The Human Side of the Crucifixion

By Doug Harrell

Can you imagine your father coming up to you and saying “I want you to volunteer to go be flogged, stripped naked, thorns pushed down on your head, subjected to all kinds of ridicule when you have done nothing wrong and have honored me your entire life”? I cannot imagine the pain Jesus went through.

“And he was withdrawn from them about a stone’s cast, and knelt down, and prayed, saying, Father, if thou wilt, take this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine, be done. And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him. And being in an agony he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.” Luke 22:41-44 KJV

I have never sweated blood before but, according to scientific fact, if you are under enough stress this can happen. We oft times forget that Jesus was totally human and totally God and that He had the same human emotions that we all experience. To willingly lay down your life for someone else may seem like something we would be willing to do if it was family, loved ones, or even friends might be one thing, but to do it for complete strangers, people that had not even been born yet, people that had done everything wrong in their lives and had not been good people! People whose lives were full of all kinds of sins, when you had never sinned! Just think about this. It is truly amazing from a human perspective. Yet Jesus prayed, “Not My will but Yours will be done.”

Every time I think about this I get goose bumps with the true bravery that Jesus showed that weekend. Human bravery, not just God’s bravery. The next time you see a picture of Jesus on the cross, take time to really let it sink in, we are saved by Grace today because He had enough human courage to take the weight of all our sins on His unblemished shoulders, bow His head and say, “It is Finished.” Stop and give a true prayer of thanks giving when you say, Thank you Lord for Your saving Grace which is sufficient to give me eternal life with You in Heaven.

Amen and Amen

Superman
By Brent Price, Outreach Programs
Mitchell County

We are living in challenging times, to say the least. Sometimes in the midst of life’s struggles and tragedy we desperately need something to make us smile, chuckle or perhaps laugh out loud. Laughter is a gift from God and perhaps this story will deliver on God’s gift.

While attending college in Greensboro I worked for a staging telegram service. Betly Business posted an ad in their windows that said, “clowns needed” and I applied for the job. After a short “interview” the owner hired me and booked my first party.

Make-up, funny shoes, red nose. Address in hand, balloons in the back seat, prepared to bring laughter to children everywhere. There was just one little problem— a problem that I didn’t know was a problem. A problem that was waiting to ambush me smack in the middle of my mission to spread joy to a world ready to eat lots of cake.

News Flash. A significant number of three to five year-old children are horrified by clowns. I entered the party smiling, singing and carrying fistfuls of balloons. Children screamed and cried. Panic broke out. One child tried to climb up his mother’s leg. Another took refuge under the kitchen table and clung to the tablecloth when his mother tried to pull him out. It wasn’t a pretty sight. We all entered therapy as soon as we could get an appointment.

When I returned to the office my boss was eager to know how things had gone. Well, needless to say, I did not have a good report. She called the client who voiced satisfaction even though the children were “a little afraid.” For now, my job was secure.

My next assignment— another birthday party. My boss suggested to the excited mother that perhaps the children would enjoy a visit from a superhero. “Wonderful idea. All the children love Superman.”

Once again, I prepared to enter the unpredictable world of children’s birthday parties. I parted my hair on the side just like the Man of Steel, removed my Clark Kent glasses and entered the celebration prepared to save planet Earth. The children were beside themselves. They laughed. They wanted to touch my cape. I held them for pictures. Held two on each knee. Held three. Held them all at once while standing on one leg.

Superman was a hit. No children had been traumatized or scarred for life. They all had pictures for show-and-tell and once again— my job was secure. But not too quickly, Man of Steel.

On my way to the car I turned to the house and saw all the children plastered against the front window ready to witness my departure. Didn’t see that one coming. However, it’s amazing how fast you can think when you have to.

Smiling and waving, I ran past my parked car. With raised hands is that classic Superman pose, I leaped out of sight. Well, it might not have worked on you, but they thought it was pretty impressive.

Now, I had to get back to my car. Crouching on the opposite side of the street, I inched my way back to the passenger door of my old brown Ambassador. I eased the door open, slipped inside, hunkered under the steering wheel and resumed my life as a mild-mannered student.

I guess it really doesn’t take much to create a little bit of wonder and a whole lot of joy.

The 95% Christian
By Pastor Kurt Bomar
Every County

When I was in School, if I ever got a 95% grade on a test, I was delighted at first. Then I would look at the test and say “If I had just done a little better, studied a little harder, I could have gotten 100%.”

There are a couple of Bible characters that I think did 95% jobs and as a result suffered tremendous heartache.

The first is Jacob. He ran away from his brother and spent 20 years in Padan Aram before God told him to return home (to the promised land). He obeyed but when He was 95% there he stopped in a town just a days journey from Bethel (where he was supposed to go). The town was called Shechem. There he started pursuing roots down. As he did, his daughter went into town to meet the girls of her age. As a result the leader of the town (named Shechem himself) violated Dinah. The result was a revolting mass murder committed by his sons and in expulsion from the town. (Gen. 34 tells this tragic tale). Remember King Saul. He was told to annihilate the Amalekites. (1 Sam. 15) He had a great military victory, but he didn’t finish the job, just 95% of it. The result? It cost him his kingdom. Why? Because the Lord said “I desire obedience, not (95%) sacrifice.”

You might say “How do I know I’m only at 95%?” Here’s the test. When God speaks to you he does so through targeted strikes (like a laser missile). He will say “you need to do this, say that, or go there.” Satan on the other hand, in an attempt to discourage us uses a different tactic. He carpet bombs. Satan says “you’re just not good enough, you need to do more, be a better person (without telling you what specifically you need to do).” Understand that if the voice inside is condemning you, it is from the evil one. Satan condemns, and God convicts. God says “do this specific thing right and you will be pleased.” When you do it, you will feel the pleasure of God.

When my children were young we had a rule about obedience that they memorized early:

Any two of the three is a 95% Christian.

As we ponder this ourselves, let’s listen to God’s instruction and give him that last 5% that will cause him to say “well done my good and faithful servant.” Selah, (think about it)

Guardian ad Litem Program

Local Courts Celebrate 35th Anniversary

By Jada Ellis McMahon

"We are honored to celebrate the Guardian ad Litem Program in the 24th Court District including Mitchell, Madison, Yancey, Avery and Watauga Counties. Our system of justice could not operate as it was intended without our volunteer Guardians ad Litem."

"We have seen the strength of court-appointed special advocate programs in the country," said Cindy Bizsell, administrator of the North Carolina Guardian ad Litem program. "The work of our volunteer GALs helps the court make the best decision possible in the lives of vulnerable North Carolina children."

Established by statute in 1983, the North Carolina Guardian ad Litem Program has been serving abused and neglected children for 35 years. It is the only state with a program for all 100 counties. 2000

Guardian ad Litem staff create a manual designed to encourage best practices within the program.

2003

Guardian ad Litem celebrates 20 years of advocating for abused and neglected children in the court system. At this time, the program has more than 3,800 GAL volunteers and attorneys serving more than 15,000 children.

2010

For the first time, Guardian ad Litem reaches the milestone of having 5,000 volunteers.

2013

Guardian ad Litem celebrates 30 years of advocacy.

2016

Guardian ad Litem once again reaches the milestone of having over 5,000 volunteers.

2017

Guardian ad Litem provides for the best interest of a record 18,083 children.

2018

Guardian ad Litem celebrates 35 years of advocacy.

ABOUT

North Carolina Guardian ad Litem equips and trains community volunteers to serve as independent court advocates to represent and promote the best interests of abused and neglected children and youths by advocating for their best interests. The Office of Guardian ad Litem (GAL) Services is a division of the North Carolina Administrative Office of the Courts. Pursuant to G.S. 7B-601, when a petition alleging abuse or neglect of a juvenile is filed in district court, the judge appoints a Guardian ad Litem advocate and attorney to provide team representation to the child, who has full party status in trial and appellate proceedings.

Could you be the voice for a child?

In 2017, more than 2,400 abused and neglected children and youths in North Carolina went to court without someone to advocate just for them. Volunteer to become a Guardian ad Litem advocate and be the voice for a child.

But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwellth in you. Romans 8:11
The following article was written by a Chapel clerk about the Church at MVC.

“The” Church and Serving - On the Inside

Prison is a third world country to people “on the street.” By that, I mean they know as much about prison and life “on the inside” as they do about a third world country, which is not very much. They may have some ideas based on movies, which may or may not be accurate; however, when it comes to religious life in prison they really have no perceptions about what it is like. These things come to mind concerning religious life at Mountain View Correctional Institution (MVC) — the physical brick and mortar church. “THE” Church — the body of Christ; the day-to-day serving of the Lord in the Chapel.

MVC houses 900 inmates in a facility originally designed to house 550 inmates, so space is a premium. The Chapel exists in a 20’ x 48’ room. This room includes a worship area for 30 people, office areas for the Religious Services Supervisor, the Chaplain and two Chapel clerks, bookshelves for the Chapel Library, a staff bathroom, and storage areas. In addition, we have an outdoor Native American prayer circle, and the visitation area under worship services. Space is very limited; especially when you take into consideration, we accommodate approximately 40 services and meetings per month. We currently serve not only Protestant groups but also Native Americans, Rastafarian, Jehovah’s Witnesses, Catholic, Islamic, Moorish Science Temple, and Wiccans, as well as Alcoholic Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous and CHI (Chemical Health Institute) for alcoholics and drug addicts. With the small amount of space allotted, we try very busy rearranging chairs and equipment, maintaining records, and keeping up with supplies. We accomplish all of this with only one staff supervisor; one community funded volunteer chaplain, two Chapel clerks and numerous volunteers who come in as far as two hours away.

The largest faith group we have at MVC is Christianity, and of the approximately 40 services and meetings, 36 are for this group. This is “THE” Church, the body of Christ, at MVC. The body of Christ is here is not very different from the street. We struggle with many of the same things you struggle with in the Church every day. Anytime there are imperfect people involved, there are going to be personality conflicts, differences of opinion; people getting their feelings hurt. We are not different. The men here struggle with walking in the spirit and not in the flesh, with lust of the eyes and impure thoughts and language. Many are fathers and husbands struggling to keep those relationships alive.

Our congregation is non-denominational. We come together more as brothers in Christ and less as Baptists, Lutherans, Pentecostals, etc. Our worship is free of those kinds of restraints so often associated with the body of Christ on the street. If I had to pick one of the most vital parts of the Church inside, it would be prayer. The men here are prayer warriors extraordinary. They have lots of time on their hands and they make sure to put in prayer and study the Word. Many of the men are young babies in the Word, still not ready for meat. They can help by praying for them to have discernment in the Word and in the difference between true and false teachings.

Serving in the Chapel is a blessing, even when serving the different faith groups. We have many opportunities every week to pray for the many tense teachings and lost souls who come through the Chapel door.

You can feel the darkness when sitting in the same room with these groups as they proclaim their beliefs to one another. Pray for us as we wage this battle in prayer. Pray for us to be strong and courageous and that we may see Christ in us. Christ died for all man’s sins. He loves these lost men and He desires for them to come to His cross to receive His saving grace.

Serving on the Inside!

By Don Stafford Avary and Mitchell Counties

What a privilege and honor it is to serve community Churches of Mitchell and Avary Counties and the story of Jesus Christ here at Mountain View Corrections in Spruce Pine, NC.

Many of these men accept Christ as Lord and Savior, and then want to be baptized. Usually there are about 50-60 men baptized each year. I have so many great stories to tell about how God is working behind the walls here at MVC. I would be glad to come to your Church and share some of these stories. Just give me a call at 282-467-1158 and I will arrange a time for me to come.

What a privilege and honor it is to serve community Churches of Mitchell and Avary Counties and the story of Jesus Christ here at Mountain View Corrections in Spruce Pine, NC.

Many of these men accept Christ as Lord and Savior, and then want to be baptized. Usually there are about 50-60 men baptized each year. I have so many great stories to tell about how God is working behind the walls here at MVC. I would be glad to come to your Church and share some of these stories. Just give me a call at 282-467-1158 and I will arrange a time for me to come.

God Bless you for caring for the incarcerated, and for your faithful prayers and gifts!

Challenges of Life
By Doug Harrell

A new day dawns, the times and situations change daily. The question is, can we adapt and change with the changes we face daily? As I have grown older, the need to trust and allow each day to be led by the Lord becomes even more evident. I think in the earlier years of our lives we feel that we are invisible and indestructible, but with age this tends to change. We see, feel, and the changes in our body, and sometimes even our minds, as the years go by. The frequency of funerals becomes more in our face as our friends and classmates began to crossover the river of life to the other side. We realize that our days are numbered here on earth. 1 Peter 1:3-4 (KJV) "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away. When we begin to really come to grips with this, it can become really a burden unless we have a true relationship with our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. Without this relationship, our time here on this earth is as an empty vessel. Death is just the end of life, nothing more to it. There is no hope there! We can be good people, but there is still no reward and no eternal life in heaven. I know, the atheist will just laugh at this, but the Bible tells us that: Proverbs 1:7 (KJV) "The fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge: but fools despise wisdom and instruction. All we can do is to let our light shine so that they can see Jesus in our daily lives, and hopefully we will be able to witness to them in such a manner that they will come to an understanding, and a relationship with Jesus, that is personal to them. There are situations that we sometimes face with our family and friends, when we are ridiculed and laughed at for our beliefs, take the time to pray for them, because it is truly their loss, as well as ours, when we realize that death in their situation will truly separate us for eternity. John 14:1-2 (KJV) "In my Father's house are many mansions: if [it were] not [so], I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. I hope to hear with age and wisdom to sing the song “What a Friend We Have in Jesus” The first verse reads “What a Friend we have in Jesus, all our sins and grief to bear. What a privilege to carry, everything to God in prayer. O what peace we often forfeit, O what needless pain we bear. All because we do not carry, everything to God in prayer.” Pray that we keep learning, not sure that we ever completely learn, to do this daily. Pray that each of you, as you read this today, will take your cares and concerns to the Lord in prayer. Only He can truly give us the Peace That Passeth Understanding, God bless.

Life Lessons

What Can We Do?
By Bruce Cannon
Mitchell County

"God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." (Psalm 46:1)

Once again, our hearts have been broken by an act of terror on one of our nation’s school campuses. As of February 2018, including the shooting at the high school in Parkland, Florida, there have been 18 school shootings in which a gun was discharged, and victims were either injured or killed this year.

We must ask ourselves several questions and answer those questions. One, why? Why would someone go onto a school campus with the intent of hurting or killing innocent students? How can anyone do that? The answer has to be, evil. The person committing the deed has to be filled with evil thereby discounting the value of life. The problem with school shootings, or any other type of violence involving a gun, is not with the ownership of guns but with the lack of conscience on the part of the individual perpetrating such an act. Someone possessed with evil will use whatever tools available to bring about violence.

On August 12, 2017 a car was driven into a group of pedestrians in Charlottesville, Virginia leaving twenty-six injured and one dead. On May 18, 2017 a car was driven into a group of pedestrians in Times Square leaving twenty-two injured and one dead. When one is possessed with evil any tool can be used to bring about harm or death.

The most important question that must be asked and answered is: What can we do? What can we do in a nation where Judeo-Christian values have been compromised for decades? What can we do when we know we are in our second or third generation of Americans of whom many have been raised without Biblical training? The prophet of old said, "For they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind." (Hosanna 8:7) The apostle Paul said, “Be not deceived: God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.” (Galatians 6:7) That last verse not only applies to an individual, but also to a home or to a person.

First, we must see actions such as the school shooting in Florida as wake-up calls. As we head toward the coming of the Lord for His bride, the Scriptures teach, “And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold.” (Matthew 24:12) Iniquity is abound. Love is waxing cold. And, we are trying to raise our children and grandchildren in these conditions.

Second, we must return to the God of our fathers. We must humble ourselves before Him, seek His face, turn from our wicked ways (as believers) so that He will hear from heaven, hear our prayers and heal our land.

I am genuinely concerned about what the condition of our nation will be in the next years ahead if we do not do this. What will our schools be like? Will there be one in western North Carolina which will have an armed miner enter therein for the purpose of hurting and killing students? How we need His protection, His provision and His power! All of the schools, without exception, which had a shooting have stated, “We didn’t think it would happen here.”

Third, train up children to know right from wrong and to honor the old-fashioned beliefs that made this nation great. Train them to respect and serve the Lord. Teach them His Word, His Will and His Ways. Model before them Christlike so they can see what they must do. Without that they are lambs along the lion and he is seeking to devour.

Finally, join me in deep prayer that God will have mercy on our nation, hear our prayers and rush to our rescue.

Billy Graham Spoke to America, Its Social Issues and Told Us How to be Free
By Dr. Mark Creach

Among the dozens of things written about Billy Graham, after his passing earlier this week, was something I found on the Freedom from Religion Foundation (FFRF) website.

In a statement about the world-renowned evangelist's death, FFRF noted a time when Christopher Hitchens, who has been hailed as an intellectual, was once asked if he believed Billy Graham was an evil man. Hitchens replied, "Yes, disgusting evil man."

The article then went on to argue that Graham worked to destroy America's secular government.

"Graham helped corrupt America's secular foundations by lining the walls of religions in the 1950s, which brought with it "under God" into the Pledge of Allegiance, the Capitol prayer room, and "In God We Trust as a national motto," said FFRF. "Graham leaves behind a legacy that has severely damaged our Constitution and the wall of separation between state and church. FFRF will continue to work to undo this legacy."

Interestingly, opinions about Graham and his impact on politics vary. Groups on the far left, like FFRF, think that he was too involved. Many argue that he was neutral. While others claim he should have done more.

One thing is for certain, however, Billy Graham had a lot to say about America and its many social issues. Moreover, he told Americans how to be free and to stay free. Here are some powerful remarks he made:

"America has probably been the most successful experiment in history. The American Dream was a glorious attempt. It was built on a religious foundation. In earlier concepts came from holy scriptures." (Graham, 1970)

"You can put a public school and university in the middle of every block of every city in America — but you will never keep America from rotting morally by mere intellectual education." (Graham, 1960)

"I believe America has gone a long way down the wrong road. If we ever needed God’s help, it is now." (Graham, 1970)

"God honored and blessed America as few nations in history. However, in recent years the nation has been moving away from its religious heritage." (Graham, 1970)

"A terrifying spiritual and moral tide of evil has already loosed upon us from our spiritual noosing. Numerous new ideas that could easily destroy our freedoms are rushing into the vacuum."

"Spiritually, we have wandered far from the faith of our fathers…no nation that venerates the Bible to the background, which disregards the love of God and the names of the Man of Galilee, can long survive."

"Our government is certainly going to fail like a rope of sand if unsupported by the moral fabric of God’s Word. The moral structure in our country grew from Judeo-Christian roots. When these values, they produce normal fruits. But if that structure disintegrates, the moral sentiment that shapes our nation’s government will disappear with it." (Graham, 1970)

Graham also spoke prophetically about the social issues of our day.

Regarding the issue of race, Graham said:

In Christ, the middle wall of partition has been broken down. There is no Jew, no Gentile, no black, white, yellow, or red. We could be one great brotherhood in Jesus Christ. However, until we come to recognize Him as the Prince of Peace and see His love in our hearts, the racial tension will increase, racial demands will become more extreme, and a great deal of blood will be shed. The race problem could become another fire out of control.

"Only God can break down the national and racial barriers that divide men today. Only God can supply that love that we must have for our fellow man. We will never build the brotherhood of man upon earth until we are in accordance with Jesus Christ."

Regarding the issue of abortion, Graham said:

"The Bible does not support the indiscriminate practice of abortion. Many of the great characters of the Bible such as Jeremiah or John the Baptist were chosen by God before they were born. Many people feel that an exception might be made in the case of incest rape or when the mother’s life is in danger. I think in these instances, the decisions must be based on individual cases and the serious moral and spiritual implications must be carefully considered. For example, some of the greatest people whom I have ever met were born as a result of rape. I am thinking, for example, of my own family, who do not believe that anyone has the right to take the life of an innocent baby."

"The world would have never known Ethel Waters. And I could name many other like her."

Regarding the issue of religious freedom, Graham said:

"The framers of our Constitution meant that we would have freedom of religion, not freedom from religion."

Regarding the issue of same-sex marriage, Graham took our full-page ads in the larger daily papers in North Carolina supporting a state constitutional amendment that would define marriage as one man and one woman, which read:

"At 93, I never thought that we would have to debate the definition of marriage, the Bible is clear - God’s definition of marriage is between a man and a woman. I want to urge my fellow North Carolinians to vote FOR the marriage amendment on Tuesday, May 8th."

It could be argued that Graham spoke to the issue of transvestitism when he said:

"Ancient historians tell us that one of the symptoms of a declining civilization is a decasulization of the human race, with men becoming more effeminate and women becoming more masculine, not only in physical appearance but in their basic characters."

Regarding the issue of gambling, Graham said:

"It is the sin of those who cause gambling to have fever in their blood and drive them on, recklessly hardening their hearts until they have lost not only their money but their souls."

Regarding the issue of alcohol, Graham said:

"Liquor is not necessary, either for health or for so-called gracious things. It is the cause of uncontrolled suffering, and material lost, not to mention the spiritual implications of drinking."

It could rightly be concluded that Graham spoke to the current opioid crisis, although not directly. Graham once said:

"Violences could be written on the problem of [drug] addiction. Millions of barbiturates are swallowed every night to help the nation sleep. Millions of tranquillizers keep us calm during the day. Millions of pills pack us up in the morning. The Bible warns that these flights from reality bring no lasting satisfaction."

Graham obviously understood something that FFRF and much of the nation still doesn’t understand today: Our freedom is hound up in our relationship to the Creator.

We were made by God in His image. Unlike any other part of the creation, we possess superior intellectual, moral, and spiritual faculties. Most importantly, man has been given a will to make or mar his destiny, to climb in life or to sink to the depths.

Graham repeatedly reminded us that liberty and its maintenance is a profound spiritual matter. It is a deeply rooted dilemma, and the image of God in man is defined whenever our relationship to God is forgotten and we see ourselves only as children of earth.

Graham said it over and again, if we would live free both personally and corporately, we must repent of our sins, receive Christ as Savior, and embrace His Lordship.

Such is not evil. It is the opposite contention that’s ‘disgustingly evil.’ We have seen a played our thousands of times throughout history in murder and mayhem. Wherever we choose something other than what a loving God intended, in comes the strong man, in comes the deep crowd, whether literally or figuratively, to fill the vacuum and bind us to misery.

Remembering Billy Graham

He never forgot God, and He spread the message throughout the world. Salvation is the key. Coming to Christ is a must. Make Him your Lord and Savior. Billy Graham has gone home to be with the Lord. He was a good and faithful servant. He will rest now.

Note: The following message comes from a sermon preached May 21, 1957, during Mr. Graham's historic New York Crusade.

--The Bishop

Now tonight I want you to turn with me to Proverbs, the 33rd chapter and the seventh verse: "For as man thinketh in his heart, so is he..."

The word heart is used in different ways all the way through the Scriptures, want you to see tonight the meaning of the word heart from a Biblical point of view.

The Bible says that "Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart" (I Samuel 16:7). When God looks at you, He doesn't look to see the color of his skin. He doesn't look to see the kind of clothes he wears. Nor does He look to see his social status. The Bible says that God looks upon the heart to see what you are on the inside—the thoughts, motives and intents of the heart. The question I want to ask every one of you tonight is this. Is your heart right with God? And if it is not right, before you leave tonight, I hope you'll allow God to make it right.

The Bible indicates a great deal about the condition of the average person's heart. In Proverbs 6:16, the Bible speaks of a "heart that deviseth wicked imaginations." In other words, the Bible says that your heart is full of evil imaginations. And in the Bible says, in Jeremiah 17:9, that "the heart is deceitful above all things, and despondent; who can understand it?"

And according to the Bible, to covet the heart is deceitful. You can't trust it, if you're outside of Jesus Christ. Jesus said, in Matthew 15:8, that our hearts are far from God. "The people draw near unto me with their mouth, and honor me with their lips, but their heart is far from me." Think of it now. There are many of you here tonight, who go to church. You sing on Sunday morning. You go through the ritual of the liturgy of your church. With your mouth, you honor God. But your heart is far from Him. Your heart—you're real self—is taken up with the things of this world.

You have too little time for God. You spend far more time watching the news than the Bible. You spend far more time on the press and reading novels than you do in prayer. You don't have time for God. Your heart is a long way from God tonight.

The Bible says that our hearts are dark. Romans 1:21, "Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened." The Bible teaches that your heart is dark because your spiritual eyes have been blinded by the god of this age. Let Him open the eyes of your heart.

And do you know the greatest stumbling block to the Kingdom of God? Murder? No. Greed? No. Adultery? No. Pride. More people stay out of the Kingdom of God because they're proud than any other reason. We don't like to humble ourselves and come to the cross of Christ, and say, "O God, I'm a sinner." The Bible says that our hearts are rebellious. "But this people hath a rebellious heart, they walked in their former heart to be as their fathers taught them." (Deuteronomy 31:29)

And the Bible teaches that your heart can be hardened. The same sun that shines on the clay hardens the clay, but makes it brittle. And the same Gospel that is preached here tonight will soften some hearts until they will yield to Christ, but it will harden others. And it's possible for you to harden your heart by delaying to go to Christ. When God speaks, you no longer hear Him. Now, what is God's attitude toward our hearts? The Bible says: He knows the heart. "Shall not God search this out? For he knoweth the secrets of the heart." (Psalm 44:21) He knows all your secrets. You don't hide anything from God. He knows your thoughts (Proverbs 23:7). The Bible says that He sees the heart. Think of it. The great God of Heaven searching your heart. He's there searching and probing. "The Lord search the heart" (Jeremiah 17:10).

Then the Bible says that God pondereth the heart. "Every way of a man is right in his own eyes: but the Lord pondereth the heart." (Proverbs 20:21). You can rationalize that the way you're living and the way you're doing is all right. But the Bible says God doesn't take your evaluation and your judgment. The Bible says that God pondereth your heart—mediating on it, evaluating it. Everything you do while you're living on this earth is going to be judged by God. The Bible says: God will judge the secrets of the heart (Romans 2:16).

And He weighs your spiritual life in comparison to the Ten Commandments. And the Bible says that every one of us have broken those Ten Commandments. He weights you by the law of conscience—the times your conscience spoke to you, and how you ignored the voice of your conscience. He weights you by the standard of the life of Christ. And we all come under the glory of God (see Romans 3:21). We are all sinners in the sight of God tonight.

Now, there's something else in Scripture. The Bible talks about the heart of Jesus. The Bible talks about the shedding of the blood of Jesus Christ. And all through the New Testament, you have the expression the blood of Christ. What does that mean? That means that the heart of Christ, in its compassion and in its love, bled for the cross for our sinful hearts. His pure heart, His perfect heart, His broken heart, His loving heart, His tender heart, His compassionate heart—bled for the cross.

And when they put spikes in His hands and His feet and His feet, they put a spear in His side, near His heart, His heart bled literal drops of blood for us. "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission of sin." (Cf. Hebrews 9:22). "What did He mean? He meant that without the death of Christ, there could be no forgiveness of sin. Do you know why? Because you and I have broken the laws of God. We deserve death, judgment and hell. But Jesus Christ went to the cross and died in our place.

And now God says, "I commend my love toward you, that, while you were yet sinners, Christ died for you." (Cf. Romans 5:8). And God says, "He made him who knew no sin to be sin for us." (Cf. 2 Corinthians 5:21). It's a mystery, that death of Christ, the great sin of Christ. None of us can understand its depth, its height or its breadth. But we do know this: that in some mysterious and glorious way, God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto Himself at the cross. He bled, and His heart was broken for us.

The Bible says that God also prepares your heart by the Holy Spirit, the preparatories of the heart in man...is from the Lord" (Proverbs 16:1). And last of all, the Bible gives us this glorious promise—that God will give you a new heart. If you will come to Christ and surrender your heart to Him, God says, "I will take out the old heart, I will put in a new one." An old heart will not do. He must give you a completely new heart. God does just prepare you up when you come to Him. The Bible says, "Christ comes in a clean heart, O God, and renew a right spirit within me." (Cf. Ezekiel 36:26)

And in Ezekiel 36, the Bible says, "A new heart also will I give thee, and a new spirit will I put within thee: and I will take away the stony heart out of thy flesh, and I will give you an heart of flesh." Would you like to have a new heart today? Change the whole direction of your living. Change your whole moral life. Change your affections. Surrender your life to Christ and have God give you a new heart.

It's called regeneration. It means that God will give you a new life—a new direction to your life, a new thought, new desires, new ambitions, new directions. The Bible says that three things are necessary. First, you must be willing to turn from your sins. You must be willing to renounce sin. Second, you must commit and surrender your life to Christ. By that, I mean you give to Christ as your all-sufficient Savior. You're not saved by joining a church. You're not saved by living a good moral life. You're saved only by the grace of God in Christ. And you must commit yourself to Christ as your only Savior. Are you willing to do that?

Then the third thing: You must be willing to follow Him. Serve Him, confess Him and acknowledge Him. You must be willing to go back to the factory and the home and stand up for Christ.

Are you willing to do that? Let Him change your life and forgive your sins.©1957 BEGA Scripture quotations are taken from The Holy Bible, King James Version. Surrender your heart to Christ now.

Last Column

By Billy Graham

Sincerely before his death, Billy Graham approved the response to his final Answer column.

Q. Mr. Graham, how would you like to be remembered?

A. I hope I will be remembered as someone who was faithful—faithful to God, faithful to the Gospel of Jesus Christ and faithful to the calling God gave me not only as an evangelist, but as a husband, father and friend.

I'm sure I've failed in many ways, but I take comfort in Christ's promise of forgiveness, and I take comfort also in God's ability to take even our most imperfect efforts and use them for His glory. I want to be a person who will be in heaven, and as I write this I'm looking forward with great expectation to the day when I will be in God's presence forever.

I'm convinced that heaven is far more glorious than anything we can possibly imagine right now, and I look forward not only to its wonder and peace, but also to the joy of being reunited with those who have gone there before me, especially my dear wife, Ruth. The Bible says, "Now we see but a poor reflection as in a mirror; then we shall see face to face." (1 Corinthians 13:12)

But I won't be in heaven because I've preached to large crowds or because I've tried to live a good life. I'll be in heaven for one reason. Many years ago, I put my faith and trust in Jesus Christ, who died on the cross to make our forgiveness possible and rose again from the dead to give us eternal life. Do you know you will go to heaven when you die? You can, by committing your life to Jesus Christ now.

"For God to love the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life." (John 1:16)
Our Stories
By Sandra Ayers
Mitchell County

I am a parent with a child who has struggled with addiction. I will not elaborate on their struggle. That is their story to tell. However, I also have a story that I wish to share.

My story involves anger, confusion, despair, denial, isolation, and fear. Every time the phone rang I was afraid. If my child came home I was afraid. If my child did not come home I was afraid. I was afraid of what people thought. I was afraid I could not fix things, guess what I couldn’t. My life was unmanageable.

My child had become my addiction. I was desperate, I needed help but did not know where to turn.

January 2017, I saw a sign for “Celebrate Recovery.” A New program in Mitchell County. I decided to go. At Celebrate Recovery I found recovered addicts, people still struggling with addiction and people just like me. Celebrate Recovery is a confidential Christ based program for anyone with “hurts,habits, and hang-ups.” Who doesn’t qualify?

If you are struggling with addiction please come, if someone in your family is struggling with addiction please come.

Is everything in my life “fixed” absolutely not, but I do have a better understanding of addiction and how it affects the addict and the families of the addict. I, through the “celebrate Recovery” Program have learned to replace anger with love, confusion with understanding, despair with hope, denial with acceptance, isolation with support and fear with trust in Jesus Christ.

“Celebrate Recovery” meets every Thursday at 7:00 pm at Bear Creek Baptist Church. Everyone is welcome here.

By Cecilia Burleson

Assey, Mitchell, and Yancey counties along with our surrounding counties are filled with people either suffering from addiction or suffering because their loved ones are addicted. If you are like me and fall into this category, please let me tell you about Celebrate Recovery. Some people think Celebrate Recovery is just another support group, but they are mistaken. Christ is the difference, and the Answer. Celebrate Recovery is a Christ based recovery group for anyone with hurts, habits or hang-ups. This includes addicts, the people that love them, anyone that wants to join us to worship and celebrate recovery through Jesus Christ. This group meets at Bear Creek Baptist Church in Ledgey every Thursday night at 7 pm. Although I don’t live in Mitchell County anymore, I attend this meeting to support this wonderful ministry and to receive support and prayers from others just like me. If you are skeptical, come. If you are lost, come. If you are broken, come. Christ can and will save you, just like He saved me from a life of torment and destruction.

“No Regrets Family”

I would like to dedicate this article to Doug and Barbara Harrell, owners and editors of the Blue Ridge Christian News. Since moving back to the mountains and taking over the Blue Ridge Christian News, Doug and Barbara have been a tremendous blessing to our mountain community and thousands of people. Doug and Barbara have been good to me and my family and we appreciate their kindness to churches and families all over this area.

As many of you now know Doug is having some major health issues and has asked all of us to pray for him and his family as he takes treatments. Doug is satisfied with however God decides to heal him, he is a man of tremendous faith. He is placing his trust in God.

It is a Biblical prayer that Doug will experience the tremendous grace of God in his adversity. Just as the Apostle Paul expressed about his thorn in the flesh, 2 Corinthians 12:7-10 (KJV 1900)

And last I should be excited about measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me in the flesh, the messenger of Satan to buffet me, last I should be excused above measure. 9 For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me. 10 And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore I will rather glory in infirmities, in distresses, in persecutions, in necessities, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships, in persecutions, in weaknesses, in tribulation, in hardships.

In Luke 1:5 the apostles asked the Lord to increase their faith. A key to overcoming difficulties is faith. The stronger our faith then the stronger we are when trials near our life arrive.

I can understand my faith only as my faith has been tested. Let me explain—If I study for a test and retain knowledge the only way to measure what I have learned is to be tested. If I buy a new tool and promises to hold under the test conditions I will never know what that tool can do until I put it to the test. So it is with faith, we never know how strong our faith is until our faith is tested.

Take for example Job, had it not been for the Lord Job would not have lived. The New Testament describes Job as one who was steadfast or enduring through tribulation. Job would not have made out of the whale’s belly had it not been for the Lord. Daniel, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego would have been burned to death had it not been for the Lord. Daniel would have been devoured by a lion had it not been for the Lord.

It is often said “God will not put on you more than you can handle”, this view of God at first thought sounds very compassionate. However, this is a flawed view of God. God is not up in heaven pouring down something and you only what you are able to handle. God is not the one pouring out, rather the one pouring into your life. God’s grace is sufficient to handle what this fallen world and Satan throw at us. God will not allow adversity in your life above what His grace is sufficient to handle.

Take for example those who suffer extreme adversity like Jon Euretico Tada who at the age of 17 became a quadriplegic and asked his friends to help him commit suicide.

There I was lying in the hospital bed in the summer of 1967 desperately trying to make ends meet, desperately trying to turn my right side down emotions, right side in my pain and despair. I had begged many of my friends to assist me in suicide. That seems to be a common topic these days and many disabled people that I know even in the nineties have a tough time finding life worth living. I sought to find a final escape, a final solution, through assisted suicide, begging my friends to straighten out my wrists, dump pills down my throat, anything to end my misery. The source of my depression is understandable. I could not face the prospect of sitting down for the rest of my life without use of my hands, without use of my legs. All my hopes seemed dashed. My faith was shipwrecked.

I asked how the man is born with no arms or legs? If we are not careful, we will have a view of God much like a pit bull. Inside it is full of all that you can handle, and God is up there pouring it out on you up until the point you can no longer handle it. This is not the God of our Christian faith. God will not allow adversity in your life above what His grace is sufficient to handle.

In life we often feel that when adversity and suffering are at times more than we can handle. That is why God wants us to depend on Him. It is the Christian with the strong faith who will experience the mercy of God during times of adversity. “Sometimes God allows what He hates, to accomplish what He loves,” Joel Euretico Tada

There is no match for suffering. We are no match for suffering. We are no match for hardships. We are no match for death. These things are bigger than we are, and they are more than we can handle. However, with faith in God we can handle anything. 2 Corinthians 4:7-11 (KJV 1900)

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be seen to be of God, and not of us. 8 We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair; 9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed. 10 Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body. 11 For we die daily to live anew: I die daily; for Jesus’ sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

Doug, I love you and Barbara, God will not take you where He has not been. I will never understand all that God does, but I know He never makes a mistake. I am very grateful for men and women who have had their “backs against the wall” and then something miraculous happens “But God.”

Getting Out of the Valley
By Pastor Steve Williams
Mitchell County

Many people feel their life is hopeless. They don’t understand why certain things have happened in their life. They can’t see how in the world they are going to make it through. But my Bible guarantees me that my God will see the course of the playing field straight, even though I don’t understand. Isaiah 45:2 I will go before thee, and make the crooked places straight: I will break in pieces the gates of brass, and cut in sunder the bars of iron. This gives me hope to keep living and trusting God. The truth of the matter is we will all go through tough stretches of life and it doesn’t look like we have much to look forward to, but the Good News is, we have a God that is still in control no matter what we think. Our new millennium has taught us that the promise of technology is hollow. (Look at all the hacking into computer systems.) The reliability of our government is questionable. (Look at all the corruption in Washington.) The integrity of our financial system is suspect. (Look at the Wall Street collapse several years ago.) The security of our nation is compromised. (Iwan Tower, Las Vegas Shootings, and School shootings)

There is an old Arab parable that says: Allah has no sunshine and no rain makes a desert. If you never have any down times, dark times, gloomy times in your life you’ll be dried up. You’ll have no depth to yourself, no maturity. It takes good times and bad times to make a mature person. Life is a mixture of pain and pleasure, of victory and defeat, of success and failure, of mountain tops and valleys.

We have become so self-focused that we have forgotten what God says about the valleys of life and that others have been there and have learned. David wrote to us that there is hope in the valley of life. Psalms 23:4-6, “though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil, for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me.”

There are five facts about valleys that you need to remember whenever you go through a tough time. (1) Valley is inevitable. They are going to happen, so you might as well count on them. You have either just come out of a valley, you’re in one right now, or you’re probably headed toward one. Valleys happen throughout life—on one right after another. After every mountain top is there a valley. Jesus was very realistic about it in John 16. He says “in the world you will have trouble.” It’s not a matter of if a valley will come, it’s when your valley will come. You’re going to have difficulty, disappointment, and discouragement in life. There will be times of suffering, and sorrow. There will be times of frustration, failure. They are going to happen. They are a normal part of life. Don’t be surprised by it. (2) Valleys are unpredictable. You can’t plan them, turn them, or schedule them. Valleys always come unexpectedly. They usually come at the worst time. Have you ever had a flat tire, or get sick at a good time? Folks, they just happen. It would be great if you could schedule your valleys in life, but you can’t because they are unpredictable. (3) Valley are impartal: No one is immune to them. No one gets to skate through life problem-free. Everybody has problems—good people and bad people. Problems, trials, difficulties, disturbances, downswings, depression doesn’t mean you’re a bad person. It means you’re a person. It doesn’t mean you’re an evil human being. It means you’re a human being. Valleys are impartal. They don’t care how good or bad you are. (4) Valley are temporary: They have an end time. They don’t last. They are not a permanent location. David says, “Even though I walk through the valley,””The valley is not something you stay in your entire life. It’s something you go through—a circumstance, a situation that has a reason to it. When you’re in a valley you often think it’s a dead end, but it’s not. They don’t come into your life to stay. They come to pass. IPeter 1:6

“In this greatly rejoice, though now for a little while you may have had to suffer grief in all kinds of trials.” It admits that sometimes you’re going to go through tough times. It’s going to be rough. Life is tough. You’re going to hate it. But it’s only for a while. (2) Valley are purposeful. God has a reason for taking you through the valleys. Whether it’s doubt, depression, despair, discouragement, defeat, He’s got a reason behind it. We will face financial valleys, relational valleys, emotional valleys, and all kinds of different trials. This is no accident, it happens to give you victory. God wants you to enjoy the mountain tops, but you don’t build faith on the mountain tops. You build faith in the valleys of life. When everything is going fine and great you don’t really need God. But when you come face to face with a dark valley, you get on your knees. Faith is strengthened in the valleys.

Clint’s Chronicles on the Funny Farm

The Rest of the Story
Doug Harrell

Clint always had a certain love for the animals, but his Warners moat often took over. He was kind of like, “man, these are BIG animals” if you know what I mean. He was a little more comfortable with smaller pigs as well, but not so much when they got up to grown-up size. My favorite place to keep them when we were working with the cows remained the truck cab over the outhouse on the farm. Great memories!

Funny Farm
Dear Friends,

‘Til the Cows Come Home!

It was mid-March, 2010, and I had only been at Harrell Hill Farms for a few days. Already my rotund chubby obese body – I was a swelle 300 lbs. – was protesting the newfound lifestyle of physical labor. (Don’t tell anybody but a few or so into my “Farmer Clint” transformation I was questioning whether this was the life for me?) One of my assignments was to do a 50 lb. backpack filled with fertilizer pellets and spread them along the pasture called “side dressing” – Christmas trees. Sounds fairly simple except that with the extra 50 lbs. I now was totting 350 lbs. on a nearly vertical slope, oftentimes failing my fat self halfway down the mountain. The strain was nearly unbearable, so much so that I told a friend by the name I was thinking about escape in the middle of the night.

Anyway, it was approaching 5:06 am – a wee bit early for a former prison chaplain – as I meandered outside the farmhouse for a whirl of cool mountain air. Traversing the ditch in front of the house I heard the faint sound of hooves pounding Byrd Road. I wondered what could possibly be happening up the street at such early hour. Must be wild horses. (Don’t laugh, how could I know?)

When what to my wondering eyes should appear but ‘Daddy D’ himself, along the tourist route of a herd of cattle.

In my hometown of Hendersonville, I saw an occasional white squirrel or even a flock of turkeys on my street, but cows never. And it never occurred to me that a man of ‘Daddy D’s’ generation – nearly 94 years young – would be them. Clearly, he was too advanced in years to do this alone… was a job for Farmer Clint as usual.

Learning ‘Cow-Speak’

Outside of these mountainians you rarely think about such things as talking to cows. I mean, why would you? I always thought cows stayed in a big pen, you give ‘em some cornstuff to fatten them up, then they turn into a feedlot, wrong answer!

As usual and hard came closer to my location I could hear ‘Daddy D’ singing to the critters. “Socks, Socks, Socks, Socks.” Now I hadn’t a clue what that meant, but the bovine had no trouble translating. They trotted along as though they were ‘Daddy D’s’ too.

Soon Doug sauntered down from the homestead and the bovine, too, began speaking in a foreign tongue. But he said, “Hey, ohhhhhhhhhhhhh… hey ohhhhhhhhhhh…” “What the heck was that about?” Whatever it meant the hams on hooves, ‘prez vous’ his lilago and obediently followed.

Now, I ask you, given a similar circumstance and feeling as though you needed to help what would you do? That’s right, you make up your own Farmer Clint verbiage and establish your credentials among the thundering herd. Such was my approach. “HEAHhhhhhhhhhhhh… HEAHhhhhhhhhhhhhhh…” At this point I belived. And man did those cows fly around direction as though I had called their mothers a bad name! The rib eyes scattered like roaches at a RAID conference… like chickens at a coyote ball… like mice at a kitty convention… you get the point. The serenity and calm of a summer’s morn because yahmam and madness about midway Byrd Road.

“Train Them Up in the Way They Should Go…”

It is difficult to describe the facial expressions worn by ‘Daddy D’ and Doug as their clutch of cows dispersed like mosquitoes in a Deep Woods Off attack. Sure, they’re cute, they’re wide, they nose, they mound up in a slight crow… it was an eerie sight. As I nudged forward, tobacco stick in hand, ‘Daddy D’ motioned for me to approach.

I stumbled my behemoth body toward them, assuming he wanted me to help formulate a battle plan. He did, but I was an “extra” in this ballet. “Clint,” he said, “do you really want to help me with the cattle?” (Knowing full well that my deep-seated desire is “fit-it”, “to be one with the farres”, to be drifted onto the team). Proudly, with a wee bit of Farmer Clint patnaude I said, “You know I want to help!”

Well, it’s like this…” ‘Daddy D’ began. “These cows don’t know you like they do Doug and me. I think somebody will they, but for now the very best thing you can do is go sit in that truck ever there!” Detained, dazed, feeling like星座 as dry dirt, I limped over to ‘Daddy D’s’ truck. He came to the window and said, “Remember, I’ve been moving cows my whole life… and that’s a freethought.”

So it was that my 94-year-old mentor gave me a hope for a future as Farmer Clint the Cow Master.

Since Then

It’s been 5 years since my first “round-up” and I’ve learned a great deal about farms and their inhabitants. For one thing, I’ve learned that I’m better at telling farm tales than I am at handling cows. Second, a man simply cannot inject himself into a mad of cattle without proper introduction and a bit of optimism for such things. Finally, I’ve learned how to whisper softly “Socks” and “Hey-ohhhhhhh” like a pig. Don’t get me wrong, the cows don’t follow, but they don’t scatter either. It won’t be long before I resemble Rowdy Yates on “Rawhide,” sit Clint Eastwood, moving the thundering herd over the plains.

Oh yeah, I almost forgot to tell you, I lost 163 lbs. during my sentence – coops I mean stay – at Harrell Hill Farms. God is good!

BANNER ELK, N.C. — College information and ranking resource, Affordable Colleges Online (ACO), awarded Lee-McRae a top spot on three separate lists for 2018. The college received a spot at Best Online College in North Carolina, Best Online Accelerated Nursing Degree in the U.S. and Best Online Registered Nurse Degree in the U.S.

“We wanted to honour the colleges and universities sorting the bar for online learning,” said Dan Scheuerer, CEO and Founder of ACO. “These schools are going above and beyond the industry standard to help make online education programs an excellent option and more affordable.”

Affordable Colleges Online took into account the college’s regional accreditation, in-state tuition, fees, and full-time undergraduate student receiving institutional financial aid, number of online programs offered and the student-to-taecher ratio, while developing the ranking.

Established in 2011, ACO offers “free community resource tools and materials that span topics such as financial aid and college savings, opportunities for veterans and people with disabilities and online learning resources,” according to an ACO release.

Nestled in the Blue Ridge Mountains of western North Carolina, Lee-McRae College is a private, four-year college offering diverse bachelor’s degree, strong athletic programs and outstanding faculty. Field-specific career preparation and hands-on learning enhance the broad core curriculum. For more information, please visit www.lmc.edu or call 828.898.5241.

The Delt of Truth
By Chrisitn Lowman
Burke County

Have you ever seen a King snake? They grow up to 6 ft. long and can be found all over the U.S. Some are solid black with white throats. Others are black with white or yellow spots. Some are black with white sections or chains. The most unusual is the Southern King, an orange with black bands. Don’t confuse it with the venomous Coral snake that is black with red and yellow bands.

King snakes are not poisonous to people or large animals, but they still might bite you. In fact, most people like having these around because they kill and eat poisonous snakes like copperheads, rattlesnake, and water moccasins. King snakes also eat rats, mice, birds, birds, and turtle eggs, and lizards. They are active hunters seeking ou their prey by scent. These snakes kill their food by grabbing it with their mouth and constraining it. Constricting means that the snake squeeze the prey with its body. Then they eat it. Depending on the size of its meal, it may eat only a few times per month.

King snakes are known to make good pets. As a pet, they can live up to 30 years. In the wild, their life span is unknown, and they hibernate in the winter.

Have you ever held a pet snake? Their skin is super smooth and very soft! Of course, don’t pick up any snake off the ground, and always get permission from your parents before handling someone’s pet snake!

This snake is called “king” because it kills all other snakes including other King snakes. It’s Greek name, Gloydius blombergi means: shiny shield, because of its well defined glossy scales. They also have many other names such as: Salt and Pepper snake, Thunder snake, Horse racer, Chinese snake, Cow snake, Wampus, Master snake, and Oak-leaf rattler.

When I think of comparing an animal with the belt of truth I automatically think of a snake. Did you know that they make belts out of snake leathers? It is ironic to compare the snake to the belt of truth because if the snake/devil had been truthful in the Garden of Eden then Eve wouldn’t have committed the first sin. The serpent (snake) would have not been used as a tool for his punishment. So I try to李某 Veric EAN Can you imagine what snakes would look like if they still had legs?

What can we learn from the serpent? When we don’t strap the belt of truth around our waist, and lie instead of telling the truth, there will be consequences. Everyone answers for every lie or wrong thing they do. If the snake had been truthful it would be walking with legs instead of slithering on its belly, and people wouldn’t be out to kill them when they see them. The devil whispers in all of our ears, trying to get us to lie, sin, and deceive others just like he did to the snake in the Garden of Eden. That is why it is so important that you wear your “belt of truth” each day. When you tell lies, it breaks a person’s trust. Sometimes it takes a very long time for that person to trust you again. He also tells us to go out and tell people the truth about Jesus Christ, even if it sets them. Lying to people makes them believe other lies and Gyvenes very difficult if not impossible for them to believe you. So, always be truthful, it is what God wants you to do. If it wasn’t important it wouldn’t be the ninth commandment in the Ten Commandments. So, strap up the belt of truth, not only to keep your pants up, but to help remind you to always tell the truth no matter what. You can even imagine that your belt is made from snake leathers if you want to! Every time you think about fibbing remember your belt and ask God to help you tell the truth.

Our most kind, heavenly Father, I pray that you will help each child strive to always tell the truth even if they get in trouble by doing so. Help others realize how important it is to always be honest and to obey this commandment. Show them that all sins, small and big are all lies in Your eyes. Remind them to put on their belt of truth and to remember that it is theirs when the devil tempted them to sin. In Jesus’s name I pray Amen.

Stand firm then, with the belt of truth buckled around your waist, with the breastplate of righteousness in place, Ephesians 6:14

A belt of truth. God said it to the serpent, “Because you have done this, Cursed are you more than all cattle. And more than every beast of the field. On your belly you will go, and dust you will eat. All the days of your life, And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your seed and her seed. He shall bruise you on the head, and you shall bruise him on the heel.” Genesis 3:14-15 NASB

Unshakable Faith
By Rick and Cindy Mercer
Burke County

Have you ever been tested and tried for your faith? Has your allegiance to Christ ever been challenged? If you are like most people, our "shrieks" to defend our faith position has been limited and certainly has not caused us to face severe ridicule, imprisonment or even death. But we have certainly read the multiple stories of those who have died a martyr's death. And it seems that every true these stories resurface the question remains, "Is my faith that strong?"

Other thoughts come quickly to our mind... "Where did that kind of courage come from?"

Maybe our courage can be like Peter Beckman who made his living by ferrying people and goods on the river Amstel. There were times when he would sail down the canals of Amsterdam with fellow believers so they could worship in secret.

When Peter and his wife had their first child, the couple tried to keep the infant hidden so they would not be forced to have it christened in the state church. But neighbors eventually betrayed them to the magistrates.

Peter was tried, convicted for "crime against the divine and secular majesty... which disturb the peace," and condemned "to be executed with fire... and his entire property confiscated."

They put this fastest ferry operator on the rack in one last infamous effort to bend his faith. But it proved unshakable.

Peter was burned in January of 1569.

A close friend of his, Willems Janis, heard about the planned execution and hurried to the site from a nearby town. Wanting to offer some encouragement, he arrived at Amsterdam's gate, but the bar had already been let down. Willems had to bribe the gatekeeper to let him in.

He rushed to the site of the execution and arrived just as Peter was being led out to the stake. Willems called out, "Contend valiantly, dear brother."

What gave Peter such death-defying faith? Why was he willing to stand "heartsly" for the Lord without wavering? There is one reason.

He believed that Jesus was divine and that His offer of eternal life was real. To reject Jesus was to reject eternal life. Peter accepted the Savior's words to Martha, "I am the resurrection and the life. He who believes in Me, though he may die, he shall live. And whoever lives and believes in Me shall never die" (John 11:25, 26).

Eternal life is life forever in the joyful presence of God the Father, Jesus Christ His Son, the Holy Spirit, and all the heavenly hosts.

The martyrs of the past saw beyond the flames to eternity. By faith they grasped the promises of God.

The promise is ours today: "He who believes in Me... shall have eternal life" (John 11:25, 26). Our lives are "hidden with Christ in God" (Col. 3:3). His promise of the resurrection is certain. We can have absolute confidence that He will fulfill His word.

We can certainly praise God that because of Resurrection Day, we too can have "victory in Jesus!" We can be assured that in the end of all of the promises from God's word there is a period. There are no question marks. We can believe that the promises are true. Encourage each other to keep their hands on the plow and "whatever you do, do it heartily, as to the Lord and not to men." (Col. 3:23)

And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh! (Luke 21:28)

The Rotary of Spruce Pine

AMY Regional Library
By Doug Suduth
Mitchell County

Members and guests of the Rotary Club of Spruce Pine were privileged to welcome Amber Westall Briggs to their weekly club meeting on February 8. As the Regional Library Director for Avery, Mitchell, and Yancey Counties, Briggs was introduced by Tasky Tollison, who noted that the director has "just about the most perfect career on the planet, because most days she is surrounded by books and people of all ages." Briggs has a special affection for Rotary International for in 2012, she was selected to participate in a Professional Exchange in Finland. She credits Rotary with teaching her about service above self, the Rotary motto.

Briggs started with AMY Regional Library as a volunteer in Burnsville and has served as its director for more than two years. She sees the public library as constantly changing, shifting from a repository of books to a full-fledged community center. Through outreach programs the library is vital to a rural community. Briggs sees public advocacy as essential for expanding library services.

Financial Counseling

(Debt and income crisis)

Dear Dave,

I received a call the other day from a company saying it could negotiate the balance on my credit cards to a lesser amount. The caller also said they could get me a zero-percent interest rate until the debts were paid off, and then the accounts could be closed. I'm kind of starting over again financially, because I sold a company I had run for almost 15 years, then got into real estate and lost almost everything. I'm making just enough to squeak by, and my credit card debt total is $40,000. Would this be a good idea?

Bill

Dear Bill,

No, that is not a good idea. You're looking at two major problems with a company such as this one. One, they will absolutely destroy whatever credit you may have. Their plan is to take your cash, and spend some time beating down the credit card companies until they agree to accept a lesser amount. Then, they use your cash to settle debts you will have — by that time— defaulted on. This will put you in a situation very similar to the one you're in now. Staying away from these people.

You have no income crisis, in addition to a debt crisis, at this point. For starters, I want you to start living on a tight, written, monthly budget. I'm talking rice and beans, and eating dinner out only if you pay off this debt. Where your income is concerned, maybe you should consider getting back into the kind of business you can previously for a while. Look for a managerial or supervisory position in that area, or at least until you're able to get back on your feet and save some cash. Finally, cut up the credit cards, close the accounts, and put as much money as you can spare towards paying off that debt using the debt snowball system. Never go back into debt again.

—Dave

(Fray off house first?)

My husband and I are in our forties. We have no children, and we bring home $65,000 a year combined. We're also debt-free except for our house. We own just $10,000 on the house and can take care of that in a few months. Would it be okay for you to finance the Baby Steps, a little bit, and pay off our house before getting serious about saving for retirement?

Nan

Dear Nan,

I don't usually give folks any wiggle room when it comes to sticking with the proper order of the Baby Steps. But if you're that close to being completely debt-free, I don't see anything wrong with paying off the house first.

Most people I talk to still have anywhere from $50,000 to $200,000 left on their mortgages. That's a little bit different story, however, and you two are obviously managing your money well.

Knock out that mortgage, and start pouring at least 15 percent of your income into retirement. You're going to love the feeling — and the freedom — that comes with being completely debt-free!

How Much House Can I Afford?

Buying a house can be lots of fun. It’s exciting to see all those years of dreaming come to life in a place you can finally call your own. With so many possibilities at your fingertips, it’s easy to get caught up in the excitement before asking yourself the most important question of all: How much house can I afford?

In Donna’s name, the kitchen is fabulous or the backyard is big. If you can’t pay the mortgage each month, or find the cash to fix what’s broken, your house will never be a blessing.

Step 1: Start with a Solid Foundation

Before trying to find out how much house you can afford, determine if you’re financially ready to buy a house by asking yourself these questions:

1. Am I debt-free with three to six months of expenses in an emergency fund?
2. Can I make at least a 10 percent (preferably 20 percent) down payment?
3. Do I have enough cash to cover closing costs and mortgage payments?
4. Can I afford the house payments 25 percent or less of my monthly take-home pay?
5. Can I afford to take out a 15-year fixed-rate mortgage?
6. Can I afford ongoing maintenance and utilities for this home?

If you answered no to any of the above questions, now may not be the right time to buy a house. Just married? With at least a year before buying a house, even if you know your finances are in order. Don’t add the stress of a house purchase to a brand-new marriage, and never buy real estate with your significant other unless you’re actually married!

Step 2: Get the Right Real Estate Agent

Your search for houses may start online, but it shouldn’t end there. You can do a lot of research on your own, but you need the help of an expert when it comes to finding and securing your perfect home. A buyer’s agent can help you navigate through the home-buying process.

Singing in the Cave

By Jerry Lewis
McDowell County

Singing comes natural when life is good, the bills are paid, the family is well, and the future looks bright. However, when the news isn’t good, singing often escapes us. David taught us in Psalm 57 to sing in the cave. Running for his life, with his enemies camped all around him, he wrote:

Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me, for in you my soul takes refuge; in the shadow of your wings I will take refuge, till the storms of destruction pass by. (Psalm 57:1, ESV)

Before David sang, he cried out to God. His singing never glossed over his fear, never ignored his dilemma. When you’re in the cave, there’s no need to pretend life is good. Problems are problems. Hurts are hurts. Bad news is bad news. A troubling diagnosis is a troubling diagnosis. David calls his enemies lions, fiery beasts with spears for teeth and swords for a tongue!

But he doesn’t stay there.

My heart is steadfast, O God, my heart is steadfast! I will sing and make melody! (Psalm 57:7, ESV)

This is the same Psalm! David is still sitting in the same cave. Saul is still pursuing him. None of that has changed. When you’re in the cave, you will have to will what you do not feel. David reflects on the character of God (he wills to see God in spite of his circumstances) and as a result reflects the character of God (he feels God’s presence).

Unprecedented Increase in Midlife White Death Rate for NC. Why?

By Dr. Mark Creech

According to the Associated Press, researchers at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C. say the midlife white death rate in 40 of the state's counties is seeing an unprecedented increase.

When I first read this, I thought to myself, "What in the world?" But the lead author of the study, Dr. Charles Mandell, attributed a large portion of the increased mortality rate to "deaths of despair." That's a classification that applies to suicide, alcohol, and drug abuse issues. Mandell added that the findings in the Tar Heel state reflect national trends.

In 2015, a couple of Princeton economists released a groundbreaking study that concluded that the death rates among white middle-aged Americans had climbed nearly as many lives in the past 15 years as the spread of AIDS. The Guardian, which reported on the study, said, "Though not fully understood, the increased deaths are largely thought to be a result of more suicides and the misuse of drugs and alcohol, driven by easier access to powerful prescription painkillers, cheaper high-quality heroin, and greater financial stresses."

It's not always easy to pinpoint what's at the heart of people's despair but it's a surprising thing when drugs and alcohol are in the mix, especially alcohol, the problems intensify. It's like throwing fuel on the fire.

Alcohol and suicide are like bosom buddies. One-third of all suicides in the United States involve alcohol. Alcoholics are 120 times more likely to commit suicide.

Quintessential says, "Because alcohol makes people act more impulsively, previous suicidal thoughts may evolve into action with the use of alcohol. Because alcohol inhibits the ability to reason, drunken people do not fully realize the consequences... Regular alcohol abuse causes depression, which is the main factor in suicide. Suicidal acts are performed while abusing alcohol and these acts may lead to suicidal feelings or actions... Drinking causes countless issues in people's lives, and may cause some to believe suicide to be the only answer."

This is not to mention the many other alcohol-related health issues that can kill early in life, such as alcohol poisoning and chronic liver disease—just to mention a couple.

It was interesting to me to note that the ECU study said, "Considering specific causes of death for midlife whites in the state as a whole, the fitted rates for heart disease, diabetes, and lung cancer were lower than in 2000, but rates for suicide and liver disease were higher. The fitted rate for suicide increased by 51.0% from 2000 to 2013. The increase in suicide deaths of midlife whites is projected to be 80.0% in 2020. Similarly, for liver disease, the fitted mortality rate of midlife whites increases by 38.4% from 2000—2013 and is estimated to be 79.7% higher in 2020."

Significant increases in suicide rates and liver disease? That smells of alcohol to me, and to most anyone else, I think; that's willing to be honest about it.

As someone who has been addressing alcohol policy in North Carolina since 1999, I can say with authority that North Carolina has done more in the last 18 years to repeal public health and safety restrictions on alcohol than any period since Prohibition. And while, it appears the warnings that were easily dismissed and left unheeded or not to this are now exacting their toll in blood.

Moreover, while the state has also been increasing accessibility to alcohol, we have also inadvertently distracted citizens from the one thing that is truly the balm for their despair—worship!

Last year, the North Carolina General Assembly passed, and Governor Roy Cooper signed the "Bourch Hill" legislation that now allows establishments that sell alcohol to begin sales early on Sunday mornings, instead of waiting until noon when church services are over. Indiana and Georgia are currently considering similar proposals.

Proponents argue this shouldn't have a negative impact on church attendance. Still, reputable studies show that when a state repeal its Blue Laws, not only does this escalate alcohol-related problems, but religious attendance falls.

Worship is necessary to the recreation of the battered and broken spirit of humanity. We desperately need it because life often gets our goat.

Do you know the origin of that expression? Racoon counselors used to put a goat in the stall with sensitive, high-strung horses. The presence of a docile goat would help quiet and relax the horse. Sometimes before a big race, an unsupervised owner would steal the goat out of a rival's stable. He knew that if he could "take his neighbor's goat" his horse wouldn't run the race well.

This is the day of aged nerves and complicated personal problems. Life often gets our goat and we don't run the race of life well. But sound research demonstrates that regular church attendance results in people having stable family lives, fewer instances of divorce, fewer out of wedlock births, and less crime and addiction issues. Those who attend church regularly also have positive health benefits such as increased longevity, less killer diseases, and better chances for recovery from illness.

If you are wondering why the experts at ECU didn't see the same increase in mortality rates among nonwhites as whites, their study did say for reasons unknown that there was no evidence of increases in heavy drinking among midlife nonwhites. Maybe that's because, generally speaking, nonwhites, more specifically blacks, attend church more often by higher margins than whites.

If your life is filled with misfortune, you might want to ditch the booze or other drugs. You definitely ought not to take your own life. It may sound overly simplistic, but let me suggest going to church. Try a Christ-centered, Bible-believing fellowship for a while, with an open mind and heart. It might just save and extend your life.

Laughter
By Chelsea Blevins
Since 2014

One of my favorite things about life is laughter. That bubbly feeling you get with a giggle or that deep rumble that comes from the most pure and rarest form of happiness.
Yeah, laughing is my favorite.

There is something really special about seeing the expressions of others. Feeling someone else’s feelings in that same moment together.

Sometimes I think God has to talk to us with humor to get my attention.

If I am being honest it isn’t always that I WANT to hear what God is trying to do with my life. I can hear the slightest sound of fear and vulnerability. I don’t like to feel uncomfortable, I don’t like to be “that girl”, I don’t like things not going the way I planned.

See here is where God laughs. Because for me to think for a second my plan would be better than the One who breathed life into me? Who am I kidding?

A while back I received a call from my sister and I could hear the worry and the fear in her voice. I think for a few minutes the world felt as if it came to a standstill. You know that moment when fear sets in and you just want to run.
That moment when you have no idea what to say or how to react. You may even have a little anger at why God is allowing this to happen. That, why me? why now? God’s moment. My brother-in-law was diagnosed with cancer.

I can only imagine what my sister went through. What my brother-in-law went through.

What thought the devil tried to tell them is newsworthy.
But, we wanna know something.

They never for a moment let fear step into the race God had set for them. They never let the enemy drag them down in defeat.

They learned to laugh in the face of fear.

They learned that because Jesus is enough, nothing was too big.
I think we all have to reach a point in our lives.
The point when we realize Jesus is all there is, and he is enough.
He is more than enough.

This life is a race and sometimes it’s tough, but with Jesus we can finish.
Not only finish but finish strong and bold. I like to think of Jesus as my sidekick-motivator. “Come on, you can do this! Don’t give up! Walk and grow weary! Run and not faint! Use the strength and not your strength!”

I know you’ve finished your race. I know you’ve prepared you for this! I have prepared you!”

Maybe you’re letting your fear keep you from finishing the race God has given you. Maybe you’re telling yourself you’re not strong enough or that you’re not equipped to finish.

But I think that’s why we often get so confused.

It’s us who finishes the race. It’s Jesus in us. We finish and only finish because of Jesus. It has nothing to do with our own capability.

But it has to do with his. He is enough. He is the strength. He is the focus. He is the cheering section. He is the one who brought you across the finish line.

“David was just a weak little shepherd boy, but Jesus made him strong.”

There were just five loaves of bread, but with Jesus he fed five thousand.

“Lazarus was dead, but Jesus showed up.”

A woman was hurting. Jesus gave her an everlasting drink.

“Satan thought he had won, but the tomb was empty.”

We have to have faith for God to work in our lives. When fear tells us to have fear, to give up, to quit.

We’ve got to welcome him into every room in our hearts.

“There’s more to life than just ups and downs.
Life is always going to be that way. The only constant thing in this life is Jesus. Until we decide he is enough, nothing else ever will be.

Cancer may become a frequent word in your fam-
y.

Heartbreak might knock at your door.
Your worst fear might become our reality.

But, there is more to life. There is more to this. The 2014 thing in this life is Jesus. Until we decide he is enough, nothing else ever will be.

God wants us to do so much in our lives, but we have to be willing to allow him in. We have to allow him to work and at times that means being uncomfortable and vulnerable.

That means allowing him to grow us in his way and his time.

Following Jesus is more than running at the sound of fear.
Following Jesus is standing firm in faith and believing what He says even when fear

tells us to run.

Following Jesus is finding beauty in disaster. Following Jesus is finishing the race when Satan attempts to bend you with chains. Following Jesus is learning to laugh in the face of fear.

With Jesus, we can laugh.

With Jesus we can boldly, fearlessly, and joyfully finish the race before us.

So, I say or 100 miles, fast or slow, pray you take your wild heart and you run the race that is set before you, bold, fearless, and joyful.

(Thanks to my beautiful sister and brother for allowing me to witness God’s work in your lives. You taught me to laugh at fear and the true meaning of faith. Love you)

Armed with God’s Word

By Allen Buchanan

After drinking his Coca-Cola, the pilot decided to toss the empty glass bottle out the window of his small airplane as he flew over the desert of Alaska. Little did he know that on the earth’s floor below, the bottle would make such an impact. Fortunately, the bottle had not crushed down on anyone’s head. Instead, it hit the ground hard and didn’t shatter. One of the local tribesman happened to see it just about the time it hit the ground. He didn’t have a clue as to what it was, or that something could fall out of the sky. As he picked it up to examine it, others were watching and came over to see too. As quickly as this bottle had entered his life, his personality had changed, and he wasn’t willing to share. His next thought was what to do with it? Before long he had discovered he could carry sand, water and even food in it. His fellow tribesmen thought he should share the bottle. But there was only one and everyone seemed to want it as their own. This led to problems within the tribe. Arguments and fights broke out over the possession of one bottle. The tribal leader stepped in and declared it must be returned before someone got hurt or even killed for it. He explains that the gods must be crazy to send them such an object. After the tribe tried to throw it back up in the sky where it had come from, they determined that since the world was flat, the leader would walk to the end of the earth and drop it off. This story came from the 1980 Indian film, “The God’s Must Be Crazy”.

I told you about the Coca-Cola bottle as a way to say that with everything made, it started out with good intentions. Once Satan got his hands on it, we started spinning downward and out-of-control. After the school shootings in Parkland, FL recently, I’d give anything to have the answer that would stop all this violence once and for all. My heart is shocked each time I hear of mother shooting because the numbers keep increasing. Can it all be blamed on guns? I doubt it. Weapons have been around throughout history and used in warfare and for protection. Guns have provided many meals for starving families.

Back in the early 90’s as technology was coming on the scene, I encouraged people of all ages to make use of it to expand their imagination. All the endless possibilities that could now be accomplished through a computer chip was simply amazing. Yet, here in 2018, I wish to some degree, this technology had skipped our generation or not happened at all.

If we look at just one avenue of shootouts within America, say high school, is it possible that our teenagers do this to get their name in print or to get many likes or hits on Facebook and YouTube? The youth have always wanted to be loved and given as much attention as possible. If they don’t get it at home, social media is there to catch them. Somewhere along the way, Satan has convinced them that their talents or sports are no longer the best places to grab their ten minutes of fame. You’ve got to kill. No, a thousand times no! God’s word says otherwise; Exodus 20:13 states “Thou shalt not kill.” Before we can get anyone to obey God’s word, they must first know Him. It’s too late now to pray that everyone who was killed in Parkland was saved. It’s too late to make sure your teenager has Jesus in their heart the next time they enter their high school campus. Arm your child! Not with guns, but with God’s Word.

“My brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand.” Ephesians 6:10-14 KJV

I am writing this month with a heavy heart. The school shooting in Florida is just 24 hours old. The MSM is running rampant with stories that haven’t been proven. Political posturing has begun to take a toll on the nation. People are being polarized once again by social engineers, social media and cultural icons.

The victims and their families are left traumatized and vulnerable to manipulation. Most of us reading this article and even myself as I write it cannot begin to understand the sorrow these people are living. I can’t imagine getting a phone call and being told my daughter (who is a teacher) and two of my grandchildren at the same school have been killed by a gunman who entered the school. Yet, I realize it’s possible, given the day we live in. What can we possibly learn from God’s word about tragedies like these and how we should handle them?

I want to share with you 10 pieces of scripture that I hope will help you today or at some point in your life. Because in some way, shape, form or fashion tragedy will strike us all.

1. John 14:27 Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

If we continue to look for a solution to violence on Earth, we will never find it. No one can solve these problems. Instead, we must start putting our trust back in the Lord. We have pushed God out of America, it shows with the culture of violence we have. I remember going to school and every car and truck in the parking lot had a rifle or shotgun in it. There were no school shootings. Because we respected life and the giver of life.

2. Psalm 55:21 Cast thy burden upon the LORD, and he shall sustain thee: he shall never suffer the righteous to be moved.

When we send our cares, our worries and our prayers to the Lord, He hears us and blesses those who claim His name. The Lord said often, that He would never cast His eyes from His children when they called out to Him. We cannot hope to begin seeing change on this planet if we continue to ignore the person who loves us the most.

3. Psalm 56:3 What time I am afraid, I will trust in thee.

God knows all. He knows the sorrow we feel and knows when our hearts are heavy. When this world seems too scary to face alone, remember to put your trust in the Lord, and know that His plan will conquer all. We have to learn to war against the evil forces and pray with confidence.

4. Deuteronomy 31:6 Be strong and of a good courage, fear not, nor be afraid of them: for the LORD thy God, he it is that doth go with thee; he will not fail thee, nor forsake thee.

He promises His people, no matter the situation, He will never leave us. No matter our fear, He is with us.

5. Matthew 5:4 Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted.

There is comfort in the Lord for those who are mourning tragedy. Crying upon him in our time of need is not being weak, it is showing that our trust has been put in Him and that He is who we seek out in our times of grief.

6. Psalm 147:3 He healeth the broken in heart, and bindeth up their wounds.

There is comfort in the Lord to those who genuinely reach out to Him.

7. Lamentations 3:6 Fear and a snare is come upon us, desolation and destruction. (48) Mine eyes run down with rivers of water for the destruction of the daughter of my people.

The Lord is not ignorant of our sufferings. For those who call out to Him, He is there to provide peace.

8. Lamentations 3:55-57 I called upon the name of the LORD, out of the bowels of mercy. (56) Thou hast heard my voice: hide not thine ear at my crying, at my cry. (57) Thou drewest near in the day that I called upon thee: thou saidst, Fear not.

The Lord gives us strength when we are weak and gives us comfort when we are scared.

9. Romans 12:17-19 Reproach not a man evil for evil: Provide things honest in the sight of all men. (18) If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men. (19) Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

Revenge is ours to take. Evil weighs down our hearts and becomes a never-ending cycle. The Lord will avenge those who chose to live an evil life with justice.

10. Romans 12:21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

Continue to look towards the Son in all you do. Do not let the evil in this world overcome your conviction to do what is godly and right. A small ripple can lead to a wave, either good or bad.

Thank you for sharing your valuable time with me and until next month may God keep you firmly in His grip.

PALM BRANCHES
I stood among a lively crowd
As Jesus passed that day
His mission to accomplish
The King would come our way.
The people spread their garments
Palm branches from trees so green
They placed them in His pathway
In honor of the King.

He came riding on a donkey
Palm branches made a way it’s true
For the Avenue One to ride
His robe of purple, white and blue.

 Hosanna to The Son of David
Praises rang out to The Highest
His face shined like the brightest sun

Is Life Really Like a Box of Candy?

By Laura Ellis

Kingsport, Tennessee

Forest Guip said, “Life is like a box of chocolates, you never know what you’re gonna get.” I’m afraid I have to disagree with Forest. A beautifully wrapped box of candy with each piece perfectly shaped chocolates nestled snugly and safely in tiny cups or wrapped in gold foil is a far cry from real life. Life does not come with all the pieces neatly assembled. Therefore to use life is more like a jigsaw puzzle. It was while working a rather difficult puzzle that I began seeing how easily it could regiment life.

A puzzle piece that looks like it should fit but doesn’t yet we may have the teudacity to try it into place - Trying to make a piece fit is like one who makes poor choices in life and attempts to justify them. Sometimes I can return to the puzzle that had “goosed” me and immediately pick up a piece and put it into its proper place - With some situations in life there’s no immediate solution. That’s when we step back, pray, and wait. Then one day the answer comes and the piece fits. In the more complicated puzzles there will be a lot of pieces that look alike – These are difficult situations in life that seem impossible at the time - Hearing the doctor’s diagnosis, facing months of chemotherapy, rehabilitating marital problems, the wayward child or even raising children in general. Jesus said that we would have tribulations in this life but we’re also told that tribulations produce perseverance resulting in a hope that does not disappoint.

The jigsaw puzzle could have a missing piece. What should have been a beautiful picture is left with a blank spot.

The death of a loved ones certainly leaves a hole in one’s life but sad as that is there is no comparison to the gaping hole in a life without Jesus. If your life is missing Jesus there is no better time than right now to trust Him to complete the picture. Once He is in place in the rest of our puzzled life pieces have a better chance to fall in place and fit snugly together.

So back to the question — “Is life like a box of candy?” My desire for all of us is that there will be lots of days that are chocolate covered morsels of sweetness but we shouldn’t be surprised when there are days that are more like all pickles, sour grapes or indigestion from a bowl of chili. After all, at times life can be a bit “puzzling.”

Lana Ellis resides in Kingsport TN, next door to grandchildren. Church is West Colonial Hills Baptist Church.

5 Common Myths About Hospice

- Myth 1: Hospice is only appropriate for people who are in the last few days of life.
  - Hospice care is for anyone with an advanced illness. Hospice can do so much to make the patient’s and family’s last days as comfortable and as free as possible from their diagnosis.

- Myth 2: Hospice is too expensive.
  - Hospice care is a non-profit, community-based agency. Hospice of the Blue Ridge accepts people based on their needs rather than their ability to pay. There is no cost to the patient or their families.

- Myth 3: Hospice is only for people who have cancer.
  - Hospice and Palliative Care of the Blue Ridge serves individuals with a variety of medical conditions including end stage heart disease, dementia, kidney and lung disease.

- Myth 4: You are required to have a do-not-resuscitate order.
  - The goal of hospice is to have a comfortable, peaceful-end of-life experience. While some people choose to have DNR to avoid unnecessary medical interventions, it is not required.

- Myth 5: People die faster on Hospice.
  - Research shows that patients on hospice actually live longer and have better quality of life than those who do not have hospice. It is best for people to receive hospice earlier in their disease process to get the support that they need.

The Heart of Man

By Preacher Chris Hathorne

Mitchell County

In Matthew 15 verses 1-20, Jesus teaches an all-important lesson to the religious leaders and His disciples about man’s heart problem. He’s not talking about a physical heart problem but a spiritual one. Let us eat in context of what Jesus said about the heart.

The scribes and Pharisees, which were the Jewish leaders, came to Jesus and asked Him a question. They wanted to know why His disciples broke their tradition by not washing their hands before eating. Nowadays, these men had made a little religious ceremony from hand washing! I imagine that before they sat down to eat they all would go through this little ritual of washing their hands and it had become such a tradition to them they expected everyone else to observe it. Jesus pointed out that they were more worried about a man-made tradition than the commandment to honor your parents, which should have been more concerned about keeping the law of God than a tradition of man. Jesus calls them hypocrites in verse 16! He said they honored Him with their lips, but their hearts were far from Him. They worshiped in vain and taught their traditions like they were doctrines of God. They ignored God’s word and had made their traditions a law and expected everyone to keep it. Folks are still doing that today!

While washing one’s hands is certainly good hygiene, it is not a commandment of God. Beginning in verse 10, Jesus teaches us a very important lesson about the heart of man. The Pharisees were worried about something physically external to their body and defined them, Jesus explained the things which a man eats doesn’t defile him, but it’s the things which come from his heart, from the inner man, that will defile him. They were blind leaders leading blind followers! They and their teaching were not of God and would be rooted up (vs. 13-14).

Peter asks Jesus in verse 15 to explain the parable to them. Verses 16-20 are the ummost importance when it comes to understanding the inner man of heart. For some reason, our society keeps believing that if we can just change the outward condition, outward influences, outward appearance, the outward availability, outward time, we can change the evil things. Jesus explains to us, if we’ll just listen, what needs to change. I want to quote this, so we can all get into our thick skulls what causes men to do wicked things.

Matthew 15:18-20 And Jesus said, “Ye have heard that it was said, ‘An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth.’ But I say unto you, That ye resist not evil: whosoever shall smite thee on the one cheek, turn the other also to him; and if any man willpluck thee out one of thine eyes, let him pluck out both, or if he will pluck out thine one肢体, let him pluck out both. Ye have heard that it was said unto them of old time, ‘Thou shalt not murder: and whosoever shall murder shall be in danger of the judgment.’ But I say unto you, That whosoever is angry with his brother without a cause shall be in danger of the judgment.”

Once again, our hearts are broken from hearing another school shooting.

My heart goes out in prayer for all those affected and who have lost loved ones.

May God grant peace and grace to those who have been hurt by such a senseless and evil act. Once again, the question is asked, “What was the motive?” or “How could someone do such a thing?” The politicians are busy using this tragedy as a push for laws restricting guns. The political pandering and finger pointing will go on for months. All the while most people will ignore the root of the problem: the wicked heart of man. Wicked people do wicked things because of a wicked heart.

We can restrict gun ownership, search and seize, and wicked people will use box cutters and airplanes.

We can place restrictions on who can travel in planes and wicked people will use homemade bombs in subways.

The problem is not that we try to change on the outside of man, the problem is the problem comes from the inner heart of man. If the heart is not changed, the things wicked people do will continue. We can scream, fight, and de-legitimize all we want, but what’s in the well (heart) will always come up in the bucket.

Jesus changes hearts! As long as mankind rejects the One who can change who they are on the inside, the wicked things they do will continue outside will continue. No matter how many laws or traditions man comes up with, wicked people will always do wicked things.

The problem is not with laws but with man’s heart. A wicked heart will always find a way to do wicked things. There must be a transformation of the heart of man before our society will ever see end to these senseless acts of violence.

We regulate alcohol, but people still drink and drive and kill innocent people. We regulate drugs and people still sell and use them illegally. We take people’s driver’s license for alcohol and drug use, and guess what, they still get in a vehicle and drive under the influence and kill innocent people! We incarcerate rapists and child molesters, they will serve their time and most likely rape and molest again if given the chance. We better wake up our friends and realize what the root of the problem is: It’s the heart of man!

Small Town Life

By Claudia Bailey Honeycutt
Mitchell County

There are days I love small town life. Today is one.
Baby J and I set some of our dear friends for lunch. Love them so much. I wanted to encourage them, as they are taking to Duke to begin treatment. Of course, it didn’t work out that way. They spent an encouraging meal and talking about the goodness of God. We went to IT’s. What an awesome place to have in town, where people just meet each other. For coffee, or food, or work, or prayer, or company meetings, or just good food. My kids work there too, so I sat a bit partial to the little one in the jeans and black t-shirt, with the bunny hat and the cute socks. The one with the great eyelashes Anyway, we grabbed the living room on the left as you walk in. I was so aware of the crowd in there. Friends stopped by to check on the baby and tell as how much you loved us and had prayed for us through the friend stopped by to give me my friends and give them words of wisdom and encouragement on their next journey. Lots of hugs.
Lots of handshakes. Lots of smiles and laughter. It was such a blessing to see how small towns really work. People for the most part, love each other. They pray for each other. They encourage one another, through hard times, and babies, and deaths, and sickness, and aging parents, and troubled kids. . . . How many thousand cups of coffee, or scoops of ice cream have been shared in that window living room while people just loved each other!

I see man on the street early on Saturday mornings, having breakfast and catching up, or whatever men do during those times. Maybe they just eat. I don’t know. I see women taking a thousand miles an hour, trying to get to all at before their lunch break is over, or they have to pick up the kids from somewhere. I see teenagers come and go at school, for a coffee, or a quick snack before the bell rings. Lot of homework. Lot of jokes. Lot of newspaper reading. Lot of hugs and tears, and happy times and good old-fashioned talking. . . . I see face to face your mouth and hands and eyes, and not texting . . . talking!

I’m thankful for places like that downtown. I’m thankful for small town friendships, and small-town support systems. It’s important to recognize good things. Today, it was a good day to be in Spruce Pine.

Enjoying Everyday Life

What’s Your “One Thing”?
By Joyce Meyer

What’s Your “One Thing”?
When it comes to your relationship with God, how does it even matter? Do you judge it by how often you go to church? Or how many Scripture verses you’ve memorized? Maybe the length of your prayer time? Does any of that really matter?
Well, the answers to these questions are yes and no. Yes, there’s a benefit to attending church. Sure, it’s good to know the Word of God. And prayer—well, you really can’t pray too much. But it doesn’t matter whether you’re sitting in a pew every Sunday or whether you pray in your car on your way home. But no—none of that impresses God or proves anything to Him. He is not logging your prayer hours.

You see, Christianity is not about our weekly church attendance. Many people go to church often and hear many sermons, but hardly put much of what they hear into their actions. But real Christianity is about having a personal, intense relationship with Christ. It’s about learning how to live an abundant, purposeful life.

We can go to church each week and hear a powerful, life-changing message every time, but when we have a sermon, we need to focus on what really touches our lives in a personal way. That’s most likely the thing God wants to deal with us about. Then, we need to go home and meditate on it, study more about that subject in God’s Word, and spend time in prayer seeking how to apply that truth to our lives.

That’s what intimacy with God is all about. It’s a personal relationship with Him. It’s Him being involved in our lives, and it’s knowing His aware of and concerned about all the details— even the seemingly insignificant or non-spiritual details.

I remember years ago when my husbond, Dave, and I used to be in a bowling league. God and recently touched my life in a powerful way. On any way to bowl one evening, God spoke to my heart and said, “Why don’t you ask Me to help you bowl?” Bowl? God? Yes . . .
and He will help us with everything
we’re concerned about—our health, our finances, raising our children, or whatever it is that we need. That’s how a personal relationship with God is:
He is concerned about everything that concerns us. We don’t have to divide our lives into the sacred and the secular,
for He goes with us wherever we go.

The important thing to remember is thatJesus cares.
That’s why I’m so thankful to have Him so close to me at all times. I’m ever alone.

I think the answer is simply one thing. Intimacy. We—not God—determine our level of intimacy with Him. We are each as close to God as we want to be. And the closer we get to God, the more intimate we become in our relationship with Him and the more we grow and mature spiritually. In other words, we grow up. And I think that David had the right idea. He said, “One thing I have asked of the Lord, and that I will seek: that I may dwell in the house of the Lord in His presence all the days of my life, to gaze upon the beauty of the delights of His beauty and to meditate in His temple” (Psalm 27:4-AMP).
David was more concerned with seeking God’s face—His presence—than seeking His hand—what God could do for me or what I could do for Him. He simply loved God. And because of that, he grew in character, excellence and integrity, and became a mighty king.

Jesus had many followers. Twelve of them were close friends that He spent much time with. Some of them were with Him in special situations and circumstances to minister to one another. And there was one who actually called himself “the disciple whom Jesus loved”.

All of these people spent time with Jesus. Some were closer to Him than others, but He loved them all. And He loves all of us. God will never love any of us more than He loves us right this minute. He loves us for each one of our lives. The closest thing that’s more important than anything is spending time with Him. The only question is: How close do you want to be?

Grace Community Church - New Prayer Line Launches in Marion, North Carolina - James 5:16 says "The prayer of a righteous man is powerful and effective." A. J. Gordon said, "You can do more than pray after you have prayed, but you cannot do more than pray until you have prayed." Churches in McDowell County believe God's Word and agree with A. J. Gordon. That is why they have launched 659-PRAY, a prayer line where people can call anytime, leave a message and know that churches in McDowell County will be praying for them. Here's how it works. The prayer line (659-PRAY) is headquartered at Freedom Life Ministries (freedomlifeministries.org). Each day prayer requests will be sent to 150 partnering churches in the area who will immediately read those requests to prayer warriors in their churches who will pray for them. The effect is knowing that your prayer request is covered daily by hundreds of people across McDowell County. 659-PRAY will begin on September 1. Between now and then, please call us at (828) 309-0003 to pass along your prayer requests. We are excited to reach out and get on board. Downtown Spruce Pine — I have completed the 2018 calendar of events for downtown. This year, we have added a new event: “Downtown Day”. This will be a day planned to bring our local downtown to celebrate Main Street and all we have to offer. We are still working out the details, but will have string, games and music planned and hopes you will be part of the day. We have also scheduled 3 outdoor movies, in addition to the summer concerts. (Sponsored opportunities are still available for these events if you would like to help. Many thanks to Tree House Mountain Realty, Peoples Furniture, Superior Installation and Tropical Grill for their support this year.)

Our spring clean-up will be the 2 weeks before the Fire on the Mountain festival. If you can help or want to get involved, let me know as we can always use extra hands getting the town spiffed up for the event.

Our downtown economy would like to get your ideas/feedback on how we can help get more patrons to your door when we have our concerts/movie/farmers market. There is definitely a missed opportunity here. Coupons? special sales? Brown bag lunch? If you have ideas, please call or email and share. I will take all ideas back to the PR committee for discussion.

Drag on the Mountain will be the last Saturday in April from 10-4. Locust Street will be closed, as usual, beginning late Friday night until 5:00 pm on the 28th. Make plans to have all vehicles moved prior to that night. More info will be sent as we get closer to the event. Also, the SRQ festival will be in Riverine Park, Saturday in May. We hope you will not have to worry about any street closings affecting your businesses.

If anyone wants one of the Historical Society Depot ornaments, I have them in my office still. Just let me know when you are coming if you are interested in one.

I have multiple businesses interested in locating downtown. If you have a “move in ready” space available or one coming available, and I have not been in touch, please contact me asp.

If you missed it... we are excited to partner with the Spruce Pine Farmers Market by hosting an event in Central Park every Wednesday, beginning April 11th. The winter market will be in the visitor center the first Saturday of March.

The Chamber will host a Candidates Forum on Tuesday April 3rd at 6 PM. Mark your calendars to come and hear from the candidates in the upcoming elections. At the old Historic Courthouse.

The Mitchell County Historical Society has begun scheduling its Scanning Days for the beginning of the new year. (We will have others later in the year.)

We will be happy to scan your pictures, documents, letters, maps, by computer scanner, so you will have an electronic copy of these treasures for your own computer. You can then send them to all your friends or family to enjoy. We scan them into jpeg format and add them to our ever-growing collection of images and documents about Mitchell County.

We will also have our learned genealogists on hand to look into your family histories and/or give tips on how to pursue your own genealogical history. Our scanning day is as follows:

Saturday, March 3
Peterson Stone Huntsdale 10:00 a.m. - 3:00 p.m.
If you have any questions, please call us at 688-4371... Weds. through Friday, 10 to 4. Or, go to our website. mitchellhistory.org

The Mitchell County Historical Society is excited to announce our opening event of the season: Our Second Annual History Bee, to be held the evening of Thursday, March 22nd at 7:00PM, at the Historic Courthouse in Bakersville.

We will again have students from the local middle schools (Grades 6-8)
We are Appalachian Youth to Youth!
By Terri Leiser, Youth Team Adviser
Mitchell and Yancey Counties

This 2018 school year marks the formation of a new youth empowerment initiative under Partners Aligned Toward Health and the Mitchell-Yancey Substance Abuse Task Force. Youth to Youth is a youth-led, adult-guided group that brings youth together to build leadership skills and create positive change in schools and the community. Students participating in Youth to Youth address issues that most teens are likely to experience today, helping them to become leaders and role models amongst their peers. The skills students pick up in Youth to Youth will serve them not only throughout their school career, but later in life as well. At this age, youth are able to influence each other in ways adults cannot, and the reality that kids have the power to make positive change in each other’s lives is a driving force behind the group.

Topics covered by Youth to Youth include development of life skills, dealing with stress, healthy relationships, managing peer-pressure, bullying, learning public speaking skills, organizing and leading community events, substance abuse education and prevention, and more.

The basis for the initiative is promoting a healthy lifestyle, learning to make healthy decisions, and remaining drug-free. Kids are able to have a voice and make decisions that will impact their community.

All four middle schools were able to vote on the specific name for Youth to Youth to represent themselves and agreed on “Appalachian” Youth to Youth. These kids identify with their area and take pride in it!

The weekly meetings are at each individual middle school in Mitchell and Yancey Counties, but the over-arching focus is the same. Each group is unique and different with their own personalities. It’s amazing to be able to utilize these strengths to appeal to everyone in the community. This is an exciting time to be in the middle schools in Yancey and Mitchell Counties!

During our regular meetings, we often discuss facts about drugs and alcohol and came across this alarming statistic: “Research has shown that kids who have conversations with their parents and learn a lot about the dangers of alcohol and drug use are 50% less likely to use alcohol and drugs than those who don’t have such conversations.”

At East Yancey Middle School, Youth to Youth students talked about what they can do to make a difference. They decided to help parents out by giving them a start to conversations as well as information as to what kids are thinking here’s what they said:

We invite you to explore these sites for resources on how to start the conversations with your kids and grandkids about drugs:

Tim’s Treasures
The Work of Thy Hands
By Tim Tron
Burke County

“For thou, Lord, hast made me glad through thy work: I will triumph in the works of thy hands.”—Psalm 92:4

The roar of the old farm truck jumped to life. Colorful and black smoke coughed from her mufflers as the deep-rumbling tuck tickled the boy’s feet.

“Come around here and I’ll put you up in the seat.”

The skin of the man was tanned from countless hours toiling in the sun, working in his field and on the farm. Eyes, ones that had worn their age and were filled with the wisdom of years, were on the boy, the future farmer.

“Sit right there now until I get in.”

The old truck was 20 years old but yearned for every breath of life to be in the presence of its driver. The farmer reached the open driver’s door, and then swung himself into the seat and slammed the door shut. Dust exploded into the shafts of sunlight that filtered through the clouded window before them. The sun was setting, grabbing the long-handed beam, and a deep gutural grumbling below them shook the truck into motion. The old ford truck began rolling down the dusty gravel road. In the back, their precious cargo. The sun was just reaching the top of the trees along the fence line that clung to the road. The last stand on the seat and looked through the tiny back window of the cab. Golden harvest grains of wheat were in a steady stream of a season of work, all of which was now about to be gathered. golden seeds of corn falling into the collection shaft behind the grain truck at the mill, the massive front-end loader at the sawmill took each load of logs from my trailer like a giant hand of God. The man running the mill told me that it might take a while before they got to them. So, like most things, I put it in God’s hands, trusting that when the time was right, they would call.

A few days ago, the sawmill operator called and asked me to stop by on my way home from school. The school sounded promising. When I pulled up, I found Tony, the operator, there waiting for me. Now at this point, to make a long story short, Tony had worked through some challenges, but in the end, God’s hand was in it. There he shared with me his testimony, and once again, I was reminded that no matter what we do, no matter where we go, the Master’s plan is at work.

Through our connection, something beautiful had happened in Tony’s own life. He was now back in the graces of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. He told me that in a few days, his logs would be finished. Just hearing him share his story with me was amazing, I knew that in the end, the harvest was being done, one way or another.

Today, we brought home all those logs. Now not covered in rough bark, but sawn into usable lumber. Tony had masterfully gleaned every ounce of wood from those trees and turned them into a work of art; a massive trailer full of sweet-smelling wood. Their texture painted a golden glow. At that moment, I knew God was proud of us. I knew God was proud of us.

Now, with the truck, I drove onto the road, and I saw the floating leaves on the water, and I see the beauty in the world.

US House of Representatives NC District 11

Immigration Update

I wanted to give you an update on news surrounding the immigration debate and where we stand in Congress. Right now, unfortunately, the House of Representatives is not acting on immigration, instead choosing the let the Senate go first and try to pass their own bill—and I believe this is the wrong approach. The Senate has already failed to pass any of the four measures they considered. If the House is going to wait for 60 Senators to figure out an immigration bill first, we might as well all go home and take a nap.

The House should not wait on the Senate to act before we do. We already have an immigration bill in the House that deals with the problem and derives on the voters' priorities, including border security, ending chain migration, and ending the visa lottery program. It's time for us to the House to start leading and get to work on our own bill.

That's where we currently stand. But here's the bottom line on this debate: House conservatives will not accept an immigration proposal that fails to do what the American people we do during election season. We kept our promise on curtailing taxes, but we have to follow through on immigration now, too.

The Budget Agreement

At you know, recently Congress passed a two-year budget agreement that suspended the debt ceiling and lifted the spending caps through fiscal year 2020, clearing the way for record spending increases of over $300 billion. I am profoundly disappointed in the agreement, and I voted NO on the budget bill because I could not support the high spending levels and lack of fiscal discipline.

What this whole issue boils down to: Congress failed to get its fiscal house in order. Instead of planning, deliberating, and passing a responsible long-term budget, as any American would in running a business. Congress waited till the last minute, governed by crisis, and spent their way out of a problem. Keep in mind—for months, several of my colleagues and I urged Congressional leadership to work toward a long-term, responsible budget that gives our armed forces the funding and stability they deserve. I voted several times in the past to honor our promise to our service members.

I want to fund our military, but at what cost? Should we bankrupt our country in the process? Estimates suggest this bill will likely increase government spending by $1.5 trillion. This is not budgeting. While this Budget Agreement provides an initial increase in our national’s military, that investment comes with a heavy burden that our children and grandchildren will be strapped with. We could have funded our military without growing the size of government at record levels.

When I ran for Congress, I promised the people of2 of North Carolina that I would fight to rein in Washington’s addiction to spending. This budget failed to do that. It did not represent the promise I gave to my voters, and I suspect it isn’t what many of my colleagues promised their constituents either.

I’ve been disappointed in the result, but I maintain my commitment to fighting for the kind of fiscal responsibility that can sustain our country for decades to come. And I’m determined to fight for the day when we will do better.

Lowering student to teacher ratios in kindergarten through third grade classrooms: and eliminating the pre-K wait list are two priorities that brought the North Carolina General Assembly back to Raleigh in February. House Bill 90 was passed and ratified by the General Assembly and presented to Gov. Roy Cooper on February 13th. However, Gov. Roy Cooper did sign this bill that Republicans and the majority of his own party voted for.

This data-driven solution phases in a four-year implementation of reductions in student to teacher ratios. No changes to ratios will be implemented the first year of the plan to give schools administrators enough time to plan and meet the requirements of the reductions in ratios. Annually, $70 million will be allocated for hiring the additional K-3 teachers needed to make the required ratios.

The plan also reinstates funding for program enhancement teachers in art, music, and PE that was eliminated by then state Sen. Roy Cooper and former Gov. Jim Hunt. Indeed, the legislation sets aside more than $60 million to be used for the 2018-2019 school year. The amount increases yearly to nearly $230 million by the 2021-2022 school year. It is based on data that shows what is actually required to meet students' needs. Also eliminated is the current pre-K wait list through the addition of close to 3,000 slots through 2020-2021, in addition to the nearly 1,800 slots we’ve already set funding aside for in the 2018-2019 school year.

The John W. Pope Foundation announced recipients of the 2018 Joy W. Pope Memorial Grants in the Arts and Human Services, which included a $100,000 grant to the Haywood Pathways Center in Waynesville.

From the John W. Pope Foundation, Haywood Pathways Center, located in Waynesville, will use the grant to help complete construction of an emergency/short-term shelter for homeless families. When completed, it will be the only emergency housing in Haywood County for homeless women with children. Haywood Pathways is already in place when multiple organizations merged. Haywood Pathways helps men, women and children during periods of crisis, with services that include emergency housing, a soup kitchen and employment training.

NC Retirement Pensions in Good Hands

Some of you may be looking towards eventual state or local government retirement, whether sooner or later. Others are already drawing from one of the state retirement systems. In either event, there is recent good news. Specifically, your pensions have been both well-funded and well handled by North Carolina State Treasurer Dale K. Folwell, whose office manages the state and local trust funds that provide the actual benefits, recently issued a very encouraging announcement:

North Carolina’s Retirement Systems, according to independent national evaluation, are among the five highest-funded pension plans in the United States to date. According to that evaluation, North Carolina’s Teachers’ and State Employees’ Retirement Systems and the Local Governmental Employees’ Retirement System have been funded at 90.4% and 95.2% respectively. State Treasurer Folwell said, “We are proud to see North Carolina’s pension plans receive another national accolade, but there is still work to be done in sustaining them. We are committed to ensuring that our teachers, first responders and state and local government employees have financial stability that can be counted on in their retirement. This mauling is a credit to the monies contributed by state and local employees, taxpayers through appropriations by the North Carolina General Assembly, and to the investment gains made by the Investment Management Division of the Office of State Treasurer.”

According to the recent report from S&P Global, “proactive management” and “funding discipline” deserve credit when a state such as North Carolina manages well its liabilities for pension payments to become due government retirees. Treasurer Folwell was especially pleased to also report that the state pension funds for calendar year 2017 reported positive gains of 13.5%. This outperformed the 12.5% target. In addition to higher than expected gains, pension fund assets were recently valued at $98.3 billion, up from the $85.1 billion valuation at the end of 2016.

As North Carolina state government attempts to do a good job of managing the assets set aside to be sure there is adequate funding to pay its pension obligations to government retirees, I wanted to make you all aware of this positive news on the job being done.

NC Senate District 46

You may have heard discussions recently about class size reductions in grades K through 3 in our public schools, along with concerns about whether enough funds have been appropriated by the General Assembly to implement the change. Since 2014, the legislature has already appropriated about $227 million in additional tax dollars toward lowering class sizes and reducing student-to-teacher ratios. However, questions have arisen about whether these amounts were adequate. Working closely with school superintendents, and listening to feedback from parents and teachers, the House K-3 Senate Bill 16 was passed in a Feb. 13th that doubles down on our years-long efforts to improve academic outcomes for students by the end of third grade. This phase plan in smaller class sizes and lowers student-to-teacher ratios in kindergarten through third grade classrooms over a 4-year period, at a cost of about $600 million.

For years, lowering student-to-teacher ratios and reducing class sizes is the early grades has been one of our top priorities because research has shown it leads to improved academic outcomes. House Bill 90 phases in the implementation of lower student-to-teacher ratio reductions over the next four school years - with no changes to the state cap in the first year. This will give school administrators ample time to plan and take the necessary steps to meet those requirements. School systems across the state will continue to receive about $76 million each year to hire additional K-3 teachers needed to meet the class size requirements. They will be required to gradually lower their student-to-teacher ratios until they achieve full implementation in the 2021-2022 school year.

The plan in HB 90 also fulfills our earlier promise to reauthorize a dedicated funding stream for program enhancement teachers in subjects like art, music and P.E. that was actually eliminated in the 1990s by former state Sen. Roy Cooper and former Gov. Jim Hunt. It will immediately set aside more than $60 million to be used for the 2018-2019 school year, and will increase each year based on what data shows is actually required to meet students' needs, and public schools across the state will receive nearly $250 million in additional recurring state dollars by the 2021-2022 school year.

Finally, our plan in HB 90 eliminates the current Pre-K wait list by adding nearly 3,000 slots through 2020-2021. This is in addition to the 1,800 slots that were already added in 2018-2019.

Mitchell Yancey Substance Abuse Task Force Honored At National Leadership Forum

Burnsville, NC—On February 6, 2018, the Mitchell Yancey Substance Abuse Task Force (MYSATF) was one of 100 community coalitions honored at the Community Anti-Drug Coalitions of America (CADCAs) National Leadership Forum held just outside of Washington, D.C. Staff of MYSATF were on hand to accept a graduation certificate that signified their successful completion of CADCAs National Coalition Academy, a rigorous training program designed to increase the effectiveness of community drug prevention leaders.

CADCAs National Coalition Academy (NCA) is a comprehensive, year-long training program developed by CADCAs National Coalition Institute. To graduate, coalitions must complete a rigorous curriculum that incorporates three, week-long classroom sessions, a web-based distance learning component, an online work-station where participants network and share planning products, and ongoing coalition development technical assistance. They must participate in all components of the NCA and complete five essential planning products that serve as the foundation of their comprehensive plan for community change.

“We are so proud of our coalition for investing the time and resources to take advantage of the CADCAs community coalition training. To graduate from this year-long intensive course is no small feat and the Task Force is strengthened as an effective, sustainable coalition because of this training,” said Schell McCall, Executive Director of Partners Aligned Toward Health, the parent organization of the Task Force. “We look forward to applying our knowledge and strategies toward substance abuse prevention in our community.”

While at the National Leadership Forum, Coalition staff had the opportunity to learn the latest strategies to address substance abuse and hear from nationally-known prevention experts, federal administrators, and concerned policymakers. The Forum brings together approximately 1,000 attendees representing coalitions from all regions of the country and internationally; government leaders, youth, prevention specialists, addiction treatment professionals, addiction recovery advocates, researchers, educators, law enforcement professionals, and faith-based leaders. It is the largest training event for the prevention field.

WAMY Community Action

Wins State Award
By Melissa Soto
The High Country

At a recent North Carolina Economic Opportunity conference, WAMY Community Action was recognized as an Exemplary Organization among the state’s community agencies. WAMY was chosen as the recipient based on their innovation in fundraising their response to community need, and their success in helping families become self-sufficient.

WAMY’s introduction of Phil the toilet last spring was both creative and inspiring. Phil made his way around the High Country, visiting local businesses and spreading awareness that “Poverty Stinks.” Phil was a visual reminder to all that we need to “Flush Out Poverty.” In addition to Phil, WAMY holds an annual Brunch and Bubbly event that will be coming up in April and several small fundraisers throughout the year.

Funding has allowed the agency to create many services in response to the community’s need. Many people don’t realize that low-income families cannot use their food stamps to purchase hygiene products, cleaning supplies or paper products. When a customer came into the office admitting that she had to steal toilet paper, the agency mobilized resources and created a Care Closet for their clients. This closet allows them to get necessary products and even clothing for interviews, while maintaining their dignity.

While most WAMY clients come into the program at a lower income level, they do not necessarily leave in the same manner. The Total Family Development program works with families to help them increase their education and employability to a level where they are making an average of $22,000 more than when they began. They leave with a sense of independence and self-worth that will continue for generations to come.

Melissa Soto, Executive Director of WAMY, states, “It was an honor to be recognized by the State as an exemplary organization. WAMY truly believes in the ability of people to change their lives, with just a little help from their community. Our clients do the hard work, we are just there to act as a safety net and provide support along the way.”

For more information about WAMY and their programs, go to www.wamycommunityaction.org or call 1-800-571-WAMY.

Attendance ‘Above Expectations’
By Michael Fault

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Each day, Cary Summers roams the eight floors of the Museum of the Bible in Washington, D.C., talking to visitors and discovering what they like best about the massive new facility.

And most don’t even know he’s the museum’s president. Summers was hired from president and CEO of Herschend Family Entertainment/Silver Dollar City Corporation but agreed in 2010 to help get the Museum of the Bible off the ground because of its unique eternal focus. Advice from the late Bill Bright has served him well.

“Bill encouraged me to build things that would attract people who would never go into a church or a synagogue,” Summers said of the founder of Campus Crusade for Christ. “And I was intrigued with that idea.”

That is what happened at Silver Dollar City – an 1800s-style theme park that features a gospel music festival alongside mainstream attractions – and that’s what he’s helping accomplish at the Museum of the Bible, which opened in November.

“Walking through the museum gives me the opportunity to listen to people,” he said. “I get to learn a lot about what’s working, what’s not working. I find that fascinating, really.”

Attendance has been “above expectations,” he said.

The $500 million, 430,000-square-foot museum is the largest of its kind in the world and brings the Bible to life with cutting-edge technology that few museums enjoy. It has 12 theaters, 134 monitors, 250 computers and 314 projectors. Each visitor to the museum also receives a handheld tablet known as the Digital Guide, which gives guests a one-of-a-kind personalized tour. The Digital Guide has age levels for adults, teens and children.

The museum examines the history of the Bible, looking not only at its development but also its impact on the world. The facility has no entrance fee, although there is a suggested donation of $15 for adults and $10 for children 12 and under.

“People are coming from all over the world,” Summers said. “Just during our grand opening week, I know there were at least 40-plus countries that were represented.”

It’s not just Christians who are attending. Visitors from all cultures and all religions are walking through the doors, discovering how the Bible has changed the world.

“We’ve had many Muslims come through and thoroughly enjoy it,” Summers said.

Museum officials expect the lowest months of the year for tourism will be December, January and February, with the highest months during Spring – particularly during the Cherry Blossom Festival and school field trips – and during Summer.

Officials are noticing a few trends, with a “tremendous amount of families” visiting, he said.

“We’ve become a great family hangout because of all the experiences we have put on younger people,” Summers said.

Attendance has been so high that the museum has doubled the number of locations to eat in the museum, from two to four.

Summers has been particularly encouraged by the feedback received in the exit surveys that are conducted by a third party.

“The number one word that is popping up — the number one word description of how the museum makes you feel — is the word ‘hope,’” he said.

“It seems the museum is changing peoples’ perceptions of the Good Book for the better.

“The Bible is blamed for everything under the sun,” he said. “But it’s the misuse of the Bible that has created those problems. If you do realize that, then you say, ‘Maybe there is hope.”

Winter is Not the End

By Jacob Willis
Yancey County

I Corinthians Chapter 15 says, “15 Now I declare to you, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. 16 But if it is sown in thorns, it will be reaped thorns. The thorns will come along with those who are sowing Sharon, which does not perish, but is imperishable. 17 Now when this perishable puts on the imperishable, then there will be a new creation. 18 Then the one who has decayed will have been resurrected imperishable. 19 And now, it is written, ‘The first man Adam became a living being; the last Adam became a life-giving Spirit.’ 20 But the spiritual is not first; first comes the natural, then the spiritual. 21 The first man was of the dust of the earth, the second man is from heaven. 22 As was the man of dust, so also are those who are of the dust; and as is the heavenly man, so also are those who are of heaven. 23 And as we have borne the image of the man of dust, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly man.”

This winter has been a particularly cold one. January set a new record for cold in many places. Many people’s water froze, and heating our homes was not very easily done. Winter, though beautiful, is something that when it finally ends, I am thankful for. When the first snow falls it is magical and delightful for all to see. When they push it around for five days, salt and sand the roads, it becomes an eyewash. The cold pierces through our clothes and reminds us that winter can be done. Winter pictures us to the end stages of our life.

Growing older is a gift from God. When we get older, hopefully we get wiser. We grow as people and in God’s Spirit if we are a child of God. God is teaching us all the time to become a better Christian. As we do so, we are becoming more fit for heaven every day. The irony is, at the inward man is renewed by the Spirit, the outward man is becoming more unfit for this world. Our bodies begin to break down, and the slow decay of life sets in. The Christian has a hope that we can come to the inside that there is more life than this. In fact, surely there is a place where we can in a sense start over. That is what happens in springtime—we get to start over. We plant new flowers, we fertilize our lawns, we plow our gardens, we open the windows and clean our house from top to bottom, and we get ready for a new beginning. That is exactly what is happening in the life of an aging person. God is working on the inside to get it ready for a new beginning.

As we are young and strong it is easy to forget our connection to God. We may be tempted to neglect our relationship with God, erroneously thinking that our strength is sufficient. When we get older we realize that we need God every day. We need him to wake us up and help us sleep. We need him to ease the pain of loss and the fear of death.

Then there comes the time in our lives when our strength is gone and our lifespan is fading. The fear of death becomes reality. The very thing we should all know is going to happen sneaks up on us, and all of a sudden we are terminally ill. It may feel as though this is the end, and that our loved ones will be left without help or hope. Our loved ones may feel abandoned, helpless, or angry with God. These are all normal feelings. It is at this point that our loved ones hold on to us, and we hold onto them. Sometimes this creates pain in us, as we attempt painful procedures to prolong life or unwillingly allow the patient to die. Sometimes this process is painful for ourselves and our families. They also can shorten life. Instead of dying at home with our loved ones and family by our side, we can die in a hospital after a costly procedure that only prolongs the inevitable. The hospice philosophy is not to lengthen nor shorten days, but to make your last days of winter quality days. To enhance quality of life by making you comfortable, active (for as long as possible), and giving you coherent pain free time with your family. Hospice doesn’t hasten death. Hospice does make the process more comfortable.

At Yancey Hospice we don’t believe that death is the end. Winter is not the end. If you are a Christian there is a point where death is a merciful thing.

Death is not the succession of life. It is not the end. It is the beginning of what we always could be. We will be changed. A newness of life is Christ will occur. We will shed the shame of sin, the doubt of the flesh, and put on the new imperishable body. A body that will never die, or be worn out. The pain of this life will be a distant memory, and the joy of the new life will make all of those memories pass away. If you have trusted Christ as your Savior it isn’t good for you to outlive usefulness, because you have a home in heaven waiting on you. You have a place to go, when you have somewhere else to be. When we ask Christ to enter our hearts and forgive us of our sins, we receive a new start in heaven. I’m not perfect, but I am going to be one day, until then I need your forgiveness. The day is coming when we will all be changed. Spring is coming and winter is not the end.

Waiting
By Marlene Houk
Rutka County

Isaiah 40:31 But they that wait upon the LORD shall renew their strength; they shall mount up with wings as eagles; they shall run, and not be weary; and they shall walk, and not faint.

I shifted uneasily in the blue upolstered airport seat, waiting for the international flight that would whisk my brother-in-law, his wife, and two young nephews out of our reach for the next five years. It was an 18-hour flight from Charlotte, NC to Durban, South Africa, an inanimate seat for my own children, a robust 13-year-old and a fidgety 17-year-old.

Waiting. Waiting. Waiting. It’s a wearing, grinding, grinding waffle of tension that seeps into my heart and destroys my patience. I often declare war on waiting with frenzied cleaning or continual charting with friends. Sometimes, I multitask while waiting, proud of checkmarks on my to-do list. I bring stacks of books and massive big plans to pack much work into a 7-hour drive or sit in the surgical waiting room because distraction is a relief from the dreariness of waiting. Waiting does not come easy to those who are creatures of action, who stride into the future with solutions and who, later, understand the wisdom of what happens during true waiting.

Tucked neatly into the subtle layers of Esther, the 17th book of the Bible, the careful studier will discover the fault, quiet fragrance of waiting and its treasured, timeless value. Like a carefully preserved wedding dress, the silk folds and Cherubim face of a life that waits upon the LORD glimmers with His glory. Listen to the craddle of the paper as we separate the glorious layers of the lovely handloom wedding dress of waiting. Hiddden between the drum and the chaos, a quiet fact resides. Esther waited. How does God design waiting, like a wedding dress, to fall in graceful folds around our spirits while subtly reflecting His glory?

From the time of her marriage to the king and the evil plot of Haman, there were five years. Perhaps Esther did not consider them as waiting years, but God nevertheless designed them to be intervening years of preparation for His will. And this short list is some of what she learned as demonstrated by her later actions:

1. Relationship waiting. If your waiting is not based on your relationship with the LORD, it will gather tension rather than peace. Esther continued to maintain strong relationships with God, Mordecai, and her people, the Jews.
2. Directed waiting upon the LORD. If you do not focus on the LORD during your waiting, stress will reduce waiting to a trial. Esther finally understood the value of focusing on the LORD rather than on her few.
3. Promises of waiting. According to Isaiah 40:31, waiting is a time to:
   a. renew strength.
   b. mount up our focus above earthly woes to eternal effects.
   c. endure the journey of life without fainting.

Esther gained strength as she worked with the people God had placed around her, as she focused on the salvation of her people, and as she endured the 10 months of waiting for redemption.

Queen Esther learned to wait and we, as her proteges, can learn to graciously accept the royal duty of waiting, knowing that we become more like Christ through the journey and that glory awaits us!

Pause... and Consider

Alive, Active, Powerful
By Ken and Jan Merop
Avery County

A blank page sits in front of me right now. I pray and contemplate what to write.

Sometimes ideas pop up like cacti, through snow-encrusted ground, or like fish readily bit- ing at the surface when food is tossed to them. Other times, however, ideas seem to snuggle down and bury themselves in a rock or crevice.

I must dig out, dust off and examine closely for a spark to simmer across my mind.

Lately, it's been more of the hidden gems than the popping of colorful blossoms. Yet this less intriguing form of writing reaps the rewards of discovery that provides nourishment. Dead seeds will be brought to life. Colorful ideas will germinate and grow.

It's not just about writing. It's about life.

Have you been in that place where your life is like a blank page? I think we've all experienced that. I know I have.

We're used to being busy, productive. Then it seems much of the things that have kept us actively engaged are being stripped away for one reason or another. Change is in the air, but, it's not tangible and leaves us wondering what's up.

Recently I found myself in that place. Letargy was beginning to take hold. I was sighing too often. Truthfully, I didn't know what to do about it.

Then it occurred to me that I needed to dig into God's Word. I travsed His nourishment like a crying, hungry child seeks to be satisfied.

I didn't neglect my quiet time. But, I needed input and direction. So, I looked through past studies I'd done. When I found Believing God by Beth Moore, I knew the Lord was answering my heart's cry.

Before I even began the study, I personalized Psalm 121:1...a Psalm I had memorized as a child...and one I had been returning to frequently. It had been influential at another inexpressible time in my life. Reading verse 1, NKJV, "I will lift up my eyes to the hills - from whence come my help? My help comes from the Lord, who made heaven and earth," was the direction I sought.

Then changing "you" to "my" I affirmed that God wouldn't let my feet be moved. He would keep me and not shuffle, the Lord is my keeper and preserver. Bolstered by God’s word, I stepped expressly into the study. It was time to have present, continual faith in God because He is alive and active in me. I leaned into His power knowing nothing is impossible with God.” - Selah

WINER'S WARDROBE

The frosty white crystals encasing the branches remind us of winter’s tenacious grip.
March winds blow, snow still swirls... but the rock is a reminder of where to find refuge.
Winter's blessing will turn to spring breezes and new buds will bravely adorn the branches.

"...Wait quietly before God... He alone is my rock and my salvation, my fortress where I will not be shaken.

Pinebridge Project
President Dr. John Boyd
Avery, Mitchell and Stanly Counties

Mayland Community College is pleased to announce that we are progressing through the state construction process on the Pine Bridge Coliseum project. State construction projects generally take longer than non-state projects because of the review process by state construction. There are three stages, during which the state construction office reviews the progress of the project; we have recently completed the second stage.

The Pine Bridge Coliseum project will be a multi-phased project. This first phase includes a new roof, outside façade, and enhanced security on the southern side overlooking downtown. This phase also includes a cosmetology center and parking lot improvements. We intended to include massage therapy with cosmetology; however, estimated construction costs may prohibit this from being included in phase one.

The 2nd phase will be a gallery & visitor center next to cosmetology. We will continue working on the massage therapy space as funds become available.

The college is also working on plans for a Resource Center for Entrepreneurs that will complete the southern side of the Pine Bridge, including limited lease commercial space. We will intend to include the large event center, arts and crafts classrooms, commercial kitchen, and other program space in future phases.

Phase one construction is set to begin this summer.

Lastly, the college is replacing the roof on Pine Bridge Inn. We are in early discussions with an existing hotel to lease the inn and manage it as a boutique hotel.

The college is investing approximately $3 million in this first phase and will continue to write grants and raise private funds to complete the entire project. We strongly believe that this project is a game changer for our three counties, and particularly the town of Spruce Pine.

The completion of Pine Bridge will take time and is very dependent on finding grants and donors who share our vision to rejuvenate our community.

Biomedical engineering lesson has students saying "Wow, this is so cool!"
By Student News Ambassador Natalie Ollis, Burke Middle College

Burke County

The STEAM Academy's unit for this semester, biomedical engineering, teaches students how medical technologies help people in the world today. While working through the lessons and completing experiments, students from Ray C. Bird Elementary School said over and over again, "WOAH, this is so cool!"

And wouldn't you think it cool to look at a human ear through a microscope, create a plaster of an ear mold and have a hologram rise out of an iPad?

Before they jumped into the cool stuff, the students researched biomedical engineering and learned vocabulary words associated with it. Like all of the STEAM lessons, this one is housed on the Google Classroom app, which allows students access to information after they leave STEAM so it's a particular unit of their interest, they can return to it and learn more.

Once the students mastered the background and vocabulary, they brought out the microscopes to look at human cells — skin, hair, bone, muscle, brain, heart, lung, and blood — as well as an imprint made of their own skin by putting liquid glue on their hands and peeling it off. Next, students moved to the ear.

High school instructors for the Advanced Learning Department Wayne Whaley used a 3D printer to make molds of a human ear. The students filled the ear molds with plaster to create models. Also, as part of the lesson, they demodulated holograms using a Flexitex lazer and YouTube videos.

For their last experiment, students isolated their own DNA using chemicals and made a vase for a necklace filled with a combination of sports drink and their own spit.

Students in third through eighth grades visit STEAM three times during the school year for specially focused lessons that involve hands-on learning. High school students can also take Project Lead the Way and virtual NC School of Science and Math classes at the STEAM Academy.

Superintendent Dr. Larry Putnam said, "This ties into the master curriculum plan of redesigning our district's Academically and Intellectually Gifted (AIG) plan four years ago. We are getting students on a college campus in real situations just like the real world — and we are sparking their interest in fields such as healthcare, forensics and aerospace engineering. We just started an internship program where local businesses and industries are investing in our students and showing them the possibilities of jobs available here in Burke County. Carolina HealthCare System Blue Ridge is one example as they have 10 of our high school students interning with them in various sectors of the hospital. Our vision is to continue to invest in our students at all levels. For those business and industry leaders who share our vision, we invite you to invest in and build your workforce with BCPSS."

To learn more about the Burke County Public Schools internship program, contact Jamie Norton, internship coordinator, at 828-348-2997 or jnorton@burke.k12.nc.us.

Three BCPSS Schools Excel At Breakfast Challenge

Heritage Middle School, Patton High School and Draughn High School are top performing schools in the No Hungry Kids NC Breakfast Challenge. The three schools were recognized on Feb. 15 in Chapel Hill, North Carolina at the 2018 NC Child Hunger Leaders Conference for their efforts to increase breakfast participation. No Hungry Kids NC presents the Breakfast Challenge Awards each year to schools that increase the number of students eating breakfast by at least 70 percent over the previous year.

Burke County Public Schools initiated the Universal Breakfast Program, which gives every student in the district access to free breakfast last year. To get more students to take advantage of the free meal, Burke County Public Schools has focused on ways to make breakfast part of the school day. This includes programs such as Grab and Go Breakfast and Second Chance Breakfast. Grab and Go, available in five elementary schools, allows students to grab a quick, nutritious meal to eat either in the cafeteria or in the classroom. Second Chance, available in two middle schools and the four traditional high schools, allows students to visit a breakfast cart in the hallway between morning classes.

Burke County Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Larry Putnam said, "The goal is to feed more students a healthy breakfast to get their day off to a better start. Studies continue to show a direct correlation between better grades and attitudes in students who eat breakfast compared to those who don't. Burke County Public Schools wants to break down the barriers that keep kids from eating breakfast whether it be because they arrive at school too late or are embarrassed to be in the free breakfast line. With our Grab and Go and Second Chance options and with all of our kids having access to a free breakfast, no one is jailed out."

Burke County Public Schools Food Services Management Coordinator Angie Humley said, "We would like to personally say thank you to the principals and staff at Heritage, Patton and Draughn for their support of our school nutrition program and helping us feed students. We are excited for them to attend the awards ceremony and be recognized for their hard work. In addition to the recognition, they will receive a monetary award that will go back into the Child Nutrition Program. We are excited to talk with more principals in the district about expanding the breakfast programs at their schools."

Burke County Public Schools partners with Charmwell's E12 to provide breakfast and lunch to students as well as a supper feeding program at Forest Hill Elementary School called "E12 After the Bell." Visit http://burke.mmsk12.com for your school's meal menu.

God Working
By David Burleson
Burke County

Over the last several months, we have seen God work in many wonderful ways. When food was getting low in the pantry, groups that had just completed a food drive would show up. Warm supplies for homeless were getting low, a donation would show up at our front door or in the mail. As soup kitchen supplies became depleted, the needed food showed up. It is always a blessing to see God show up, right on time.

We have also seen God work through our volunteers and staff at BUCM. Thankfully, we have wonderful soup kitchen teams that prepare delicious meals every day for lunch and dinner on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays. Our food harvesters travel to our supporting grocery stores and restaurants to pick-up food for us to use for our clients. Everyday our pantry and clothing volunteers work to help meet the needs of our clients.

God also works through many groups in our community. We are very thankful that several church youth groups collected food and funds during the national Souper Bowl of Caring event on February 11. This is one of the largest food drives of the year. A big thank you to the following youth groups and youth leaders:

- First Presbyterian Church Morganton - Youth Pastor, Adam Bowling
- First Methodist Church Morganton - Youth Pastor, Larry Taylor
- First Baptist Church Morganton - Youth Pastor, Tyler Rouch
- Summit Community Church Morganton - Youth Pastor, Stephen Snyder
- Oak Hill Methodist Church - Youth Pastor, Shannon Lemaster-South
- Enoa Baptist Church - Youth Pastor, John Pritchard

This drive brought in over 6,000 lbs. of food and $10,000 to use to purchase food. It is a blessing to see that our future leaders understand the importance of helping others.

We also appreciate the Burke County Schools for doing a Souper Bowl of Caring Food Drive for BUCM and other agencies in our county. A huge thank you to Dr. Larry Fannin, the staff, and the students of the school system for their outstanding work and generosity. This donated food will help support many in our community.

Donations of pantry-usable clothes, shoes, and other supplies from our community have helped meet the needs of our clients. Costs and other warm clothes have been especially appreciated during the winter months. Because of the generosity of many in our community, our clients have clothing and other supplies to keep them warm.

I want to invite everyone to our breakfast fundraiser on Saturday, March 24 at Friday Friends. The all-you-can-eat breakfast will be from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. and the cost is $10. For food and fellowship, be sure to come out and support BUCM.

We always need additional volunteers at BUCM. We always need volunteers in our clothing closet and store, the food pantry and to harvest food. If you would be interested in discussing being a volunteer or making a donation to BUCM, please call me or Elizabeth Norris at (828) 435-8075 or visit our webpage at bcm.org. Please consider being a part of what God is doing at Burke United Christian Ministries.

Our reading for this month is the Scripture: John 1:14-18
Out of his fullness we have all received grace in grace already given. For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. No one has ever seen God, but the only one and only Son, who is himself God and is closest in relationship with the Father, has made him known. (John 1:16-18) Notice the reappearance in verse 17 of the words grace and truth, and the contrast which John draws between them and the Law and Moses. The Law makes demands. It is hard, cold, unyielding, without mercy. Not the symbol of it today is the IRS — the Tax Man. If we do not give up what the law requires we are subject to penalty. Do this and thou shalt live, says the IRS. John says that the Law was given by Moses. Moses did not originate it, but he gave it. Moses may disagree, but the Law remains — cold, unyielding, demanding, without mercy. But, John says, grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. Take away Jesus and you take away grace and truth; He is the channel of them. What John is saying in this section is that law is all about demand, but grace and truth are all about supply, and are designed to meet that demand. Many people think that law and grace are contradictory, that they are opposing principles. But not in the sense in which they were originally intended. Law and grace supplement one another. Law makes its demands, rightfully and justly, and no one can meet them, but grace and truth are given in order to meet that demand. In Exodus 20 there is the remarkable account of the giving of the Law on Mt. Sinai — the Law, which came with smoke, thunder, earthquake, fire, and trembling. But in the very next section we read the detailed plans for the building of the tabernacle — God’s provision to meet the demands of the Law. That tabernacle is a picture of Jesus, the meeting place where God’s demands are fully met in terms of the sacrifice of blood, of a life poured out. Thus, John saw in the coming of Jesus the fulfillment of that tabernacle. The one who was after him has already been before us. So, it is with us. We can say with John, Out of his fullness (of grace and truth), we have all received grace upon grace. God has a daily supply of grace for us. Grace is the generosity of love reaching out towards us, giving itself to us. To those who come to Christ, God’s promise is that every day we can take a new supply of his love. We can know that we are loved. We know we are cherished, protected, and blessed. We are strengthened, kept, and supported by his love. Grace upon grace, day after day, like the manna to the Israelites in the wilderness. God gives us a daily supply of love. Because we have been loved, when we reach out in love to someone else, when we give is freely and fully as we have received, then we fulfill the Law, for love is the fulfillment of the Law. I thank you for the grace of our Lord Jesus. What a gift that He has come among us to reveal you to us and to bring you to us. Help me to walk in the warmth and love of his grace today. Life Application: God’s amazing grace transforms His moral law into liberating truth. Are we grasping the rhythm of grace with truth and mercy?

ASAP’s Eighth CSA Fair Planned for Thursday, March 15
ASHVILLE, NC — The traditional growing season is getting closer and Western North Carolina farmers will soon begin picking asparagus, peas, and rhubarb to sell to farmers market customers and to pack boxes for their CSA — or Community Supported Agriculture — farms share subscriptions. To help the community learn more about CSAs, ASAP is hosting their Eighth CSA Fair on Thursday, March 15, from 2 to 5 pm at New Belgium Brewing Co. (21 Craven Street, Asheville, NC). The annual family-friendly event is free and provides an opportunity to meet area farmers, browse farmers’ CSA programs and products, and sign up.

Farms offering traditional CSAs is a chance for community members to support a farm at the beginning of the season and receive a box of fresh produce, meats, or flowers from their farm on a regular basis through the growing season. Many farms feature half and full size shares to accommodate different size households, and offer convenient add-on options such as farm fresh eggs. Many farms also offer opportunities for CSA members to connect with the farm, either through on-farm CSA pick-up, farm tours, member work days, or end of season celebration.

Meridith Miller, chairman of Buncombe County resident who has attended and volunteered at previous CSA Fairs, values the interactions with farmers. “Getting to see all the different farms represented at the CSA Fair really opened my eyes to the range of choices available,” Miller said “It adds a lot to be able to talk to the growers to learn about their plans for the season. I like being able to find out what the plans are because I have some favorite products that I look for.”

According to farmers, the CSA Fair is valuable for their farm business. “The CSA Fair is such a great way for us to connect directly with families wanting to invest in local farms and their own health through the purchase of a CSA share,” said Melissa Harwin of Highgate Farm. “The fair provides us with the opportunity to answer questions and share information to help folks find the best match for themselves.”

Highgate Farm is one of the 15 Appalachian Grown™ certified CSA providers slated to attend the fair. ASAP’s Appalachian Grown certification program identifies local food from families farm from Southern Appalachia. All of the participating farms is the CSA Fair have pickup locations in Buncombe County.

"An art work created by students from pre-K through high school is currently showcased at the Spruce Pine TRAC Gallery, located at 369 Oak Avenue, until March 17. A free reception is planned from 4 to 6 pm on Friday, March 9. The public is invited to view this amazing display of talent by the youth of our county.

UPCOMING TOE RIVER ARTS OPPORTUNITIES:

The Toe River Arts Community Chorus is looking for singers. They have just started rehearsal for the Easter presentation of Handel’s Messiah. Especially seeking tenor and bass parts. If you love singing and want to be a part of a dedicated group of volunteers, come in at the First Baptist Church (the Town Square in Burnsville), Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 8:30 pm. Please email Jessica cizara@gmail.com with any questions.

Deadlines for the Toe River Arts Studio Tour June 1-3 is Wednesday, March 7 at 3 pm, at either gallery (102 W. Main in Burnsville/369 Oak Avenue in Spruce Pine). Artists must show in a participating Mitchell or Yancey county studio and be current members of Toe River Arts. Applications and information are available at the website, www.toeriverarts.org/or artists or at either gallery. Please email kate@toeriverarts.org with any questions.

Deadline to apply for representation in either Toe River Arts Burnsville (162 W. Main St) or Spruce Pine (369 Oak Avenue) gift show is Saturday, March 10 at 10 am. Artists must be Mitchell, Yancey, or Avery county residents and current Toe River Arts members. Work must meet guidelines that are available online at www.toeriverarts.org/for artists or at either gallery. Please email kate@toeriverarts.org with any questions.

Deadline to submit proposals for 2019 exhibits in either the Burnsville or Spruce Pine facilities is Saturday, March 24 at 5 pm. Participating artists do not have to be Toe River Arts members nor live in the region. Collaborations encouraged. Limited gallery availability. Submission instructions and applications are available online at www.toeriverarts.org/or artists or at either gallery. Please email kate@toeriverarts.org with any questions.

ARTS SCHOLARSHIP DEADLINE:

The Toe River Arts Council announces the availability of its annual arts scholarship. Awards will be given to graduating high school seniors, with a minimum of 60 credits, with a preference to an art program from Yancey or Mitchell County. They must be pursuing a higher education degree majoring in any of the arts or education. The application deadline is April 1, 2018 at 5 pm.

Each scholarship will be a sum amount between $250 and $1,000 and will be paid directly to the degree-based institution of the applicant’s attendance.

Guidelines and an application form are available at www.toeriverarts.org/or artists/arts-scholarship/ and must be submitted by the deadline, April 1, 2018 at 5 pm. In addition to the application form, applicants are asked to present work that best exemplifies the extent and quality of their past accomplishments. Examples may include but are not limited to:陶瓷, drawing, graphic design, jewelry, painting, printmaking, sculpture, textile and fabric design, drama, music, and creative writing.

Submissions do not have to be related to the category of degree program to be eligible. For example, an applicant may submit a sculpture even if they are accepted to a photography program. There is no application fee. No late applications will be accepted.

The Toe River Arts Council (TRAC) Scholarships for the Arts is made possible by funding by the Enchantment Fund held by the Community Foundation of Western North Carolina (CFWNC).

Kate Groff is the Programs Coordinator for the Toe River Arts Council.

What Does the Lord Require?

By Jason Koon
Burke County

Micah 6:8 - He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?

Justice and Mercy, in our modern understanding, seem to be almost opposite concepts, yet God jumps them together in this passage. Why? It has to do with an Old Testament concept of justice. In the Old Testament, justice was thought about not in terms of punishing the offender, as much as it was in defending the victim and extending to the less fortunate, the poor, and the immigrant. A widow might go to a judge pleading for justice because she knows the biblical commandment to love the stranger and to help the widow. In our day, we tend to see justice in more of a negative light, and rightfully so. Justice that defends for the weak and the dispossessed also finds against the guilty, the sinner, and the oppressor. And as the Apostle Paul reminds us in Romans 3, we have all sinned, we stand guilty before God; we all bear some responsibility for the injustice and evil in the world because, at one time or another, we have all aligned ourselves with the forces of evil through our sin. Scripture’s universal denunciation of the human condition, and its universal proclamation is that justice calls for our destruction.

For those of us who have been forgiven, though, there is another aspect of justice we need to consider. We have been rescued from God’s justice in order to proclaim justice in the world around us.

Justice demands we be people who are working to see the poor lifted up and the immigrant welcomed in. Justice demands we work to build a world in which the orphan, the widow, and the minority matter, in which they are noticed and their cries for justice do not fall on deaf ears. When we think about justice in this sense, we realize how close it is to mercy.

In the book The Pietist Option, Mark Pattie observes that mercy and justice are two sides of the same coin. Mercy asks the question, “how can I alleviate suffering?” And justice asks, “how can I get at the root cause of suffering?” In other words, justice demands we work to move the world closer to the ideal Kingdom Jesus will bring with Him at His return.

As a whole, I think we are pretty good at practicing mercy today. We have our moments and our disasters, but overall Christians still have a hard time watching someone go hungry when they can spend a few dollars to prevent it. Justice, however, is a different story. Justice is difficult, there are no quick fixes, there are no easy answers. We live in a world that is unjust and will be unjust, on some level, until Christ’s return. That doesn’t mean we should be ok with the way things are. Jesus never was. Jesus, the Apostles, the Prophets all call us to work toward justice. This might hurt our own bottom line or cause us to lose standing with certain members of the community, but this is the call that permeates just about every book in the Bible, and it is a call that we can no longer ignore. We must be committed to working together to alleviate the suffering around us in real, big-picture ways.

As Micah wrote, “he has told you, O man, what he requires.”

But God...

By Pastor Dan Gualillo
Burke County

Most likely you have had those conversations that just seemed too good to be true. You were reluctant to truly accept all that was being said. Why? Because you were looking for that unanswerable shoe to drop that is shown by the word but a word that truly changes everything. That change may be for the better and it may be for the worse. It signifies a change of direction. Such is the case when we see the words but God in Scripture.

Joseph experienced a life of challenges. It seemed as though for every single step he took forward, he took two backwards. About the time that things would appear to improve, something else would take place. For years, Joseph faced many challenges, yet he never allowed himself to get bitter over that which he was experiencing. After his father passed, his brothers grew worried that he might execute revenge on them. Joseph explained in Genesis 50:20, “But as for you, ye thought evil against me, but God meant it unto good, to bring to pass, as it is this day, to save much people alive.” Joseph maintained the perspective that God was always in control. We too can have this same perspective.

One of the most famous but God phrases occurs in Ephesians 2. Paul explains to the believers in Ephesus what they were before salvation. Verses 1-5 make it clear that the unsaved person is spiritually dead in trespasses and sins and chooses to conduct his life in accordance with his own sinful desires. He is an object of God’s wrath; as such, he is a breath away from spending an eternity without Him. But all of that changed in verse four as Paul writes, “But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us….” Everything completely changes when God steps on the scene. A person’s life is radically transformed the very moment he places his trust in Christ as Savior. No longer the same, this person has a new life that desires holiness and surrender to Him Who gave us all. Thank God for the contrast when God steps on the scene!
