is a lifetime love of reading for children who are exposed to books from an early age.

As always, please share your thoughts with me on issues related to state government by emailing me at ralph.hise@ncleg.net or calling me at 919-733-3450.

NC Senate District 46

I recently visited the Continental AG plant in Margarita on October 17th to celebrate the company’s 25th anniversary in that location. Continental has been a wonderful employer in Burke County and a contributor to the North Carolina economy as a whole. I am very excited for our future with Continental, as they have officially begun construction on an $2.000 square foot expansion which will extend the warehouse and support areas for increasing production and logistics. The expansion is expected to add approximately 105 new full-time jobs and will enable Continental to supply their state-of-the-art MEC1 braking systems to the world’s leading vehicle manufacturers.

The expansion of Continental is just one example of the frequent positive economic news stories all across North Carolina. Here are some other remarkable facts:

- The U.S. Census Bureau recently released wage data estimating North Carolina had the fourth fastest household income growth in the nation during 2018. According to the Census Bureau study, North Carolina’s median household income was $50,584 in 2016, up 4.5 percent from last year after adjusting for inflation. North Carolina’s wage growth ranked substantially higher than the national average of 2.4 percent.

- Also, North Carolina’s unemployment rate is below the national average at 4.1 percent, its lowest point in 17 years. The national average is 4.4 percent. And North Carolina had two regions ranked in the top 3 for national each job growth over the last 5 years in a recent study by the CBRE real estate company.

It seems like a long time since 2011 when the newly-elected Republican General Assembly had to dig out of a $2.5 billion deficit hole created by our predecessors, but recent economic results speak for themselves. When you reduce taxes on hard working people and combine that with spending discipline and limited growth in government, it’s good for the economy, it’s good for businesses and it’s good for working families. We know that economic downturns are cyclical, and that tough times may lie ahead, but for now the Carolina comeback continues. And I intend to work with my colleagues in the NC Senate to make sure we keep making prudent decisions that keep North Carolina on an upward economic path.

Best wishes to you and your families for a wonderful holiday celebration this Thanksgiving.

Advanced Superabrasives, Inc. will create 47 new full-time jobs over the next four years as part of a $25 million investment. The company will expand its Mars Hill operations into a 110,000 sq. foot building. Advanced Superabrasives manufactures high performance grinding wheels and equipment.

The hard work of employees at the company has paid off, and they are now poised to expand. I couldn’t be more excited that they have decided to remain in Madison County and expand locally. Advanced Superabrasives works closely with Aaspaich Advanced Manufacturing School in Vance County. The nearby availability of high quality vocational training will aid in the expansion.

If you or someone you know is looking for work or looking for a career change, Advanced Superabrasives is a great place to inquire. They have demonstrated their commitment to providing employment in Madison County, and their expansion shows their intent to carry that momentum well into the future.

A $100,000 performance-based grant from the North Carolina One Fund will be provided to help facilitate the expansion. The fund provides matching grants to local governments to help attract and retain businesses.

I would like to thank staff at Advanced Superabrasives for having me down for a visit on Thursday.

This week, the Senate passed the National Defense Authorization Act. This legislation is critical to accomplishing the federal government’s most important responsibility: keeping our country safe. As the Chairman of the Senate Select Committee on Intelligence and your Senator from North Carolina, I am all too aware of the wide-range of threats facing our nation and how versatile our military must be to fight them. We cannot stand idly by as Iran, North Korea, Russia, ISIL, Al-Qaeda and others present a threat to the United States.

For the past two years, our armed forces have been asked to carry out an ever-growing range of missions without the necessary resources to do so. At the same time, Secretary of Defense Mattis and America’s military leaders have consistently stated that budget cuts have hindered their ability to address the troop training and readiness shortfalls that they currently face. The National Defense Authorization Act addresses these concerns and includes $1.58 billion for military installations in North Carolina. As the house to Seymour Johnson Air Force Base, Marine Corps Base Camp Lejeune, Marine Corps Air Station Cherry Point, the Army’s Fort Bragg, and several more, North Carolina’s military bases are especially well-served by the investments made in this bill.

This legislation also includes a provision I worked to pass that will improve standards for child care centers on military bases. It also requires child care providers on military bases to go through a criminal background check before they can work with the children of our troops. Our military families have enough on their plates to worry about when they are working to keep our country safe, they should not have to worry about whether their children are in safe hands during the day. I was very proud to see this commonsense provision included in the legislation.

Overall, the National Defense Authorization Act will give our troops the tools they need to defend the United States and its interests abroad. I will continue fighting to honor our troops and veterans and restore America’s military strength.

Local Effort Underway to Support Wreaths Across America™

Volunteers to host fundraising efforts to ensure that all veterans at Western Carolina Veterans Cemetery are honored Columbia Falls, MAINE, and Spruce Pine, North Carolina – November 2017 – Local volunteers are working hard to ensure that all veterans laid to rest at Western Carolina State Veterans Cemetery are honored this December on National Wreaths Across America Day. This year, the ceremony, held simultaneously across the country at more than 1,200 locations, will be on Saturday, Dec. 16, 2017. The goal is to place a wreath at the headstone of every veteran buried there and spread patriotism and commemoration for the ultimate sacrifices they made for our country.

From now until November, volunteers will host various fundraisers to sponsor the 4,500 wreaths needed to honor every veteran at Western Carolina State Veterans Cemetery. Each wreath sponsorship costs $15, with 5% going to the local fundraising group for American Heritage Girls.

American Heritage Girls Troop NC016 will be collecting donations for wreaths from now until November 31, 2017. Altapass Baptist Church is the Troop Charter. For more information visit the troops Wreaths Across America Donations page: https://wreaths.fastport.com/donatedonation.html?page=40085&create=6599

"Every donation and wreath sponsorship is a meaningful gift from an appreciative supporter who knows what it means to serve and sacrifice for the freedoms we all enjoy," said Karen Worcester, executive director of Wreaths Across America. "We are so grateful to the community of Spruce Pine for participating in our mission to Remember, Honor and Teach." The leaders and girls of Troop NC016 are honored to participate in such a significant event that honors America's heroes. The Beginning of the Story
John and Stephania Limongello
Mitchell and Tazewell Counties

When God controls the story of your life He adds things you could have never dreamed, calls you deeper than you ever thought you could go, and demands more than you thought you could give. In that place of the great big unknowns of God is where we find ourselves today.

God has given me (Stephania) songs for several years. In 2011, I was sitting at my keyboard and heard the line “somebody love me”. I knew that this was the heart cry of a child. I knew the song had something to do with a foster community, perhaps a fundraiser song. I began looking for someone who needed the song but could not find a place for it, so I put it on the back burner.

In spring 2016, I tried to find a place for the song again but did not hear any direction from God. I was in school full time, pregnant and taking care of a younger sibling, so once again I laid the song down. In late 2016 God told me I was supposed to record an album. I had no idea where to start or what to do, so I kept it to myself. But God began pouring songs into my heart faster than they had ever come before.

During the same time, John and I became friends with a couple from the church we were attending who had five adopted children. They asked us to help pray whether they should open their home to one more child. In February, they received a call asking them if they would take the 18 month old girl who was taken into DSS custody at birth. We received a text asking us to pray for wisdom for them. The next day our friends called to let us know they were taking the baby and were allowed to name her. Baby Charys (which is Greek for God’s grace) became a part of their family and unknown to us, a part of our story.

A few days after Charys came home from the hospital we were honored to be asked to come and pray over her dedicating her life to God. The next morning while having a conversation about Charys, I heard God say “that song is for Charys.” I knew immediately which song he meant. Before I could tell anyone, I again heard Him say, “and the name of your album is The Charys Project, Live it out and it is to fund The Charys Foundation”. I was so overwhelmed; all I could do was cry.

Later that day, I told what I heard with John. I told him I had no idea what the Charys Foundation was but I thought it was something to do with foster children. John quietly said “I know what it is.” Then he began sharing, with tears in his eyes, the vision God had been speaking to his heart about building a foster community... And the Charys Children’s Foundation was born.

The vision for Charys Children’s Foundation is to house children in multiple houses in a community setting with permanent foster parents. We know the vision will change and grow as we do, but our heart is to provide long term Christian homes for foster children sharing the love of Jesus and the hope of the Gospel will always be our mission.

We believe God has uniquely trained and called us through our life and career experiences to create Charys Children’s Foundation. Children have unfortunately been lost in the madness of a world that promotes materialism, selfishness, and hedonism. Judeo-Christian values are drummed in this modern era of acceptance and tolerance.

We believe God created marriage, between one man and one woman. He created family. It is all to reflect who He is and His relationship with us. He sets the standards by which man should live.

Our goal is to bring the hope and love of the true gospel to a generation of kids who have been thrown away. We want to see the church rise up and take its place as the center of family and community again. We want every child that God allows us to reach to feel the safety of knowing there is a God that loves them and a family that does as well.

The first phase of the Charys Children’s Foundation includes the building of a community health center that will provide medical care, social support services and recovery services for the foster children, their families and the community. We are donating a home near Burnsville to Charys Children’s Foundation which will be remodeled and enlarged to serve as the community health center. Phase one is necessary to meet the credentialing required to be licensed to house foster children in a community setting.

We believe the foster care issue is the mandate of the church to address, not the government. We believe no one can address the wounds caused by addiction, abuse and neglect without the power of the love of Jesus. We can provide housing and services, but only Jesus can make a wounded heart whole again.

The Charys Children’s Foundation is currently in the planning and fund raising stage. The Charys Project album is being recorded at Cross the Bridge Ministries in Spruce Pine. We are prayerfully taking each step as God directs. We believe that God will bring to fruition what He has started. We are challenging the body of Christ to partner with us to care for these children.

John and Stephania Limongello reside in Burnsville, NC. They were married in 2000 and have two beautiful young boys. John David and Daniel. John was raised in New Jersey. He has earned his Bachelor’s and Master’s in Social Work. Stephania was raised in Tazewell County, NC and works as a Nurse Practitioner. They attend the Bridge Church of WNC. Helping Our Farm Families

By Marianne Jones
Mitchell County

The Mitchell County Farm Bureau Women's Committee has been very active this year in furthering our mission statement of supporting agriculture through legislation and education. Agriculture has always been an integral part of life here in the county. According to data from the USDA's censuses of 2007 and 2012, Mitchell County has lost 13% of farmland acres, as well as 35% a decrease in the number of farms and animals produced. It seems though that the way farmers sell their products is changing, as we are seeing a substantial increase in sales directly to consumers. There has been a 25% increase in vegetable farms with a 17% increase in sales over this same five-year period. Local farms accounted for nearly $1 million added to our local economy. Agrotourism, or tourism centered around a farm or farming activities such as a corn maze, winery or farm store, is growing rapidly.

For the last 3 years, MCBF Women Committee has awarded a scholarship for a local student to pursue an education in a related field. We have tried several different ways of raising money for this scholarship. This year, we raised money at the Rhydodendron Festival selling rhododendron seedlings here in the county and hosting a Cow Patty Bingo game. The game is played by releasing a Cow into a field marked by a grid and waiting to see where the first cow passes. Prizes were held out of a stack of $500 prize was awarded to the owner of the cow, which this year was given to Kim Sleeth. This August, we planned our first Agriculture Science Night for county 3rd and 4th graders. Student teachers came from Les McRae College to assist us. Our sessions included parts of a plant, agriculture fact or fiction quiz, Christmas tree farming, healthy snacking and composting. There were lots of hands-on activities for them to do, dinner was served, and we finished up with door prizes and individually made ice cream desserts. It was a wonderful time learning the science of agriculture and the parents all agreed it was a most informative evening. We hope to continue the Ag Science night annually for the benefit of local students. Children get excited about agriculture. Understanding where food comes from and ways to get involved in growing their own can certainly help today's children make better choices as consumers. A scholarship helps inspire these agriculturalists for agriculture will learn and pass on their knowledge for the improvement of all. Agriculture affects all of us, every day.

Marianne lives in Red Hill N. C. She works for Mitchell County School Systems and is the Director of the Women's Group of Mitchell County Farm Bureau.

Senior start book drive for former elementary school

By Natalie Oliss, Burke Middle School student

Burke Middle College senior Olivia "Oliss" Hilton is going back to her elementary school for her senior project. She is hosting a book drive at W.A. Young Elementary School to gather support and encourage reading. Oliss has always enjoyed reading and realized that when an earlier age how vital it is. She decided to find a way to help, primarily because she understands the importance of giving back to the community in a way that will be beneficial and continue to have an impact for years to come.

For her graduation project, Oliss is working with W.A. Young Elementary School librarian Stephanie Price on her senior project mentor, Price was Oliss's librarian when she was in elementary school and looks at her project as a way to repay the woman who helped foster her love of reading at a young age. Oliss has spent many hours volunteering and helping behind the scenes at the media center, checking new books into the system, sorting returned books, and giving book recommendations to the students. The school has new critical thinking and maker space additions to the media center to help students learn to think critically and develop ideas. The books that Oliss gathers from the book drive will go directly to the W.A. Young Elementary School library so the kids will have more books to choose from.

Oliss chose this project because of her love for reading. Her goal for the book drive is to get as many books as possible for the school; her goal for the project is to learn more about kids' involvement with reading and also the inner workings of being a librarian. She also wants the ease of talking to children to branch out into other aspects of her life, gaining critical communication skills along the way.

Lisa Wall, Oliss's English teacher at Burke Middle College said, "I was excited about the project because many more children will have access to books that will spark their continued interest in learning." Oliss knows that everyone needs to be able to read in order to learn and wants to set a good example for the children in her new reading materials. She said, "I want to show that reading isn’t boring and that it can actually be an escape to take you places you can’t go otherwise." Oliss is taking book donations at the Burke Middle College offices and classrooms at West Piedmont Community College through Oct. 20.

Senior volunteers at BUCM

By Natalie Oliss, Burke Middle School student

Rebecca Parker has been working on her senior project at the Burke United Christian Ministries over the past few months. She understands that volunteering is important, so she has been working hard to help the organization and the people in the community. Rebecca has been helping BUCM unload trucks of supplies and by working in the food pantry and clothing closet. She hopes to be able to volunteer in their kitchen soon as well.

Rebecca wants to spread awareness for homelessness, because she said, "providing help for others will benefit you just as much as it will benefit them." With cold weather coming soon, Rebecca is running a drive to help get donations for the ministry. She is taking "camping supplies" such as tents, canned foods, tarps, clothes, boots, coats, and toiletries through Fri., Oct. 12 at the Burke Middle College offices.

Rebecca has set several goals for herself through her project. For her first, she wants to get enough donations to keep people out of the cold. She also wants to spread awareness for homelessness, be more selfless and encourage others to be more willing to help others in times of need. She explained that although she has never been homeless, she remembers a time when she wasn't as fortunate as she is now and doesn't want anyone else to feel the same way. Because of this, she'd like to go back to her roots by being more caring and providing help for others in similar situations. Lisa Wall, Rebecca's senior English teacher, said, "Rebecca's work at the Burke United Christian ministries and donation drive to help homeless people in our community shows her passion to make a positive impact on the world around her." Rebecca plans to continue to work with BUCM even after the end of her project in hopes of accomplishing these goals.

Happy Thanksgiving!
Storms

By Jim Hart
Avery County

Several years ago, I turned off the TV, not just for the evening or for the day, but for what I thought would be forever. People would ask me why? “Are you tired of all of the violence?” “Are you tired of all the negativity?” “Do you find that you now have time to read, fish, talk with your wife…?” As much as I would like to have given those folks some lofty, noble reason for turning off the TV, I could not. I was not trying to spend more quality time with Caroline. There were no books begging to be read. My garden did not have any less weeds in it. Much like Forrest Gump when he said, “I just felt like running,” I just felt like turning off the TV.

Twelve months, seven days and thirteen hours later (or there abouts), I decided to turn the TV back on. It was one of those old school console TVs with the dial. The kind that your mom or dad used to tell you to get up and change while your brother went outside and turned the antenna. This kind folks now turn into aquariaums. I just walked up to it and turned it back on. It spun and sputtered and blinked back to life after a year of service as a collection area for keys, wallets and plants that needed more sun. And just like that, I sat down in my favorite chair and started watching TV again.

Today, I still sit in my favorite chair and watch TV. Gone is the old console model covered with spackle change, keys and plants needing more light. In its place is a fancy swively, super thin 60inch plasma TV. For all its attributes, it is not a good place for your wallet or plants that need more sun. They fall right off. However, there is still one holdover from my yeartning sabbatical from the tube. I still do not watch the news or the weather. Caroline always asks if I am worried if it’s going to be cold or if it’s going to rain. How about if something important happens in the world? You will miss out. If I walk outside and it’s cold, I put on a jacket. If it’s downright cold, I put on two. When I look out the window each morning, if I see rain, there is a 100% chance of rain for the day, so I wear a raincoat. If the wind is blowing, I know it’s a bad day for squirrel hunting or fly fishing. When Caroline informs me that something bad or important has happened in the world, I pray and reflect on how I can help. Simple, real, simple!

That all changed the month of September. I became fixated on the news and the weather. My morning routines and daily schedules were disrupted by the looming monsoon Hurricane Irma. Would it make landfall? How could anybody in the Caribbean survive such a storm? Will it hit Southern Florida and make a beeline for the coast of North Carolina or will it go east and destroy Wilson, where my mother lives? I was so consumed with this storm that I forgot to do the things that are such a part of my daily life, of who I am. I had failed to do what Paul urged the church in Thessalonica to do in his epistle, “Be joyful always; pray continually; give thanks in all circumstances, for this is God’s will for you in Christ Jesus” (1 Thessalonians 5:16-18, NIV). I let a storm run out in the Atlantic: drive a wedge between me and God. I had let the fear of the unknown pull me away from living a life that is itself a living testament of scripture reading, prayer, thanksgiving and documentation. I was afraid for the wellbeing of my loved ones. Something that was completely out of my control had taken control of my life, yet I was fixated on it, trying to find some control in the chaos.

Storms will come. There will be things that are completely out of our control that will deeply affect our lives. There will be hurricanes and crashing waves in our lives, storms that deeply affect our hearts, minds and souls — blowing winds that make us bend, drive wedges between us and God and ultimately cause us to break… if we let them, if we only focus on the storm.

Living with the diagnosis of ALS, Ed Dobson, pastor emeritus of Calvary Church in Grand Rapids, Michigan wrote, Seeing Through The Fog. Facing only a few years left in his life, Ed shared his journey of finding joy and hope in the midst of the storm of a falling body: Searching for answers and healing, Ed asked a pastor friend to moisten him with oil and pray over him for healing. He was not just looking for someone to pray the words, “God heal him if it is Your will.” He wanted someone to pray who deeply believed in God’s power and was not afraid to say the words. “God, heal him.” His Pentecostal friend and pastor did just that and then told Ed, “Don’t become obsessed with getting healed, Ed. If you get obsessed, you will lose your focus.” Get lost in the wonder of God, and who knows what He will do for you.

Today, as I sit here looking out the window of my office at Crossnore School and Children’s Home there is 100% chance of rain. I hear a petting the roof from morning, so I wore a rain coat. Since Irma, I have turned off the news and the weather and picked back up where I left off in my morning routine — pray the Psalms, give thanks, breathe… focus! I pray that when the next storm comes, and it will, that I do not become obsessed with the healing, with the diverting, with asking to spare me and my family. I pray that I get lost in the wonder of God’s amazing grace in the midst of the chaos.

No Regrets Family Ministry - A Dark Place
By Pastor Dan Honeycutt
Mitchell County

The Lord has blessed me tremendously and I just wanted to thank God for everything He has done for me. You know the Lord didn’t have to save me, but by His good grace He came to where I was and rescued me.

The Bible teaches us where we are in the “power of darkness” before we got saved. Colossians 1:13 (KJV 1900)
13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son.

Therefore, I was in a dark place as an unsaved person. I did not realize where I was spiritually. Most people never consider their spiritual condition before God. We do not think of ourselves as being in the realm of darkness before we got saved. Could this be the reason many of us take our salvation for granted, because we do not consider where God has brought us from?

To even begin to wrap our mind around what God has done for us is amazing. It is not possible to see ourselves in hell, but we could begin to understand the place of God. We have an account of this in Luke 16 about a rich man in hell who died his life in torment and saw Lazarus comforted in Abraham’s bosom. This rich man begged for a drop of water and Lazarus was to have five brothers of the miserable place he was in. From this true account, had the rich man been aware of the horrible terrifing place he would be in, he would have done anything to avoid going to this place of torment.

Only through the light of the Gospel and the conviction of the Holy Spirit are we made aware of our need of salvation. We do not come to the place of awareness of our own. By the grace of God, we are made aware of our sinful condition but rarely are we convinced of the depravity of our darkness and in darkness we are. John 2:19 19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil.

And so, God comes into our darkness and rescues us out of this place we cannot get out of on our own. How does one escape what is in the dark? You expose what is in the dark by shining light into darkness. Jesus Christ is the “light of the world” and it is His light and guidance and work of the Holy Ghost that exposes and draws our sinful nature to Himself for salvation. 1 John 2:4 (KJV 1900)

8 Again, a new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in thee, because the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

Thank God Jesus came to me when I was in a dark place I could not get out of and Jesus paid the price on the cross of Calvary making it possible for me to be saved. God loves you so much even when we do not even consider what He has done for us.

When Jesus died on the cross there was darkness all over the land, because He was paying the penalty for us. The wages of sin is death, but God, the gift of God is eternal life. Jesus’ work on the cross has made us alive in Christ. Have you trusted Jesus Christ as your Lord and Savior? God can meet you where you are at today, pray to Him today confess your sins to God and ask Jesus to be the Lord of your life. Romans 10:13 (KJV 1900)

13 For whatsoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

P.S. Happy Thanksgiving!!!!
Thankful, Grateful, Blessed

By Ken and Jan Merop
Avery County

These sentiments have been bubbling over from our hearts so much since moving to our new home. We truly are thankful, grateful and blessed. But, it was our friends who also moved within a short time and distance from us who kept saying this over and over, reflecting on God’s goodness to them.

The more they said it, the more it rang true in our own circumstances. And it got me to thinking. Aren’t the words thankful, grateful and blessed rather similar? But, as I prayed and considered these words, I realized something.

When we are thankful it is a yielding up from within to God.

When something amazing occurs, from a place deep within we look up and say, “Thank You, Lord!” There’s no considering how we might say it, when we should say it or whether or not we will or won’t accompany the phrases. Because this is not merely a phrase, it’s praise. Praise to the One who really deserves our devotion and thanksgiving.

When we are grateful we look around and are humbled by God’s grace and goodness in a situation. We wonder if we really deserve His grace and mercy so personally given.

My picket fence fell around me in a failed marriage many years ago and self-pity warned its way in for a bit. But, looking into the precious face of my infant son and recognizing that I was God’s child, His daughter. I was infused with courage. My heart rejoiced with gratefulness that God would walk this road with me and fulfill Romans 8:28, NIV which says, “And we know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are the called according to His purpose.”

When we are blessed, we recognize that what is coming to us is not from our own hand, but from God’s heart.

How precious it was when the Lord gave me a second chance. My marriage to my husband, Ken, and the addition of two more sons were blessings only He could provide. He knew my heart and His favor fell upon us all.

So, though the words are similar in nature, they hold different dimensions...like a diamond reflects light.

That is why when we saw a sofa pillow that said, “Thankful, Grateful, Blessed” we knew we had to get it for our friends as a house warming gift.

Their words had sparked the refreshment of our own thankfulness, gratefulness and blessedness warming our hearts and home. May they remind you of the same. Selah

Please Pass the Salt
By Lisa Ellis
Kingsport, Tennessee

Salt. A simple four-letter word, but it packs a mighty big punch! I have read that there are over 1400 uses of salt. Most of us think of it as the white substance that comes out of the little holes in a shaker or measured precisely for a recipe, but less than five percent of the salt produced is used in this way. Among the many other uses is processing of food meat, leather, chemicals, glass, soap, paper and even rayon. Salt melts snow on cold winter days and aids in making ice cream on hot summer days. Salt comes from mines, the sea and wells. The country that produces the largest amount of salt is China followed by the United States of America. Another interesting tidbit I learned is that wages were once paid with salt. This caused the term “not worth his salt” meaning one did not earn his wages. This subject of salt came about a few months ago while I was on a road trip to a remote area in the mountains. Before I reached my destination I stopped at a roadside diner and ordered a hamburger and fries to go. Upon reaching my destination with mouth watering, I took a huge bite of the burger followed by one of the large fries that only a diner can produce. What? An unsalted French fry! I didn’t know there was such a thing! Oh how I wish I could have said to someone, “please pass the salt.” Job asked the question, “Is there extra food to be eaten without salt?” My answer to Job is yes but it’s not much good!

As previously mentioned salt is derived from mines, the sea and wells but there is an even more important source of salt, Christianity. As I was reluctantly eating unsalted fries I was reminded that Jesus said taut, “along with all believers, are the salt of the earth. Why would Jesus use the example of salt rather than a sweeter food? Wonder why He didn’t say give the world candy coated “feel good preachers”? Surely that would make it easier to grow a big crowd around us. Why salt? Salt is used for curing and preserving and I’ve never known it to draw ants, bugs and pests as sugar does. In Mark 9:39 Jesus said “Salt is good... Have salt in yourselves and be at peace with one another.” The first place we should be “passing the salt” is in our homes. What kind of example are we setting for our children and spouses? Are we eating for our spiritual and mental needs as well as our physical needs? Then step out of the house and look around at our neighbors. Are they seeing and hearing Christianity living out in our lives? It’s easy to “look and act silly” when a church but can someone see these in us as hypocritical?

Paul wrote “Conduct yourselves with wisdom toward outsiders, making the most of the opportunity. Let your speech always be with grace, seasoned with salt, so that you know how you should respond to each person.” (Colossians 4:5-6) We live in a “saltless world” that is in need of a lot of “Jesus salt.” So please pass the salt!

“The Rivers We Cross”

By Timothy W. Iron

Barke County

“Fear not, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by your name. You are Mine. 2 When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and through the rivers, they shall not overtake you. When you walk through the fire, you shall not be burned, Nor shall the flame scorch you. 3 For I am the Lord your God,” – Isaiah 41:1-4

Before me, the mountains lay shrouded in the mist. Grandfather remains hidden under dark skies. He doesn’t want to be bothered today. The rain had clattered long enough for a short hike, so I laid myself watching as clouds like waves on the ocean, crash against the shorelines. In calm, quiet, formulate-like utterances through the balmy of the peaks yet to be signaled by the coming storms. Nonetheless below the mist, the sleepy little village of Collectville. Along its main street met with small town houses the John’s River flows, clear, and cold. Part of my walk had already taken me past in books confirming that the water was once more, clear of the day’s rains. My mind thought of the recent journey to church and how for three Sundays in a row I had crossed the river to reach the other side. It became part of my personal challenge. As I explained it to Pastor Joe, it made me appreciate being able to make it to church. It is often for granted the ease with which we worship and all that has made it possible. This summer’s journey had made me more aware of this fact than ever before. So, as part of my weekly walk to Sunday morning preaching, feeding the John’s River became my route of passage, so to speak. Each time I encountered a new twist, a new challenge. Each time, there were the tribulations making it out of the river and up the steep banks on the town side of the water. It made me think of how we cross our own rivers.

Both my mother and father have gone. They have both crossed the River of Jordan to reach that far distant shore. Each passed in their own way, but it was my blessing to have had the opportunity to say goodbye to each of them before they stepped into the current and began their journey across. God made that possible. I was not there on the other side to welcome them home, but in some instance, I know they both had deep emotions up which they had to struggle; death did not come easy. So, it is for many who have died, and for those times we pray that the Lord give them comfort in their time of crossing. We would want the same. As Christ suffered for our sins, we too feel the pained anguish of death; snug, but he was not defeated by it. From life to death we shall pass, but where we finish is up to us; a choice that must be made here on this side of that beautiful flowing stream.

Are You a Blessing or Are You Blessed?

By Pastor Steve Williams
Mitchell County

Are you a Blessing or are you a Blessing? That's the question! Do you realize that each day you and I have the chance to be a blessing to someone else? The reason is God has given us another day and another chance to be a blessing to the people He puts in our lives. Now the question is – are you willing to be a blessing to someone else? I realize that if we choose to be a blessing to others we are going to have to make sacrifices during the day. You’re going to have to take valuable time out of your busy day and be willing to offer that time to someone else. Now I want you to understand it doesn’t take too long as you might think it will be a blessing. Do you know a kind word and a smile will go a long ways and will be a blessing to those they share it with?

I remember once a person who was a real blessing to me in my life, even though I never found out her name. She showed me the importance of trying to be a blessing each and every day of our life. I was a student at Fruitland Baptist College in Hendersonville, NC. My car was giving me and my wife a lot of trouble and we were having a tough time making ends meet. If you know what I mean, I’m not a mechanic, so when I have trouble with my car I’m at the mercy of the garage or dealership to take it. So I took our car to the dealership to see what was wrong. They told me they had to put it on a machine to find the problem. So after the test was completed they came out and said, Mr. Williams it is going to cost quite a bit to get it fixed, but if you don’t get it fixed, you’re going to wind up having even more problems. I had nowhere near the money, so I had to tell them I couldn’t do it, I would just have to keep driving the car the way it was. A lady that was signing in cars at the dealership said Mr. Williams you want a minivan? and let me check on something. I waited and waited and then finally she came back and said, Mr. Williams I’ve got you some good news, this is a warranty problem and we will be able to fix it for you at no cost. I thanked her and thanked her again for all her help. I shared with her how we just didn’t have any extra money because I was going to Fruitland Bible College. And listen to what this lady told me. She said “Steve this time, each morning on my drive to work I ask God to allow me to be a blessing to someone, somehow during the day. Today God has allowed you to be that person. I never forget the importance of trying to be a blessing to someone during the day.

Remember each day God gives us a blessing by allowing us to see another day. So use it as an opportunity for you to be a blessing to someone each day. Ps. 1:5 I’d like to thank all the people that God has put in my life who have blessed me, by showing me the importance of being a blessing. I can’t call you by name but you know who you are. I’m so thankful for all the cards, calls, and kind words I’ve all shared with me for so many years. I have been so BLESSED.

Words of Wisdom
- The Bible is one of the greatest blessings bestowed by God on the children of men. It has God for its author; salvation for its end, and truth without any mixture for its matter. It is all pure. John Locke

- I give all the glory to God. It’s kind of a win-win situation. The glory goes up to Him and the blessings fall down on me. N/A
- We are all different, but when we ask for the Lord’s blessings, we must not forget that God created us equal. N/A
- Each time we cooperate with God, we take one more giant step forward. Because when God asks us to change, it means that He always has something better to give us - more freedom, greater joy, and greater blessings. N/A

A Little Laughter for the Heart
- An elderly woman was a faithful church goer and an avid reader of the Bible. In fact, the Bible is all she read. A friend asked, “Why don’t you read anything other than the Bible?” I can’t the woman replied, “I’m cramming for my finals.”

and include the games “Fraction City,” “Piece of Cake” and “Xtreme Math Basketball.” While Poole teaches reading and science for her homeroom, she teaches math to all fifth graders at Hillsdebra and was looking for a way to engage her students in a fun way. Poole said math can be a tough concept for her students, but is a vital part of the curriculum. To engage her students more, Poole uses games to help them grasp the concepts of math, which she hopes will get her students more excited about math, especially during the end-of-the-year review. She said the games will come in handy during the review.

Poole said of Donors Choose, “This is such an easy way to get stuff for your classrooms. I recommend it to everyone that I can, I think the kids are going to love it and who need to get more excited about math.” She hopes this will inspire other teachers to do something similar for their students’ futures.

The principal of Hillsdebra, Randy Sain, said, “I thought it was great that Mrs. Poole was awarded the grant. The math games she got are very useful in keeping the kids engaged, on task and learning.” He hopes the games will lead to a way to reach the kids through hands-on learning.

Glenn Eckardt with Horace Mann was among the donors to Poole’s “Donors Choose” request. “Donors Choose” is a free, nonprofit website where teachers can receive funding for student resources.

Humility

By Brent Price, Outreach Chaplain
Mitchell County

Have you ever known someone who always finds a way to make sure everyone notices them? You know, the one who enters a room exclaiming in one way or another, “Here I am!” Always center-stage, managing to push their way to the front of every parade, each moment of their life makes it clear that no matter what it is——it’s always about them. Humility is definitely over-rated.

Given many of the ways I hear the word used, humility doesn’t sound like a quality I’m ready to embrace either. Think about it. Poor people, the mentally challenged and the under-privileged are frequently labeled “humble.” Persons who are inappropriately modest or demonstrate a low estimate of their importance are humble. When someone is “humbled” we generally think of someone who has been brought down a notch or two. Meek and lowly all too often means weak and powerless. Not sure it’s for me.

However, genuine humility is a beautiful quality in any person. You know who these people are. They touch our lives in often simple yet profound ways. They enter a room in a manner that says, “Well, there you are!” They would rather see than be seen, listen rather than be heard. At times you know there is somewhere else they need to be, but they have chosen to wait with you. In their presence you can sense a power that is never overwhelming or abusive. Here we experience humility rooted in love. inspired and encouraging it creates opportunities for others to see in themselves that which was hidden. It takes a back seat, but couldn’t imagine missing the ride. It works backwards so the show can be a success in spite of the fact that it will never be invited to take a bow.

Don’t be fooled by fake modesty and watch out for the person who is secretly dying to get noticed because they are so “humble.” It doesn’t take long to figure out, but they can get you if you don’t watch out.

True humility lies at the heart of the choice to set ourselves aside for a moment, or a week or more for the sake of another. It doesn’t discount the words of its deeds, nor does it advertise them for all to see. Rooted in a servant’s heart, humility quietly goes about the work of love. It speaks for itself.

Thank God for all those who continue to see others first, going about the work of love, making this spinning ball we call home a better place for us all.

Bridges the Gap

By Daniel Barrow
Mitchell County

The Fund for Mitchell County in collaboration with the Community Foundation of Western North Carolina awarded a 2015-2017 People in Need grant of $15,000 to Hospice and Palliative Care of the Blue Ridge for a project called “Bridging the Gap.” The CFPB, formerly Hospice of Mitchell County, is a non-profit 501C3 organization that serves individuals and families who are faced with a life-limiting illness.

In a recent interview, the staff pointed out that when an individual is accepted into their care, that individual receives total care for the remainder of his or her life. Unlike some for-profit organizations, HPCBR accepts financial responsibility for all hospice-related needs even when Medicare or Medicaid benefits have been exhausted. Anyone or any family facing the many difficult issues that are eased as fully as possible by the HPCBR staff regardless of income level are encouraged to take advantage of their care and support. Those who do come from lower income situations are assured of the same loving care for as long as they require it.

The purpose of “Bridging the Gap” is to establish a sustainable program that will finance many of the daily needs faced by families who are not covered by traditional funding sources. These include transportation, fire extinguishers, nutritional supplements, clothing, household supplies, personal care items, utility bills including heating and cooling, and other relatively low cost items that many of us take for granted but are beyond the budget of some individuals and families.

The program is not a one-time project, rather it will be combined with existing fund raising efforts including the in-house staff supported, Radford Fund, the Hospice Thrift Store in Legder, Annual Golf Tournament at Grassy Creek, and the colorful Cruz-In Car Show at Bakersville. Go to their website for details and support their work with donations and/or volunteer opportunities: https://www.hospiceandpalliativecareofnortheastnc.org.

“The Fund for Mitchell County Advisory Board continues to be impressed with the many services that nonprofits offer Mitchell County residents,” said Board Chair, Dr. Dan Barrow. “This year we had some very difficult decisions to make, but the appeal submitted by Hospice stood out because the staff were able to show the tremendous need out there. Second, how the project could be sustainable for years to come. During our interviews with the staff, it was obvious that they have a deep personal as well as professional caring for each person and family they work with, and we wanted to support that level of care and commitment.”

The Fund for Mitchell County was able to award $50,000 to nonprofits over the 2016-2017 fiscal year. The Fund for Mitchell County is a totally volunteer organization and an affiliate of the Community Foundation of Western North Carolina. Tax-deductible contributions which will remain in Mitchell County forever are welcome (https://www.cfnc.org/Affiliates/Fund/MitchellCounty.aspx). Vigil Held for Closing of Labor & Delivery at Blue Ridge Regional Hospital
By Mike Lamm
Mitchell and Yancey Counties

On September 30 the Labor and Delivery department at Blue Ridge Regional Hospital was officially closed. Despite concern expressed by local residents about the increased risk in childbirth that would result from pregnant mothers having to travel much further to Marion or Asheville while in labor, Mission Health refused to reconsider their decision. Consequently, over a hundred people gathered on the night of September 30 for a candlelight vigil for healthcare in Yancey and Mitchell counties.

Pastor Tommy James (First Baptist, Burnsville) began the service by praying, "We gather here at this place and at this time to gather together as a community. We grieve because of the injustices of corrupt systems that place profit above all else. We gather to grieve because of even greater hardships that will be placed on poor families who are already struggling. We pray for little babies and their mothers who are in pain and whose families have been disrupted by the closing of labor and deliver at Blue Ridge Regional Hospital. We turn to you because so many politicians don't care - we turn to you because of the pain inflicted by corrupt systems that exploit the vulnerable anywhere."

Pastor Stilts Whiteside (Yancey Valley Presbyterian) gave a moving reading from Psalm 38 including: "My back is filled with searing pain; there is no health in my body. I am feeble and utterly crushed; I grieve at the heart of my body. O LORD, do not forgo me, be not far from me, O my God. Come quickly to help me, O my Lord, my Saviour."

Pastor Jeremy Trestles (Spruce Pine Methodist) recalled the story of children being brought to Jesus (Matthew 16:13-15, Mark 10:13-16, Luke 18:15-17). He said, "We stand here tonight keeping vigil to mark the end of Labor and Delivery services at Blue Ridge Regional Hospital. As a Christian pastor, I am here because I take Jesus at his word, that the degree to which a person or a community is willing to welcome children is the degree to which it is willing to welcome God. I am here because of my concern that the closure of local Labor and Delivery services will be a threat to the well-being of vulnerable children in our community and because I want to be part of a community that does everything it can to provide blessing and healing for every child born into this world.

We give thanks for holy moments in which parents and grandparents lay eyes on the face of their infant for the first time. We express our gratitude for all those doctors, nurses, and staff who have served in the history of Labor and Delivery. We have gathered to lament. We grieve that our mothers will not be able to give birth locally under a doctor's care. We lament staff members who have lost jobs or who have been forced to relocate. We mourn that our community is less strong and self-sufficient than it was before.

Our presence here registers our concern for our unborn children, and for expectant families who now have to travel longer distances to receive the care they feel they need. We are concerned about a trend in which decisions profoundly affecting our community are being made by people far away, people whose own families do not experience the consequences of those decisions. We are concerned about the direction of an impersonal health system that sometimes seems more willing to make decisions than to consult the people affected. It is clear that the vitality of a community is directly related to the health of its children."

Pastor Whiteside read about Jesus healing a leper (Mark 1:40-44), a woman who had been unable to straighten her back for eighteen years (Luke 13:10-13), and Jesus healing crowds of sick people (Matthew 9:28-35).

Pastor Mike Lamm (First Presbyterian, Spruce Pine) spoke about the miracles of Jesus, noting that three-fourths of the miracles were illnesses or disabilities. In addition, there are sixteen passages that tell of crowds of people coming to Jesus to be healed. When those are taken into account, we realize that all but a tiny fraction of the miracles of Jesus were healthcare miracles. None of his miracles were enormous spectacular events like the nation-wide plagues that Moses delivered to Egypt. In fact, we are told of times when Jesus purposely bathroomed away and when he told those he cured to tell nobody. We only know of two times that Jesus knew the person he healed and there are many times when there is no mention that anyone had faith. Jesus was indiscriminate in who He healed: young and old, rich and poor, male and female, Israelite and foreigner. Persecutors weren't required to prove that they were worthy.

While people were impressed by the ability of Jesus to heal, Jesus was less motivated by wanting to impress people than He was by compassion for their Suffering (Mark 1:41; Luke 7:11; Matthew 9:35-36 and others). He recognized that all people are precious in God's sight (Matthew 6:26). And Jesus taught that we are to treat other people in the way that we hope they will treat us (the "golden rule," Luke 6:31). "If we claim to have faith then there are moral issues that must be addressed if we are to be found faithful. In the parable of the rich man and Lazarus (Luke 16:19-31), Jesus made it clear that the extent to which we overlook the illness of others is a moral issue. Healthcare is a moral issue. And if you consider yourself to be a person of faith, it is a moral issue."

As everyone's candles were being lit, Pastor Travis Wymoopath (Griffith Church) read the words to the song, "Light Our Candle" followed by Galatians 5:14; Matthew 22:34-40; James 2:15-17 and Matthew 7:12. Then he spoke eloquently about having been born at the hospital in Spruce Pine and closed the service with a powerful prayer. The crowd sat in candlelit prayerful silence for several minutes.

The Vigil for Healthcare was co-sponsored by SEARCH (www.searchwc.org) and by the Yancey-Mitchell branch of the NAACP. SEARCH (Sustaining Essential and Rural Community Healthcare) is a recently formed organization of concerned citizens that seeks to "empower greater involvement in decisions affecting the healthcare of our residents" and to "preserve strengths and expand access to essential medical services in our area." The Yancey-Mitchell NAACP mission is to "ensure the political, educational, social and economic equality of rights of all persons."

Michael Lamm was pastor of First Presbyterian Church in Thomasville, NC until he retired to Burnsville in 2015. He does pulpit supply and a bit of writing. Before entering the ministry he was a construction worker and an audio engineer.
